Cubs' fan has the blues

By JEFF GRAUNKE
Sports Writer

Hey, hey, holy mackerel, no doubt about it. The Chicago Cubs are on the way. Yes, sir, the awesome Chicago Cubs are on the run for number one. Not many Aggies may follow the Cubbies, or even care, but some of us "Yankees" are getting excited about them. I'm a Yankee, I'll admit it.

Being a Cubs fan is a prerequisite for Chicagoans. Cubs' home games are one of the best shows in town. For a mere $2 you can get a seat in the outfield bleachers. With the Cubs edging closer to the National League East division title, I'm getting a little homesick for days spent in the friendly confines of Wrigley Field instead of college classes.

The bleachers have a life all their own. Not just anybody sits in the hot afternoon sun to watch the Cubs. There are, of course, prerequisites.

You must have a beer in your hand at all times. Guys can't wear shirts and everybody has to eat at least one hotdog. Not just any hotdog, but a Chicago dog complete with mustard, ketchup, relish, onions, cucumbers, tomatoes, pickles, and peppers. Harry Carey is another phenomenon unique to only the Chicago Cubs.

Carey is the play-by-play television announcer for WGN TV Channel 9 in Chicago. Basically, he's somewhat of an institution in baseball broadcasting. One of his big gimmicks is hanging out of the broadcast booth during the seventh inning stretch and singing "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" over the public address system.

This season has been quite different from past seasons because the Cubbies have been doing something they've haven't done in 40 years — win games.

Now the bleachers are a guaranteed good time whether the Cubs are winning or losing. In the past the Cubs haven't been real successful. Usually the Cubbies play about .500 baseball until about mid-July. Then they start winning like crazy. The diehard Cubs fans get their hopes up and start speculating about a possible pennant or maybe even a World Series.

Unfortunately, what routinely happens is the Cubs start consistently losing toward the end of the season and wind up in fifth place, games out of first. The Cubs have history of doing this.

In 1969 the Cubs were in first place from opening day until the 10th of September. On that fatal afternoon the Cubs fell out of first place. The rest is history. Chicago lost 11 of their remaining 25 games and finished 8 games behind the amazing "Miracle" New York Mets.

Its this kind of inconsistency that really frustrates a true Cubs' fan. It seems as if the Cubs just like to tease their fans. Those familiar words, "this is the year" consistently turn into "wait 'til next year."

However, in 1984 it appears the familiar phrases will be forgotten as the Cubs close in on the NL East title. With the magic number down to one game, it seems as though there is little that can stop the awesome Cubbies from their destiny.

I only wish I could sit in the bleachers one more time this season. I just want to sit around drink some beers, have a hotdog, catch some rays, and watch some baseball — winning baseball that is.

Wacker's TCU Horned Frogs no longer toads of the town

United Press International

At long last the frog seems to be turning into a prince and if something isn't done in a hurry the former amphibian may take over the whole palace.

The TCU Horned Frogs, who have played the role of lowly toads for the better part of a generation, must now be taken seriously.

It isn't just that TCU has won two games in a row for the first time in five years. But over the last two weekends the Frogs have managed to score more points than they ever have before in back-to-back games. After listening to questions all week about whether their 62-18 season opening stomp of Utah State could possibly be repeated, the Frogs went out and thrashed Kansas State Saturday night, 42-10.

Now TCU will take on 12th-ranked SMU, a team that owns a dozen straight wins over the Frogs and a team that also looked quite vulnerable Saturday evening in a 24-6 decision over North Texas State. "I'm not surprised we're 2-0," said TCU coach Jim Wacker. "But I'm surprised we have won by the scores we have. "Now we have to prove it against a great SMU team.

"Our kids have to be realistic about playing SMU. They have a great, great team and we haven't beaten them in 100,000 years or so. They will be a great test for us."

Except for season openers, SMU and TCU have not faced each other when both were unbeaten since 1935. But it will happen again next Saturday night at Texas Stadium.

The Frogs impressive decision over the Wildcats, featuring a 239-yard rushing night from Tony Jeffrey, highlighted a weekend in which five of eight Southwest Conference teams managed to pick up victories — running the league's intersectional record to 11-5-1.

Rice University came from 13 points behind to beat Lamar, 36-19, for only the Owls' second win in 25 games.

Despite the fact the Owls beat a Division I-AA opponent, Rice students were so overwhelmed by their team breaking an eight-game losing streak that they tore down the goal post in the north end zone.

"Hey," said new Rice coach Weson Brown. "I'll put up new ones every week. I'll take the bill straight to the top."

Elsewhere the news was not so positive.

Houston jumped to an early lead against eighth-rated Washington State, but the Cougars crumbled in the second half and lost, 35-7. The Baylor Bears, meanwhile, put up good scrap against third-ranked Oklahoma, but were simply overwhelmed, 34-15.

And in New Mexico, Texas Tech gave up an 11-point lead in the fourth quarter and suffered a disappointing setback against the Louisiana State Tigers, 29-24. The win by 12th-ranked SMU over North Texas was less than inspiring with neither of the Mustangs' alternating tailbacks reaching the 100-yard mark.
