

'TAKE THE PRESSURE OFF OF US CRAIG... DON'T MAKE US LOOK BAD.'

have stayed aggressive, but they (Baylor) let them throw the ball. They should have stayed more aggressive and made them earn that (winning) touchdown."

Teal likes the way Aggie freshman Craig Stump is developing as a SWC quarterback.

"I'm trying to get him confident," Teal said. "If I'm going out a route, I'll tap him on the shoulder and say, 'If you get pressure, just throw it early before I make my break.'"

The Baylor defense enjoyed success stopping SMU's running game. For only the seventh time in the last 35 games, the Mustangs failed to have a 100-yard plus rusher.

All-SWC tailback Reggie Dupard of SMU was limited to 65 yards on 9 carries by a swarming Bear defense. The Aggies will probably have to pass more and, when that happens Teal, will get a chance to prove his claim of being the best receiver in the conference.

Campbell's Oilers facing 0-8 against tough 49ers

United Press International

HOUSTON — Asked if San Francisco's first loss of the season last week would make Sunday's game against the 49ers more difficult, Oilers coach Hugh Campbell was short and to the point with his answer.

"Yes," said one of only two NFL coaches still searching for a win this season.

"It's been my experience really fine football teams like the 49ers avoid losing two in a row," Campbell said. "After a loss they will look at the film more closely and analyze themselves more closely."

San Francisco, 6-1, fell 20-17 to the Pittsburgh Steelers this past week. The Oilers extended their record road losing streak to 22 games with a 28-10 loss to Miami.

Campbell, in his first year as an NFL coach, joked at a news conference this week that he already has experience with 49ers coach Bill Walsh.

"I played high school football against a Bill Walsh coached team," Campbell said.

The result? "Would you believe this? Halloween night. Both teams' colors were orange and black and it was a 13-13 tie."

Thirteen points would beat the Oilers' output in four games this season. The most they scored was 21 against Indianapolis, 2-5, and they twice scored 14 points in a game, against the Raiders and San Diego.

The Buffalo Bills are the only team keeping Houston from being recognized as the worst in the NFL. But the Oilers are the worst in several categories.

The Oilers are last in the NFL in scoring, 11.7 points a game; last in average total offense, 265.6 yards; last in average rushing, 80.1 yards; last in average points allowed, 28.5, and last in average total defense, 386.7.

Only New Orleans is worse in rushing defense. Offensive coordinator Kay Dalton

Wednesday tried to shake up his young offensive line.

"I can't change your personalities," Dalton told a team whose starting offensive lineup against Miami averaged 2.5 years of pro football experience. "I can't change your attitudes. You're good players. But somehow you've got to grow up — fast."

"I mean faster than you normally could if you were one of only two or three rookies on a veteran team. Because this is a tough (expletive deleted) game."

Running back Larry Moriarty, in his second season as a pro, said the pep talk was excellent.

"This is the first time Coach Dalton ever got on some guys and let them know, 'Do whatever it takes to win,'" Moriarty said. "He didn't say play dirty but smack 'em, because they're going to do it to us."

Dalton did not pick on individuals but leaned on them in groups.

"What we've got is a bunch of young guys and no leadership," Dalton said. "All I wanted to get across to them was that we're a talented bunch of guys, so let's get with it. For example, I've told the running backs, because we don't have any big-play talent there, 'Look, let's just hit it. Hell with it. You know where the hole is supposed to be, so just hit it as quick and as aggressive as you can. If the hole is there, great. If it's not, at least you'll knock somebody down and make a yard or two, instead of pussyfooting up there."

Oilers' Larry Moriarty

Dalton said the Oilers can move the ball.

"I'm trying to get the guys — because they're young players — to take every game with the same attitude and play it with the same intensity no matter who we're playing. And we will win, sooner or later."

The 49ers say that "sooner or later" means after this week. Cornerback Eric Wright, who was flagged for a costly interference penalty against the Steelers, said San Francisco's defensive effort last week was one of the worst.

"They (Pittsburgh) were killing us with the run," he said. "We couldn't have punched our way out of the paper bag."

Wright said it would be foolhardy for the 49ers to approach the Oilers as a winless team.

"They are going to play us just as hard as every other team has this year," he said. "We are not going to play them like an 0-7 team."
