Twelfth Man creating havoc

By JAN PERRY
 Sports Writer

Even with a new coach and some new players, the Twelfth Man kickoff team still continues to do what it was designed for — creating havoc for opposing kick return specialists.

Roy Kokemoor, an Aggie graduate assistant coach, follows in the footsteps of A&M quarterback great David Beal as the coach of the Twelfth Man squad for '84.

The Ags only allowed an average of 13 yards a return last season, but that figure jumped to over 20 against UTEP two weeks ago.

Kokemoor doesn't appear worried about the seven yard increase — it's just about what the Ags want.

"Considering the wind, that's about what you'd expect," Kokemoor said. "Twenty yards is just about what you shoot for."

Satisfied with the team's performance against UTEP, Kokemoor said the team isn't doing any special to improve that average.

"We're just doing what we usually do," Kokemoor said. "We're going to try to cover a little better and run a little faster."

He said the new NCAA kickoff rule, which penalizes the kicker for kicking the ball out of the end zone, hasn't changed the squad's strategy much.

If a kicker launches the ball in the air past the end zone line, the receiving team starts play from the 35-yard-line instead of the 20.

"Across the country, the kick off has changed," Kokemoor said. "The kickers aren't trying to kick as hard as they use to. Because of that, they're getting a lot more return yardage."

Kokemoor said he has a great deal of confidence in his veteran Twelfth Man team.

Out of the 20-man roster, six of the 10 starters are returning from last year. The six returning starters are: Bill Allison, Tom Arthur, Larry Johnson, Ike Lyles (with two tackles against UTEP), Keith Newton and Ron Reynolds.

"They've all played football in high school," he said. "Maybe because they're an inch too short or a step to slow, they didn't make any regular college teams."

The team consists of all non-scholarship players. However, the team is pitted against scholarship athletes during practice and actual games.

"They go against the first units," Kokemoor said. "And contrary to what most people think, they're out there for the entire game.

"They've got to have a little give for them to go out there against the scholarship players," he said.

Part of the team's function is to act as a scrimmage team for the varsity players to practice against.

Astros' loss gives Padres NL West title

United Press International

HOUSTON — Candy Maldonado capped a four-run eighth inning with a two-run single and Orel Hershiser pitched a seven-hitter Thursday night to lift the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 6-2 victory over the Houston Astros.

The Astros' loss enabled the San Diego Padres to clinch first place in the National League West. The Padres beat the San Francisco Giants 5-4 earlier Thursday.

Hershiser walked none and struck out five in improving his record to 10-8 in his seventh complete game of the year. Nolan Ryan (12-11) left the game in the second after he aggravated a calf injury.

The Dodgers scored four runs in the eighth to put away the game and the season for the second-place Astros. Steve Sax reached second on a throwing error by shortstop Craig Reynolds and went to third on a wild pitch by reliever Frank DiPino. Dave Anderson's sacrifice fly scored Sax to give the Dodgers a 3-1 lead.

Ken Landreaux walked and pinch-runner Ed Amelung moved to third on Pedro Guerrero's single. Greg Brock's single scored Amelung and Mike Scioscia reached safely on first baseman Glenn Davis' error to load the bases. Maldonado then singled in two runs.

Los Angeles made it 1-0 in the second when Guerrero scored on Glenn Rivera's groundout.
