Buckley and Galbraith debating here Oct. 30

University News Service
William F. Buckley, Jr. and John Kenneth Galbraith will square off Oct. 30 at Texas A&M for an election-countdown debate on the social desirability of big government.

The Great Issues Committee of A&M's Memorial Student Center and the Center for Education and Research in Free Enterprise, the University's economic think-tank, are co-sponsoring the debate between two of the country's most outspoken political observers as a prelude to the general election one week later.

The title for the 8 p.m. debate in Rudder Auditorium: "Is Big Government Socially Desirable?" Buckley is known for his conservative views and, since 1955, has edited the National Review. He also is host of the television debate series "Firing Line" and has a weekly column distributed by Universal Press Syndicate.

Galbraith, who has been described as an unorthodox liberal economist, has taught economics at Harvard University for over 35 years and served as adviser to John F. Kennedy, Eugene McCarthy and George McGovern. He also served as U.S. Ambassador to India and authored a number of books including "The Affluent Society."

Tickets for the program are $5 for A&M students and $7 for non-students. Tickets may be purchased at the MSC Box Office.

MSC Council sets priorities tonight

The Memorial Student Center Council will meet tonight in 216T MSC at 6:30 instead of the usual 7:30 because of the MSC OPAS presentation of "La Cenerentola."

During the meeting, reports will be given by MSC President Pat Wood, Vice President for Entertainment Programs Kathy Mitchell, Vice President for Educational Programs John Wright, Vice President for Public Relations Marae Lehnert and the University Center Manager Steve Hodge.

Past MSC activities to be discussed include MSC Town Hall's Bob Hope and Alabama shows and the Lost and Found Auction.

The council also will receive a report about possible MSC activities for Texas' Sesquicentennial celebration in 1986 from faculty member Charles Samson, chairman of A&M committee.

At 7 p.m. the council will adjourn and reconvene in 206 MSC for long-range prioritization session. During the session, council members will discuss the basic plan of mission of the MSC, strategic organizational planning for the and plans for the MSC facilities funding.

Council members will discuss set the priorities of MSC programs and activities for the five years, Wood said.

Texas poll finds many support
school reforms

United Press International
A recent poll found that many of Texans support the state education reforms and respondents who favor the changes tend to have a higher opinion of the politicians enacted them.

The latest Texas Poll, a public opinion survey sponsored by Harte-Hanks Communications, reported that 53 percent of respondents approved of the reforms.

Among all Texans interviewed, 47 percent rated Gov. Mark White's good or excellent and 47 percent gave him a fair or poor rating.

However, White's good or excellent ratings climbed to 54 percent among those who agreed with reforms, and his fair to poor rating jumped to 64 percent among those who opposed the sweeping changes in the state's education system.

On other issues, the poll reported that 53 percent of those interviewed considered Texas' water problems to be serious, and 26 percent said shortages had affected their lives.

Sixty-six percent of those interviewed favored a state lottery to raise money, and 64 percent also favored home racing.

The survey said Texas was changing the state's blue laws by a 1 margin. The Texas blue laws prohibit the weekend sales of a variety of items on Sunday.
