Bosco newest BYU prototype

United Press International
 PROVO, Utah — Brigham Young University has produced a succession of star quarterbacks with such excellent timing and apparent ease one wonders whether the school has started a quarterback factory.

The latest model is Robbie Bosco, a junior in his first year as BYU's starter. He follows a superb quarterback line that has included Marc Wilson, Jim McMahon and Steve Young.

This season, Bosco has already passed for 2,844 yards and 27 touchdowns, completed 61.3 percent of his passes — 204-of-318 — and thrown only five interceptions.

In the 11 years since BYU made the forward pass the centerpiece of its offense, McMahon had the school mark for the fewest interceptions in a single season — seven in 1981. Bosco may better that standard.

In addition to his considerable football chores, Bosco is now running into the same off-field pressures McMahon, Young and the other BYU quarterbacks had to deal with.

"Actually, it's kind of what I expected. It comes with the position," Bosco said. "Whether you're good or bad, you have to talk with the media."

Bosco has been better than good this season, passing No. 4 BYU to a 9-0 record and a ninth consecutive Western Athletic Conference title. The Cougars entered the weekend ranked No. 1 in the NCAA in both passing and total offense.

When Bosco arrived at BYU in 1981 as an all-around prep athlete from Roseville, Calif., McMahon was still a senior and Young was his backup. The new freshman was assigned to the Cougar junior varsity that year and spent 1982 as a red-shirt.

'Run for the Roses' pits Huskies against Trojans

United Press International
 As the 1984 college football year begins to wind down, the annual post-season bowl selection process is in full swing.

While some bids have been sealed, and more still may be decided Saturday, it may take a few more weeks before the final bowl picture is completed.

In the Pacific 10, the "Run for the Roses" will be decided Saturday when the No. 1 Washington Huskies meet the No. 12 USC Trojans in Los Angeles' Memorial Coliseum.

The winner of the nationally televised showdown is guaranteed a trip to the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, regardless of the outcome of the final Pac 10 games the following week.

Even if the Huskies lose (something they have done with a Rose
