Joe Barton is an effective conservative leader who can help build a better Texas. An engineering graduate of Texas A&M ('72), he has been a manager, consultant, and civic leader. Joe Barton was chosen by President Regan as a White House Fellow. He worked closely with energy secretary Jim Edwards on cost control and natural gas policy projects.

State Representative
Richard A. Smith (Rep.)...56

When Texas A&M students needed a friend, Aggie Richard Smith '59 was there. When the Democrats set the Special Election during Spring Break last semester so Aggies couldn't vote, Richard Smith fought for our right to vote. Richard Smith even provided for a shuttle bus system to take Aggies to vote absentee.

When Texas A&M comes under attack, Aggies stick together.

Tomorrow let's elect a State Representative that will represent us!
