

Dallas suffers injuries

United Press International

DALLAS — The Dallas Cowboys said Monday both of their dueling quarterbacks sustained minor injuries during the team's comeback win over New Orleans, but that both were listed as probable for next Sunday's meeting with the Indianapolis Colts.

Coach Tom Landry, therefore, will have to make up his mind on whether to start a quarterback with a bruised wrist (Gary Hogeboom) or one with a sprained ankle (Danny White).

There was no immediate indication concerning Landry's thinking on the quarterback situation, which was given another twist in the Cowboys' 30-27 overtime victory over the Saints.

For the third straight week White came in to relieve Hogeboom with the Cowboys trailing badly. This time, however, Dallas rallied for 21 points in the fourth quarter and won it with Rafael Septien's 41-yard field goal in the extra period.

During the continuing quarterback controversy Landry has made a habit of announcing his starter for the next week on Tuesday during his weekly meeting with area media.

Hogeboom injured his wrist on a pass which turned into a 43-yard interception return for a touchdown by New Orleans' Dennis Winston.

"I couldn't even grip the ball after that," said Hogeboom. "There is no way I could have kept playing."

White, however, sprained an ankle during his time in the game and also strained a muscle in his rib cage.

The most serious injury coming out of the game was sustained by rookie linebacker Billy Cannon, who was hit in the back during the first quarter of the game and suffered a bruised spinal cord.

X-rays taken at a local hospital proved negative and doctors said his prognosis was good. Cannon was expected to be released from the hospital on Tuesday, with his status for next weekend listed as doubtful.

Defensive back Dexter Clinkscale (bruised thigh), wide receiver Doug Donley (strained hamstring) and running back Timmy Newsome (bruised thigh) were all listed as questionable.

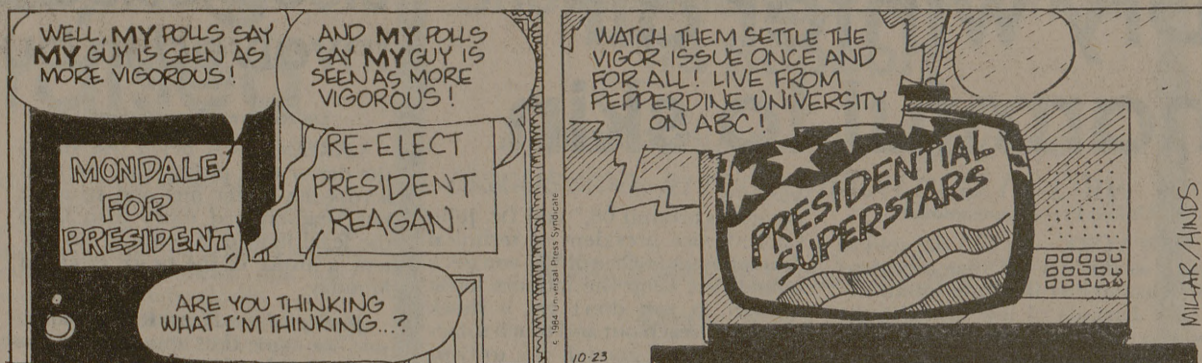

White said he did not want to speculate on the possibility Landry might start the second half of the season with the quarterback he had replaced at the opening of the campaign.

"I wouldn't say I deserve to start," said White. "Like I said a long time ago, I didn't think I deserved to lose the job and I don't think he (Hogeboom) deserves to lose it because of the way he's played."

"We're having trouble team-wise, especially offensively. Without 10 guys around you all doing their job in support of you, you can't do your job. That's the nature of the quarterback position."

TANK McNAMARA®

by Jeff Millar & Bill Hinds

Colombian golf duo is big asset to Aggies

By BRANDON BERRY
Reporter

To most people, a "Colombian Connection" conjures up visions of shady dealings and illegal substances. But for Texas A&M women's golf coach Kitty Holley, Colombia has given her a special type of Colombian gold.

Patricia Gonzalez and Susie Faccini are the most successful members of this year's golf team. Coincidentally, they are both Colombians.

Gonzalez, a 24-year-old senior business major, said the road from tiny Armenia, Colombia, was a long and winding one.

"When I graduated from high school," Gonzalez said, "I didn't plan on going to school in the U.S. I couldn't even speak English."

However, after a year at La Universidad Javerriana in Colombia, Gonzalez decided to join her older sister in Houston and give American colleges a try — after she had learned English.

"I spent a year at the University of Houston," Gonzalez said. "All I did was learn English and practice my golf."

Duke Butler, President of the Houston Golf Association, saw Gonzalez at one of her golf practices.

Butler, an Aggie alumnus, invited Gonzalez to visit Texas A&M and play a few holes of golf. Gonzalez was offered an A&M scholarship and the "Colombian Connection" was complete.

"I was recruited by USC and Florida State," Gonzalez said, "but my father didn't like the idea of me living alone in Los Angeles."

Gonzalez said her father has always been an important influence in her decisions.

"I could never have accomplished any of my goals without my father's support," Gonzalez said.

"When my friends, who were older, went away to college," Gonzalez said, "my father took me out and taught me golf so I wouldn't need other people to play with."

"From the first swing, my father knew I could be a good player."

With nine years of practice, lessons and tournaments Gonzalez has developed her outstanding driving ability.

"My swing is fine," she said, "but my putting is where I need to improve."

Photo by MIKE SANCHEZ

Texas A&M women's golf team member Patricia Gonzalez practices her putting at the University Golf Course.

Even without the desired putting skills, Gonzalez' game has been good enough for her to win the 1979 Colombian National Amateur Championship, a second place finish in the 1981 World Pairs Championship and All-Southwest Conference recognition for the 1981-82 season.

Gonzalez was third in the SWC in scoring average last season.

Gonzalez said the highpoint of her collegiate career wasn't a personal performance, but rather a team victory: the 1981 team won the conference championship her freshman year.

"We had such a close team that year," she said, "and everything was still so new to me."

Gonzalez said playing for Texas A&M has not been without its ups and downs however.

"I didn't have a good sophomore season," she said. "I had a lot of personal problems, and they affected my game."

"I considered transferring to another school because I just wasn't happy here," Gonzalez said.

But Gonzalez decided to stick it out at Texas A&M. Gonzalez said she has not regretted her decision.

"The bad times didn't last forever," she said, "and I know I am getting a great education here."

Houston: best versus NFL elite

United Press International

HOUSTON — Oilers head coach Hugh Campbell said Monday he wants his winless players to play equally hard every game, even though it appears they do best against the NFL's leading teams.

The Oilers Sunday lost 34-21 to the 7-1 San Francisco 49ers, but they were within a touchdown of winning until midway through the fourth quarter. The previous week, the Oilers, now 0-8, lost 28-10 to Miami, 8-0.

After averaging 265.6 yards per game the first seven weeks, the Oiler offense exploded Sunday for 432 yards, their highest of the season. Quarterback Warren Moon had the best day of his NFL career, completing 25 of 33 passes for 356 yards and two touchdowns.

"Under your plan, we would have said yesterday go out and have a good time but don't get hurt because next week's the big one," Campbell said to a reporter's observation that the Oilers do best against good teams and not so good against poor teams.

The Oilers host Cincinnati, 2-6, Sunday. The Bengals defeated the Oilers, 13-3, on Oct. 7, but the Oilers are looking for a win to start the second half of their season.

Campbell said he enjoyed leaving the Astrodome Sunday more than on any previous Sunday, even though the Oilers again lost.

"Any successes you have help you believe that you're going the right way and that you can have more successes that add up to a win," he said.

However, he said players still have that "empty feeling" looking for a win.

Emilio's

Pizza-n-Subs

Grand Opening!

Delicious Italian Foods & Pizza

150 ft from the Cow Hop's Back Door, next to Kinko's
317 Patricia, College Station

YOU have a Clear Choice!

Republican
Joe Barton: (Aggie)

His opponent liberal
Dan Kubiak: (t.u.)

-endorsed by Pres. Reagan & Phil

REPUBLICAN JOE BARTON

- endorsed by President

Reagan and Phil Gramm

- 1972 graduate of Texas A&M

- Washington experience as a

White House Fellow under

President Reagan

- against raising taxes

- for voluntary school prayer

- for a balanced budget

without raising taxes

- for a stronger defense

- supports ending the nuclear threat by building an anti-missile defense system

His opponent LIBERAL

Dan Kubiak

- supports Mondale and

Doggett

- a t.u. graduate

- no Washington experience

- ran against Gramm and lost

- ran for eight offices in the past 15 years

- favors Mondale's plan of raising taxes

- against voluntary school

prayer

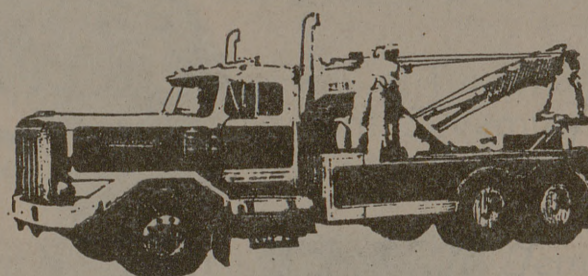

In the past 15 yrs. Kubiak has run for 8 offices. How many more times will it take before he realizes we don't want an office seeker like him representing us?

Elect Joe Barton to U.S. Congress

To join Aggies for Barton or for more info. on Joe Call 775-0303

Paid for by Friends of Joe Barton for U.S. Congress. Ken McGrody, treasurer.

In Case of an Emergency CALL US!

FREE wrecker service for A&M students. If we fix your car (limit $50<sup>00</sup>)

Just tell the wrecker driver to bring the car to Auto Body Specialties and bill us
We do the rest!

1. Safe security storage
  2. Free insurance estimates
  3. Multiple Estimate service
  4. Fast repair service
  5. Highest quality work
  6. We work with all dealerships for factory parts
  7. Only 3 miles from TAMU
  8. Foreign car specialists
  9. Leave your car with us
- We'll do all the work

AUTO BODY SPECIALTIES, INC.

200 Ross at Echols • Bryan, Texas 77801

822-9013 - 779-7632

Escape to China
for Lunch and Dinner

帝 國
IMPERIAL
CHINESE RESTAURANT

All You Can Eat Buffet

Sunday 11:30-3:00      $6.<sup>95</sup>
Lunch Mon-Fri 11:00-2:00      $4.<sup>55</sup>

Take out & Reservations 764-0466

Lunch 11-3 pm Mon.-Sat. 11:30 Sunday

Dinner 3-10 pm Sun.-Thurs. 3-11 Fri. & Sat.

1102 Harvey Rd.
Next to Mariels

MSC & AGGIE DEMOCRATS

POLITICAL FORUM PRESENT

LUBBOCK CONGRESSMAN

KENT HANCE

OCTOBER 24, 1984      8:00 PM

MEMORIAL STUDENT CENTER RM. 201      FREE

Memorial Student Center