

Winds of change cause dissension

Miami's national ranking falls

United Press International
 MIAMI — Reports of dissension in the University of Miami football camp have persisted since the 38-3 shellacking Saturday by Florida State and the Hurricanes' plummet in the polls.
 One theory is that the changeover from Howard Schnellenberger to Coach Jimmy Johnson has been less than smooth. One unidentified player was quoted as complaining he was getting told one thing by one assistant coach and another thing by another member of the staff.
 The implication was that there are differences of opinion between holdovers from Schnellenberger's staff and the assistants Johnson brought in.
 A steely-eyed Johnson, who took over the defending national collegiate champions in August, coldly disputed the theory at a tense meeting with reporters Tuesday.
 "I really don't see the transition as being a factor," Johnson said.
 He has put into effect a new hard-nosed approach that includes more discipline and less tolerance? No and yes.
 "I haven't put my foot down. I've adjusted my approach," Johnson

"I think the image that's coming across is that we've got a whole lot of problems and I really don't feel we do," said Miami offensive lineman David Heffernan. "The wheels fell off on Saturday and we're going to get back on track this Saturday."

said. "Before, I was in a situation where it was best not to make waves and make rules. There were a minimum amount of changes.
 "Now we have to do what we have to do. I have to do things I believe in doing."
 Johnson didn't have any kind words for the report about conflicts within his staff.
 "It doesn't take a lot to ask, instead of quoting an unidentified source," he said. "I don't know what the motives of a lot of people are. I think it would have been better to approach the thing in a proper manner."
 "What we do within the team and on the staff stays among the team and the staff."
 Quarterback Bernie Kosar wasn't as charitable.

"I think the internal conflict has been magnified by what I think are just out-and-out lies that I've read or heard about," Kosar said.
 David Heffernan, the articulate offensive lineman who has become one of the team's spokesmen prefers to look ahead.
 "I think the image that's coming across is that we've got a whole lot of problems and I really don't feel we do," he said. "The wheels fell off on Saturday and we're going to get back on track this Saturday."
 Whether the rumors of dissension and turmoil are correct or not, there is another theory that makes sense — burnout.
 Johnson and Kosar both hint this is the case. After the spectacular victories over Auburn and Florida, there was no place to go but down emotionally.

 "I think the big problem was after the Florida game, the way we came back, was we expected to come back against Michigan and go out and do good," Kosar said. "And after Michigan, we expected to come back against Purdue. Then even though we beat Purdue, we didn't do that good, we expected to come out in our home opener and be ready to play. You can't expect things to happen. You have to make them happen."
 Johnson echoed Florida State Coach Bobby Bowden's comment after the game. Bowden said he wasn't afraid of the Hurricanes at all because of the rugged schedule they had played.
 "Quite a few people are looking for causes, reasons and even scapegoats," Johnson said. "We came off an extremely difficult schedule and were whipped by an outstanding Florida State football team."
 If there are serious problems behind the scenes, the cure may be at hand this week in the Rice Owls. They're 1-1 including a loss to the Minnesota Gophers.

Texas Instruments to launch Job Fair Tues., Oct. 2, 1984 Memorial Student Center, Texas A & M Rooms 212-224

TI's technical managers want to see you. They want to tell you about the job opportunities in the many technologies which make Texas Instruments a leader in electronics. That's why TI is having a Job Fair on the Texas A & M campus October 2nd through the 4th. It gives the company three days to bring in dozens of key engineers and managers to meet you. They'll come from TI labs and sites in all parts of Texas; to describe programs, answer questions, interview, and invite you to their facilities.
 If you're a top student, particularly in EE or Computer Science, this is an event you won't want to miss.

- Briefing and sign-ups for interviews 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Oct. 2, at Memorial Student Center, Texas A & M, Rooms 212-224.
- Interviews (by appointment) Oct. 3 and 4. Invitations for plant visits will be extended on those days as appropriate.

Semiconductor Group — world's leading supplier of semiconductor components, materials and technology.
Semiconductor Sales — responsible for sales of state-of-the-art technologies such as speech synthesis, microprocessors, logic arrays and MOS memories.

SIGN UP FOR INTERVIEWS IF YOU ARE GRADUATING IN DECEMBER.

- Bachelor's, master's or PhD degrees in:
- Electrical Engineering
 - Computing Science
 - Aerospace Engineering
 - Mechanical Engineering
 - Industrial Engineering*
 - Physics (Engineering and Solid-State)
 - MBA with technical undergraduate degree (Semiconductor Sales ONLY)
 - Electrical Engineering Technology*
 - Business Analysis
 - Business Computing Science
 - Industrial Production Management Technology*

*Only for production engineering such as manufacturing and quality assurance.

NOTE: Persons majoring in any degree with at least 18 hours of computer science will be eligible to interview with the Information Systems and Services Group (IS&S).

TALK TO TI'S MAJOR PRODUCT & SERVICE GROUPS.

Equipment Group — state-of-the-art government electronics including very high-speed integrated circuits, electro-optics, radar and digital systems, missile guidance systems, and RF/Microwave systems in both design and production. U.S. citizenship required.

Information Systems & Services — state-of-the-art computer systems and services to TI's worldwide operations.

Data Systems Group — responsible for design, manufacture, marketing and servicing of digital equipment — mini/microcomputers, disk storage, data terminals, computer peripheral equipment and more.

Corporate R & D and Engineering — pioneering the technologies required by present and future business opportunities.

Corporate Facilities — responsible for layout, engineering and designing the building and facilities systems necessary for manufacturing and testing TI products.

Locations: Austin, Dallas, Houston, Lewisville, College Station, Temple, Midland, McKinney, Sherman, Abilene, and (for semiconductor sales) all major U.S. cities.

Candidates must be registered with the Placement Office.

Bring your data sheet or resume. See you on October 2.
