Landry says Hogeboom still No. 1

United Press International
 DALLAS — Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry said Tuesday he would stick with Gary Hogeboom as his starting quarterback. But Landry said he would not hesitate to bring in former starter Danny White if he thought that move was the best way to win a game.

"The main thing we are trying to do now is win football games," said Landry as his team began to prepare for Sunday's critical meeting with the Washington Redskins. "And it is a tough battle for us to win games right now."

"I'll pick who I think can get the job done at that given moment."

Landry said that would be the case throughout the roster.

"We're a team together and we are going to bring people in and out trying to win games," he said. "If egos are hurt and people start worrying about that, then they are not much of a team player anyway."

Hogeboom, in his first year as a starter, was replaced by White late in the third quarter last Sunday while Dallas was in the process of losing to the St. Louis Cardinals. The Cowboys were behind at the time by 18 points and eventually lost by 11.

The first appearance of White at quarterback this season touched off another round of Hogeboom-White debate, which was the No. 1 topic throughout the Cowboys' training camp.

"Gary will start this game," Landry said. "When I made the decision at the start of the season I said I would move White into the game anytime I felt it was in the best interest of the team. That's what I did Sunday."

Landry said, however, he had not lost his enthusiasm for his young starting quarterback.

"I'm just as solidly behind Gary as I was before," Landry said. "I still figure he has all the potential he had when we made the decision. It's still there. Look at the quarterback in Denver (John Elway). He has come into his own, but he struggled when he was a rookie."

Landry also said he was fairly sure wide receiver Tony Hill, who has been on the injured reserve list with a separated shoulder, would be activated for the game with Washington. But Landry said he would have to wait and see Hill in action during practice.

Tigers' Morris buries Padres with pitching

United Press International
 SAN DIEGO — Larry Herndon provided the muscle with a two-run homer and Jack Morris the heart with a gritty pitching performance Tuesday night to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 3-2 victory over the San Diego Padres in the first game of the World Series.

The best-of-seven series continues at San Diego Jack Murphy Stadium Wednesday night with Dan Petry pitching for the Tigers and Ed Whitson going for the Padres.

Herndon, who hit only seven homers during the season after belting 20 and 23 the previous two years, cracked an opposite-field blast off loser Mark Thurmond, with two out in the fifth inning. It came after a double by Lance Parrish to put the Tigers ahead 3-2.

The victory, however, did not come easy for the team that won more games than any other (104) during the season and swept the Kansas City Royals in the American League playoffs.

They needed a gutsy performance by Morris to get it. The Tiger right-hander, a 19-game winner this year, was in trouble during his route-going performance, but consistently made the big pitch.

Morris scattered eight hits, struck out nine and walked three in notching his second post-season victory this year. He beat Kansas City with a five-hitter over seven innings in the first game of the AL playoffs.

After giving up a two-run double in the first, Morris pitched his way out of trouble in the third, fifth, sixth and seventh innings — with the aid of his strikeout pitch and some fine defense.

His strongest effort — in the game's most dramatic moment — came in the sixth when he struck out Bobby Brown, Carmelo Martinez and Garry Templeton in succession after Graig Nettles and Kennedy led off the inning with successive singles.

A well-executed relay play from right fielder Kirk Gibson to second baseman Lou Whitaker to third baseman Marty Castillo helped Morris survive the seventh inning. The throw cut down Kurt Bevacqua trying to stretch a leadoff double into a triple. Bevacqua, the designated hitter, stumbled rounding second and that proved to be the break the Tigers needed.

It looked as if the Padres might make Morris' night a horror when they rapped him for three straight hits in the first inning to score two. After the Tigers took a 1-0 lead on a leadoff double by Whitaker and a single by Alan Trammell, the Padres rocked Morris for singles by Steve Garvey and Nettles and Kennedy's two-run double into the Tigers' bullpen with two out.

Houston Gambler owner considers purchase of shaky L.A. franchise

United Press International
 HOUSTON — The Los Angeles Express lost $17 million this year, but a co-owner of the Houston Gamblers Tuesday was considering buying the club because it is "the world's greatest opportunity."

The USFL franchise has been for sale nearly four months — since the league took over operation of the franchise from J. William Oldenburg in July. But Jay Roulier said he still wants the team.

"People have a fear of the L.A. deal because of Oldenburg losing money," Roulier said. "I see it as the world's greatest opportunity. They have a hell of a team, a great quarterback and it's an important franchise to the league."

Roulier has asked the USFL to allow him to sell his $4 million equity in the Gamblers or transfer it to the Express.

"All I can tell you is what Don Klosterman, our president, has said," Express spokesman Bob Rose said in Los Angeles. "He has confirmed that Roulier is one of the prospective, interested buyers. That's about all."

TAMU BIOCHEMISTRY SOCIETY MEETING

Maurice wants us to fly to the States to attend the TAMU Biochemistry Society meeting. Evidently that renowned biochemist from Baylor College of Medicine, John Wilson, is going to speak.

Great! It's about time that we learned how to build a model of genetic rearrangement in mammalian cells. And also learn about Baylor College of Medicine!
