

Cowboys suffer Giant setback

United Press International

IRVING — Phil Simms and Lionel Manuel teamed to riddle the Dallas secondary for a series of big plays and the New York defense had another big day in bringing the Giants their second win of the year over the Cowboys 19-7.

It marked the first time in 21 years New York had downed Dallas twice in the same season and the decision left the two teams tied at 6-4 in the tight NFC East race.

Manuel caught a 9-yard touchdown pass from Simms with 3:12 to play in the third quarter that put the Giants in front and then caught a 53-yarder that set up Ali Haji-Sheikh's third field goal of the day early in the fourth period.

The Giants' defense sent a wave of Dallas players to the sidelines with injuries and continually thwarted the Cowboys' attempts to get back in the game during the last third of the contest.

Haji-Sheikh kicked field goals of 40 and 38 yards in the opening quarter, booted a 23-yarder early in the final period to give his team a 9-point lead and added a 27-yarder in the final two minutes of the game.

Dallas' only score came on a 30-yard pass from Gary Hogeboom to Tony Hill with five minutes left in the first half, giving the Cowboys a 7-6 halftime advantage.

Danny White started the game at quarterback for Dallas, but injured his left shoulder midway through the second period.

Hogeboom, who started the first eight games of the season before being replaced by White last week, came on to throw the touchdown pass but was ineffective the rest of the day.

Hogeboom was replaced by White early in the fourth quarter, but after two series, no first downs and another bump on his injured shoulder he left the game for good.

Hogeboom completed 13-of-25 passes for 158 yards but was sacked three times and intercepted twice. White was good only 1-of-6 passes for 20 yards and was sacked two times.

The Giants beat the Cowboys at The Meadowlands in the second game of the season, 28-7, and now have won over Dallas in four of their last seven meetings.

Simms completed 16-of-37 passes Sunday for 244 yards with 102 of those yards going to Manuel — whose first touchdown pass of the season came against Dallas in their first meeting.

The Giants' go-ahead touchdown drive began at their own 37 and was touched off by a 20-yard throw from Simms to Manuel.

A 29-yard throw from Simms to Zeke Mowatt took the ball to the Dallas 11-yard line and two plays later Manuel caught the touchdown pass.

The Giants dominated the early stages of the game, but could not take full advantage of that domination.

In the first quarter New York had the ball for 12:02, running 26 plays to the Cowboys five.

But despite two good drives by the Giants they had to settle for Haji-Sheikh's field goals.

The Giants could not get another first down until the final moments of the first half.

gray from occasional offensive ineptitude, split end Jimmy Teal was his Grecian Formula 16.

Teal snagged six of Stump's passes for 173 yards and two touchdowns. Teal and Stump also hooked up for the longest pass completion of the season — a 48-yard bomb that set up Smith's second field goal. Teal's stellar effort moved him into eighth place among A&M's career reception leaders with 64 catches.

Ruel echoed Sherrill's feelings about the game's turning point.

"The two things that hurt us the most were, without a doubt, the missed extra point and Craig's fumble," he said.

Ruel said the players responded to the adverse momentum shift by not quitting.

"If your coaches quit, your players will quit," he said. "We've all, the players and the coaches, been giving it the extra effort all this week and we showed that today. In the end, some good things are going to happen to this A&M football team. They can't get any worse."

Pittsburgh melts hapless Houston

United Press International

PITTSBURGH — Mark Malone, making his third start of the season, threw three touchdown passes and ran for another to lead the Pittsburgh Steelers to a 35-7 romp over the winless Houston Oilers in an AFC Central Division game played in a steady, driving rain Sunday.

The victory put the division-leading Steelers at 6-4 and dropped Houston to 0-10.

Malone threw all three TD passes to John Stallworth, moving the veteran wide receiver into a tie with retired Lynn Swann for the Steelers' all-time lead in career touchdown catches with 50.

Malone's scoring strikes to Stallworth went for 43 yards in the first quarter, 18 yards in the second and 39 yards in the third.

Malone scored Pittsburgh's second touchdown, in the second quarter, on a 13-yard run. Playing for injured starter David Woodley, Malone completed 9 of 14 passes with one interception for 139 yards before being replaced by third-string quarterback Scott Campbell in the fourth period.

Linebacker Bryan Hinkle scored the Steelers' fifth and final touchdown on a 21-yard return of his recovery of a fumble by Larry Morriarty in the third period. That TD came just 20 seconds after Malone's third scoring pass.

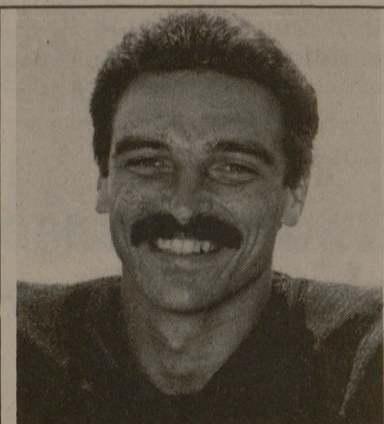

Hinkle also set up the Steelers' first touchdown by recovering a fumble by Stan Edwards on the Houston 40.

Houston defensive end Mike Johnson helped his team avoid a shutout when he recovered a fumble by Frank Pollard on the Pittsburgh 23 late in the third period. The Oilers scored four plays later on a 5-yard pass from backup quarterback Oliver Luck to Jamie Williams.

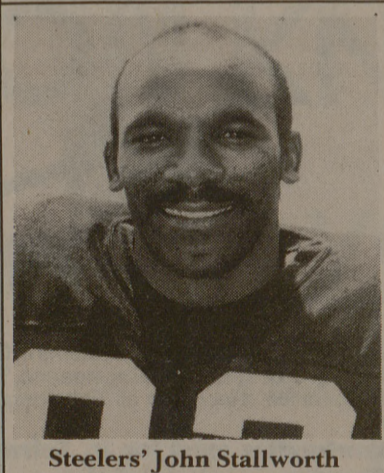

Regular Houston quarterback Warren Moon left the game early in the third quarter. He completed 10 of 20 passes with no interceptions for 133 yards and was sacked five times for 51 yards.

The Oilers lost their top draft choice, tackle Dean Steinkuhler, to injury in the first half. A team spokesman said the Nebraska star had suffered a severe injury to his right knee.

Though the rain left the footing treacherous and the ball hard to grip, the Steelers rolled easily to a 21-0 halftime lead with the help of Houston's early turnovers and consistently good field position.

The Steelers scored two plays after Hinkle's first fumble recovery. The Steelers lost 3 yards on their first play, a Malone pass to Rich Erenberg, but on second down, Malone connected with Stallworth on their 43-yard touchdown pass.

Houston was forced to punt from its own 15 early in the second quarter and the Steelers took over on the 50. Seven plays later, Malone ran a 13-yard bootleg into the end zone while the Oiler defenders chased decoy Erenberg.

A 15-yard punt return by Louis Lipps gave the Steelers the ball on the Houston 44 on their next possession. On the eighth play of the drive, Malone again teamed up with Stallworth for a TD pass, this one for 18 yards.

Where Do Richard Smith (R) and Neeley Lewis (D) Stand on College Tuition?

Neeley Lewis: "does not promise that the current $4 per semester hour will remain the same through the next session."
"...Colleges need to be prepared to pay more of their share through higher tuition."

Richard Smith has been a friend of Texas A&M for a long time. He's an Aggie, '59. He is a member of the Association of Former Students and The Aggie Club. All of Richard Smith's brothers attended Texas A&M, and so have two of his daughters.

He fought for our right to vote when the Democrats set the Special Election last semester during Spring Break. Richard Smith then provided a shuttle bus to take students to vote absentee.

Richard Smith is dedicated to a better Texas A&M and low tuition. The facts are clear.

Don't be fooled by the Democrat!

When the students of Texas A&M needed a friend, Richard Smith was there...and he will continue to be there for us when he's our State Representative.
