

Looks Like a Dancer Feels Like a Runner

Dance Sports. The best of both worlds.

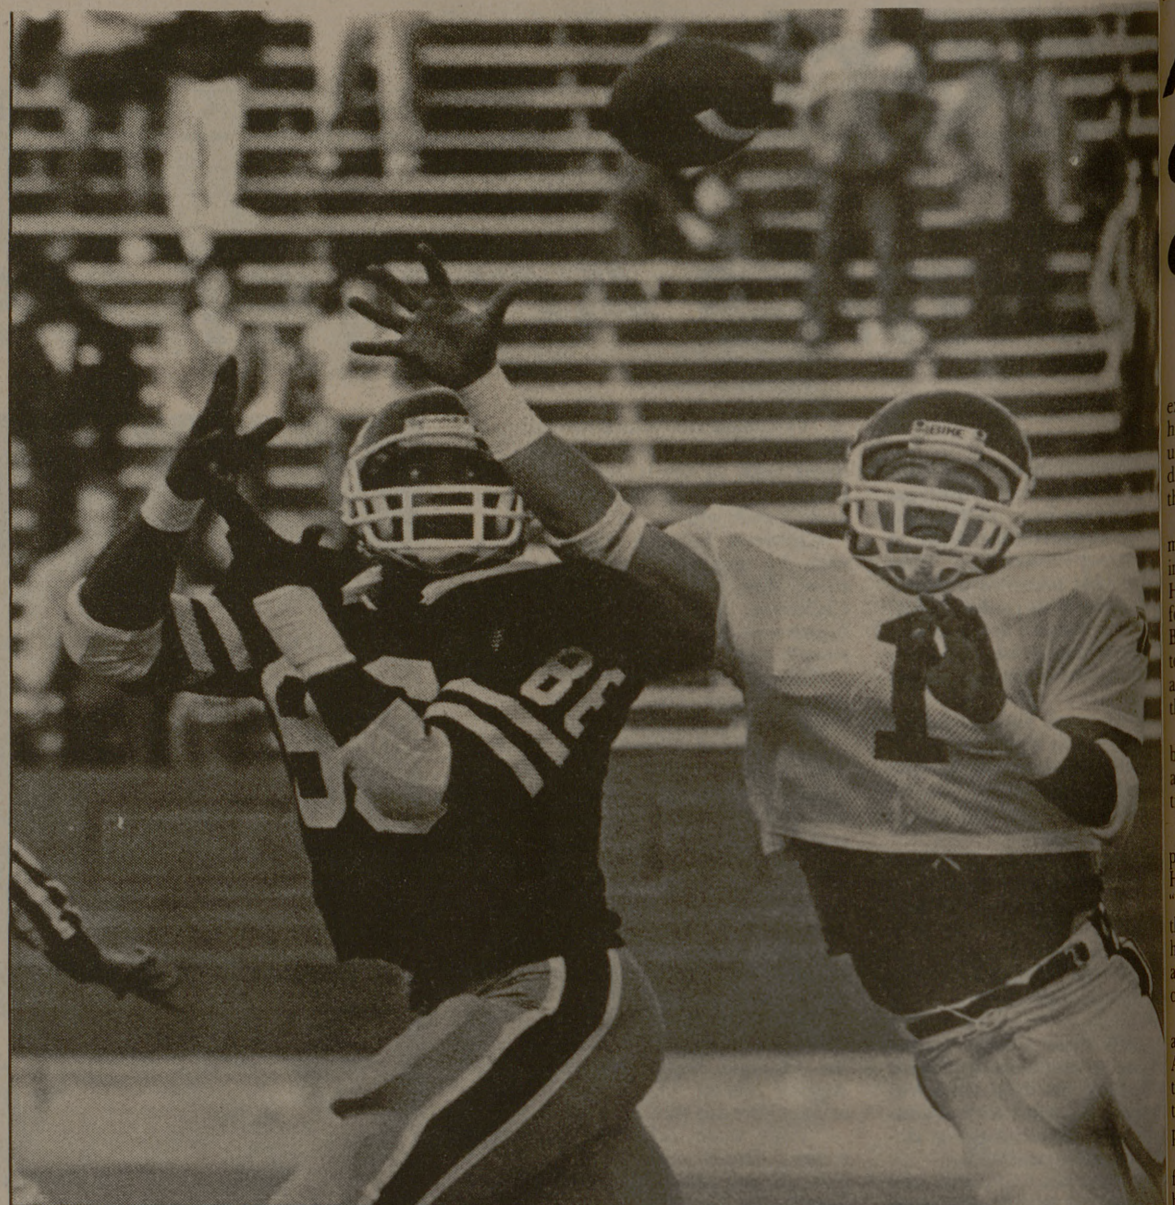

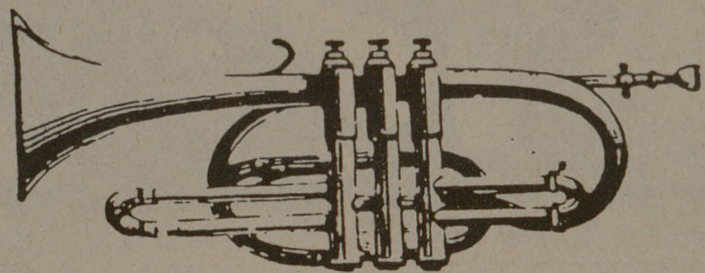

They combine the classic look of dance footwear with the comfort and stability of a running shoe. They're great for walking to work, working out, or just knocking around. And they come in colors & styles to go comfortably with all the things you do. So if you want a stylish shoe that will make your feet feel like dancing, try Dance Sports.

A&M wide receiver Mark Lewis(86) has reception on his mind as he waits for a Craig Stump throw to catch up to him. TCU free safety Billy Jones concentrates on making the deflection in Saturday's game. The Ags ambushed the Horned Frogs, 35-21.

play hard than we did. "Coaches don't win football games, players do," Sherrill said. "We may take a lot of the credit, but it's really the players. None of our seniors had to play hard today, but they did. They're leaving our younger players with the knowledge of how to overcome adversity.

Junior running back Anthony Toney echoed Sherrill's feelings about the future of the A&M football program. "We've been working as hard as we did for the first few games," Toney said. "The coaches haven't given up on us yet.

"This game is the start of looking forward to next season. Since we can't go to a bowl, these last two games (against TCU and Texas) are our bowl games."

The plane that circles around Kyle Field pulling a sign behind it has become the lead paragraph of many sports writers' stories this season. This time, it will be the last. The banner this weekend read, "Hullabaloo! The Game Is Here."

Wrong. THE GAME is in Austin this Saturday at Memorial Stadium.

CIA...for Careers of Consequence

Opportunities in the Nation's Capital

If you are seeking meaningful work in an atmosphere that encourages and nurtures professional development, join the CIA.

The CIA is seeking dedicated people to engage in both in-depth research and fast-breaking reporting on topics of importance to senior U.S. policy-makers. These one-of-a-kind challenges will provide you with the opportunity to become personally involved with the pressing foreign issues of our time while building a rewarding career. Opportunities exist for:

- Engineers
- Biographic Analysts
- Economists/Econometricians
- Military Analysts
- Political Analysts

To qualify, you must have a college degree in liberal arts or social sciences, mathematics, economics, foreign language, area studies, engineering, or physics and the dedication and professionalism necessary to meet the challenges you will face.

Individuals chosen for these positions will be trained while on the job and will be rewarded with starting compensation ranging from $18,000 to $30,000, depending on qualifications. You will enjoy living and working in the Washington, D.C. area, with a choice of athletic, cultural, and historic attractions.
