'84 football districts affect high schools

United Press International
The Texas high school football season — a mammoth and traditional enterprise that features more than 1,000 teams playing more than 5,000 games over the course of the autumn — opens this weekend with the bi-annual redistricting process expected to play a key role throughout the state.

Every other year the University Interscholastic League moves teams around in the five state classifications because of increases or decreases in enrollment. The movement of a school either up or down in class can have a dramatic effect on the school's chances of capturing a district championship.

Dozens of schools found themselves changing class this season, with some of the more critical alterations involving the normally talented football programs of Willowridge, Gregory-Portland and Vernon.

But for the vast majority of schools, the simple playing of the games is the main thing since in many cases throughout rural Texas, the Friday night ritual of high school football is one of the top attractions of the year.

Scattered opening games were played Thursday night in the larger metropolitan areas, but the vast majority of action will take place Friday evening.

Converse-Judson (Class 5A), Bay City (Class 4A), Daingerfield (Class 3A), Boyd (Class 2A) and Knox City (Class 1A) will be defending their state titles and Bay City and Daingerfield enter the season favored to do so.

Judson is given little chance of repeating in the big-city classification, which will absorb a number of former Class 4A teams. Houston Madison is among the favorites along the Gulf Coast; Odessa Permian is the preseason pick in the football hotbed of West Texas; Longview is a popular choice from the eastern portion of the state; and Highland Park is being touted among the Dallas-Fort Worth schools.

Willowridge, a traditional Class 4A powerhouse, has been moved into Class 5A and will likely suffer as a result.

The opposite could be true for Gregory-Portland, which was dropped from 5A to 4A and could become an instant threat in its new classification. But Gregory-Portland will have to deal with Bay City, which overwhelmed its five playoff opponents last year by 153 points.

Houston thrashes S.F. Giants

United Press International
SAN FRANCISCO — Reynolds ripped his senior league grand slam as Knepper threw a seven-run Houston Astros rout San Francisco Giants 14-7 Saturday.

Knepper struck out seven batters in the 14th win of the season in nine losses. He also helped cause by going 2-for-4 at the plate and driving in three runs.

Houston put the game away with a six-run first inning starter Bill Laskey (7-12).

Oilers-Colts: Pass versus Run

United Press International
HOUSTON — Following the Houston Oilers' 24-14 loss to the Los Angeles Raiders, coach Hugh Campbell admitted the offensive game plan was conservative by design.

Against the Indianapolis Colts, though, the offense should open up to the style expected by Houston fans when quarterback Warren Moon was signed. Moon passed for more than 5,000 yards in each of his last two seasons in the Canadian Football League.

"They (the Raiders) can do so much with their corners that it frees other defensive backs to double-cover you over the middle. We felt we had to establish a running game to have any shot at being able to pass on them," Campbell said.

"We still passed the ball (29) times. A lot of teams don't throw it that many times," he said. The Colts, who play the Oilers in the Astrodome Sunday, have a young defensive secondary that should stay busy against Moon, said Indianapolis coach Frank Kush.

"He's a great athlete, an elusive and accurate passer," said Kush, who watched Moon play in the CFL while he was a coach for the Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

"It's an offense geared around a coach (Campbell, another CFL veteran) and a player (Moon). You'll see a great deal of passing, although they have some good running backs."

Earl Campbell, who saw little action in the preseason while he recuperated from arthroscopic knee surgery, rushed for 92 yards in the season opener.
