

Cover: Recently, the senior level reporting class was given an unusual assignment: go forth and do something you've never done before, then write about it. Now, tell that to 40 people facing finals and deadlines, and watch them start jumping out of planes. After squelching ideas such as comparing in-state and out-of-state prostitutes and camping in President Vandiver's toilet (to catch the latest gossip), the reporters set to their task. At Ease gives you five of these "firsts." Enjoy.
