Hijacked plane flies to France

United Press International

CAIRO, Egypt — Two men hijacked a domestic Iranian flight with 145 passengers and crew Tuesday and forced it to the Persian Gulf state of Qatar where they freed all but three hostages and proceeded to Cairo, apparently on their way to France, officials said.

The state-controlled Middle East News Agency said the two hijackers, whose nationalities were not known, requested political asylum in Egypt upon landing in Cairo but their request was turned down.

After negotiations by radio, Egyptian authorities agreed to provide the Iranian Boeing 727 airliner with fuel and permit it to resume its flight, the agency said.

An official at Cairo Airport's control tower said the aircraft landed at the airport at about 3:40 p.m. EDT, after a three-hour flight from Qatar.

Authorities said the two hijackers and three crewmembers of the aircraft were taken to an air force base of the military annex at the airport late Tuesday while the plane was being refueled.

The plane was parked at the military airfield at the airport under heavy guard. The Middle East News Agency said the hijackers tried at first to land in Aswan, in southern Egypt, but were denied permission.

The agency also said the plane was refused permission to land in Cairo and yet it made a forced landing because it was running low on fuel.

An Egyptian official said the "new incident will be handled in the same way as the old one," referring to an Iranian military plane commandeered to Egypt about two weeks ago.

Four Iranian military officers aboard that plane were refused asylum in Egypt but given fuel to continue their flight. They are now in France where their request for political asylum is under study.

The Iranian news agency IRNA quoted the head of the national carrier, Iran Air, as saying the identity of the hijackers was not clear "but they are trying to fly to France and seek political asylum."

It was the second Iranian plane in two weeks to be hijacked to the Gulf and then flown to France for political asylum.

Common market fixes budget crisis

United Press International

FONTAINEBLEAU, France — The Common Market nations agreed Tuesday on a solution to a long-festering budget crisis that had brought the world's largest trade bloc to the brink of political and economic collapse.

"It comes as a great relief for us all," said Paul Cerf, spokesman for the executive commission of the 10-nation European Common Market. "After all, it would have been unthinkable that Europe could have fallen apart over a few million dollars."

The compromise capped a five-year struggle by British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher to obtain a reduction of Britain's payments into the European community budget.

Britain currently pays more into Common Market coffers than it receives in benefits and agricultural subsidies.

The agreement opened the way for President Francois Mitterrand of France, head of the 10-nation trade community, to open discussion on a fresh round of cooperative ventures ranging from culture to space research.

Under the compromise reached in Fontainebleau castle, Britain will get an $800 million cash rebate this year, although it will remain a net contributor of about $400 million.

More importantly for Thatcher, the agreement contained a long-term solution.

Iraq accused by Iran of shelling 3 towns

United Press International

ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates — Iran accused Iraq of shelling three of its towns, killing three people and wounding four others, in a new violation of a U.N.-mediated cease-fire protecting border cities.

The official Iranian news agency IRNA, quoting a military spokesman, said Iraqi artillery shelling destroyed many homes, in which "three civilians were martyred" and four others, including a 2-year-old girl, were wounded.

IRNA said the shelling came as a three-man U.N. team arrived in Tehran to monitor the June 12 agreement to halt attacks on civilian areas.

The truce, mediated by U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar, has been violated several times by both combatants, according to officials from Iraq and Iran.

Both countries also reported military clashes along their 730-mile border. Iran said 15 Iraqi troops were killed or wounded since Monday.

An Iraqi military spokesman, quoted by the official Iraqi news agency INA, said Iraqi helicopter gunships destroyed a boat east of the Tigris river, killing its occupants.

The agency also said Iraqi front line units killed one Iranian, captured two others and destroyed military equipment in the central sector of the war front.

The new outburst of shelling came as Jordan's King Hussein arrived unexpectedly in Saudi Arabia.
