

99¢ Pitcher of Beer
With Pizza Old Mil.

SPECIAL at Papa's Pizza SPECIAL
At Alfredo's

FREE DELIVERY

846-0079 New York Style 846-3824
Hours: 5-12 Daily -The Best- Open early Thurs. & Fri.

16" Supreme Cheese $5.99	2 for 1 Drinks 99¢ each x-tra item	16" Deluxe Supreme Dream $10.99
---------------------------	------------------------------------	----------------------------------

CO-OP FAIR

On Monday, October 15, the employers listed below will have booths in Zachry Engineering Center. These employers will be primarily interested in hiring co-op students, but if you are interested in either summer employment or full-time employment, please feel free to stop by. The Co-op Fair will be held between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. with the exception of a lunch break from 11:45 to 12:30.

EMPLOYER	LOCATION
Dow Chemical, USA	Freeport
General Dynamics	Fort Worth
Houston Lighting & Power	Houston
IBM Corporation	Austin/Clear Lake
Lockheed Missiles & Space	Austin
MCI Telecommunications	Richardson
Motorola	Austin
NASA-Johnson Space Center	Clear Lake
National Security Agency	Washington, D.C.
Rockwell International	Dallas
TRW-Optron	Carrollton
Trane Co., Inc.	Tyler
U.S. Army Aviation Center	Fort Rucker, AL

Biomedical Science Association

MEETING
ROOM 201 VMS
7:00 pm

date OCTOBER 9, 1984
topic ANIMAL CONTROL

Lynn McCulloch, Operations Manager, Brazos Animal Shelter
and Dr. Bill McCulloch, Professor, Veterinary Public Health

One flew over the animal house

THE LOWEST FORM OF HIGHER EDUCATION
NEAL STEPHENSON
THE BIG U.

The scene: American Megaversity — The Big U. The time: fall semester enrollment, 1984 or thereabouts. Overage freshman Casimir Radon is up to his neck in red tape, two of his dormmates engage in stereo warfare (heavy-metal vs. fugues), a "worm" eats away at the crucial computer system, "The Airheads" (?) battle "The Terrorists" (δ), and the rest of the campus has become a hotbed of cults, mutant rats, Crotobaltoslavonian freedom-fighters, radioactive waste, educational theory, drugs, Dungeons & Dragons... You have only two ways to find out what happens. Transfer to American Megaversity. Or read THE BIG U. It's a novel.

A Vintage Original Paperback
Now at your bookstore, or for credit card orders call TOLL-FREE: 1-800-638-6460

VINTAGE'S 30TH ANNIVERSARY YEAR VINTAGE BOOKS
A division of Random House

COUPON

FREE
Enlargement with every color roll processed.

In by 10, Out by 5
We honor all coupons

Exp. Date
Oct. 31, 1984
* No 110 8x10's

DENCO
PHOTO & CAMERA

119 Walton Drive
College Station
696-0371

Tinsley's
Chicken 'n rolls

$1.59
2 Pieces of Chicken, 1 roll and 1 vegetable side order. Regularly $2.13
No limit on number of purchases per coupon.
Offer expires 10/11/84

1905 Texas Ave. 693-1669
705 N. Texas Ave. 822-2819
512 Villa Maria 822-5277

Farmer's Market
Grab a date and come for dinner

Chicken Fried Steak $5.95
Fried Catfish All You Can Eat $5.95
Mon-Sat 5-9 pm

dinners include a trip to the salad bar baked potato or french fries Cold Spirits Available

Good Tastin' Bar-B-Q
catering services available
100 people or more Bar-B-Q plates $3.75
Less than 100 people $3.95

Finfeather College Texas Main
810 S. Main Bryan 779-6417

Tech 'staining won't rinse out

I got home after the Aggie game Saturday and kicked off my new Sperry Top-Siders, only to discover that the rain-drenching they had just received at Kyle Field had caused them to stain my feet red.

It seemed appropriate. If I had only had a few balls of black lint from Friday's socks still clinging between my toes, it would have been perfect.

Like so many "high plains drifters," Texas Tech painted a lot of our faces red too.

All I could hear in the stands Saturday was fans groaning, gasping and cursing. (Yes, they were cursing.) Others expressed their discontent by stoically standing in the rain.

I did a little bit of everything. At last Tuesday's press conference, Head Coach Jackie Sherrill had me believing that all was well in the Aggie camp and that A&M had won their first three games the "hard way" because that was the way it should be done early in the season.

That makes sense. I felt better about the Aggies not delivering crushing defeats to their starving fans. They were simply tuning up a lot of players and working out some kinks in consistency. Okay, I'll buy that this time.

Friday evening, I found myself arguing with another fan about Aggie football. He has the same views that I've heard a lot of fans express. First, the Aggies don't win enough. Second, the coaching is overrated. Finally, the Aggies don't play good non-conference teams.

I argued until the veins bulged in my neck because I felt like he didn't understand that the Aggies had not intended to kill their opponents and that he didn't understand that Iowa State, Arkansas State and UTEP were better than people thought.

I don't necessarily believe that but the way he twisted his ball according to Sherrill was enough to convince me that Aggie fans form their opinions from what they see on the field rather than what they hear from anybody. No coach talking about his team or sportswriter writing about what the coach says makes a bit of difference.

We're at a point in the season where the smokescreen breaks up.

The news is out and it's the same as the old news. The Aggies are struggling on the field.

I can hardly wait to hear what Sherrill is going to say at next week's press conference.

But I learned my lesson at Tech game. I'm wearing my waders to this Aggie road.

TONY CORNETT
Sports Writer

Padres shatter Cubs' dreams

United Press International

SAN DIEGO — The San Diego Padres now know what heaven is all about.

Talk about your impossible dreams. The Padres beat the seemingly unbeatable man, Rick Sutcliffe, Sunday and defeated the Chicago Cubs 6-3 behind a four-run seventh-inning rally to win their first pennant in their 16-year history.

San Diego also became the first NL team to win a best-of-five playoff after losing the first two games. The Padres play the Detroit Tigers in the World Series, beginning Tuesday night at San Diego. Jack Morris will pitch for the Tigers and Mark Thurmond for the Padres.

The clinching victory was aided by a Cubs' collapse that mirrored the frustrations the franchise has endured for 39 years.

"We got some breaks," admitted San Diego manager Dick Williams, "and we took advantage of them. Then everything fell into place. I always had hope we would get to Sutcliffe but he had stymied us every time we went out there."

Held for five innings to only two hits by Sutcliffe, who had won 15 straight games, including a 13-0 triumph in the series opener, the Padres began their comeback by scoring twice in the sixth on sacrifice flies by Graig Nettles and Terry Kennedy to pull within 3-2.

Then, in the seventh, the clear blue California sky fell on the Cubs. Sutcliffe walked Carmelo Martinez to start the inning and Garry Templeton sacrificed. Pinch-hitter Tim Flannery, batting for winning reliever Craig Lefferts, grounded to first baseman Durham. The ball went between Durham's legs and Martinez scored the tying run.

"We were looking for one break and we got it," said Steve Garvey, the series' Most Valuable Player. "Bull (Durham) had an excellent season and he's a fine first baseman but the ball never came up. It stayed down and was the break that kept us going."

Alan Wiggins then dumped a single into short left and with the record-setting crowd of 58,359 on its feet screaming, Tony Gwynn ripped a bouncer over the glove of second baseman Ryne Sandberg for a two-run double.

Garvey, the hero of Saturday night's 7-5 victory with five RBI, singled in Gwynn to all but end Chicago's hope for its first pennant since 1945.

"It wasn't that I was really hit that hard until Garvey's hit," said Sutcliffe, who was 16-1 with the Cubs this season and is the leading candidate for the NL's Cy Young Award. "They happened to find the holes, that's baseball. I'm not looking for excuses, I made some mistakes and we lost the game."

Cubs manager Jim Frey said he had no intention of pulling his ace right-hander early in the inning.

"I can't deny the fact that this is one of the major reasons we're in this position," Frey said. "He was throwing well up there. If either the balls had been caught, we would have been out of the situation. The second ball (Gwynn's double) could've been a double play. He hit hard and took a bad hop."

With Rich Gossage pitching ninth and the crowd cheering, the Padres' ace reliever got by getting Durham on a 1-0 Gwynn in right. Keith Moseley kept Cubs' hopes alive with a pop to right but Gossage got Ron Cey a pop to second and Jody Davis force out to end the game.

The Padres mobbed Gwynn while hundreds of fans ran onto the field with no police to stop them. Fireworks erupted beyond the outfield fence as the fans roared in unison and applauded wildly.

Chicago began as if it would out the Padres as Durham smacked a two-run homer in the first and Davis belted a solo shot into off the second. Both homers were off Eric Show, who was tagged five homers in his two playoff games. But they proved to be the last for the Cubs.

Suddenly, their bats went dead. Over the final seven innings, Gwynn managed just two hits off Fireflies and from the fourth through the seventh innings did not get a runner on base.

Andy Hawkins took over Show in the second and was replaced by Dave Dravecky in the fourth. The winner in Games 4 and 5 entered in the sixth and worked five innings before turning to Gossage who nailed down the final out for a save.

Chicago threatened in the eighth when pinch-hitter Richie Hebner was hit by a pitch with one out. Sandberg singled with two outs. Gossage reared back to strike Gary Matthews.

The Cubs' demise started in the sixth when Wiggins led off with a drag-bunt single and Gwynn followed with a single to left. Gwynn then walked to load the bases. Gwynn not out and Nettles got the first home with a sacrifice fly to center.

Kennedy hit a liner to left. Gwynn looked as if it would go for a bases but Matthews lunged across the body to make the catch as he bled to the ground. Gwynn tagged third and scored to bring San Diego within 3-2.

The game marked the end of the major-league umpires. The umpires, who have been on strike since the end of the regular season, came back after Commissioner Peter Ueberroth agreed to step in as arbitrator in the contract talks.

Some of the conditions of the arbitration were worked out Sunday and the final session will be Monday in San Diego or Detroit.

All Recognized Student Organizations...

IT'S NOT TOO LATE!

...To be included in The 1985 Aggieland

Contracts Available At 011 Reed McDonald

Absolute Contract Deadline Friday Oct. 12

"Call YBA (693-6756) to Schedule Photo Sessions by Oct. 26"

Check Your Box At MSC For More Information