

"Wow, you must have been to the Caribbean!"

Perfect Tan Comes To College Station.

The middle of winter is not when most people think of getting a tan, but area residents will have to change their way of thinking with the arrival of Perfect Tan. Perfect Tan is a new state-of-the-art, European-style tanning salon that lets you keep a healthy, golden tan all year long.

Nothing can boost your self-image like a rich, natural tan. A beautiful tan is one of today's symbols of health and success. Because a good tan makes you look better, it also makes you feel better. Just imagine yourself at that first spring party already showing off a glowing tan! Perfect Tan makes it easy.

Tanning salons have become extremely popular in such Texas cities as Dallas, Austin, and San Antonio. Perfect Tan owners Charles and Ann Teague are sure indoor tanning will be just as popular here when people begin learning about its convenience and safety.

"Perfect Tan uses exclusively Solaire tanning beds, the most technologically advanced equipment available," explains Charles Teague. They virtually eliminate the ultra-violet B (UV-B) rays of light that can burn the skin, while they enhance the UV-A light which gently tans. Therefore, Solaire beds are actually safer than sunshine, but tan you much faster.

The result is a deep, lasting tan that actually softens normal skin and may help relieve some skin problems like acne. A thirty-minute session at Perfect Tan is equal to three to five hours in the sun, and there is no risk of burning because trained technicians regulate your time in the tanning beds. The Teagues guarantee that anyone, no matter how fair-skinned, can safely get a rich, natural tan from a sensibly planned series of visits.

You are sure to enjoy every session at Perfect Tan. The salon is attractively decorated in soft colors accented by warm brass. Each tanning room is completely private with a Solaire bed, a chair, and a storage area for your clothes and other belongings. Restrooms and a powder room are also available for your convenience.

For working persons, convenience is one of the best reasons for tanning at Perfect Tan. Because tanning sessions are primarily by appointment, Perfect Tan will fit their schedule to yours. You can make appointments before or after work or even during your lunch hour, because you never have to sweat or exert yourself. You can relax by listening to the built-in AM-FM stereo cassette system or just nap while the Solaire bed tans both sides of your body at the same time.

The convenience of indoor tanning appeals to all types of people. Whole families can protect themselves from sunburn by getting a tan before a tropical vacation or ski trip. Students and faculty alike enjoy preparing for Spring Break at the beach. Perfect Tan means never having to wait for the sun to shine to get the look of health and success.

The successful glow of a beautiful tan is surprisingly economical. Perfect Tan has a variety of payment plans. Your first visit is complimentary between now and February 1. After that you can pay for individual sessions or purchase an even better package deal. A tanning package also makes a great gift.

There is no excuse for not shedding the 'blah' of a pale, winter complexion. Just stop by Perfect Tan in the Post Oak Square near Mariel's Supermarket, or call 764-2771 to arrange for your free initial session.

Killer Bees turn season around

United Press International

SAN FRANCISCO — The turning point of the Miami Dolphins' season didn't come on a football field but in the visiting lockerroom at the Indianapolis Hoosier Dome.

After an 11-0 start, the Dolphins lost two of three games. They gave up 96 points in that span, including 45 in a loss to the Raiders.

The next week, Miami trailed the Colts 17-3 at halftime when some of the veteran defensive players realized they were throwing their season away.

"We realized we had a once-in-a-lifetime situation," defensive end Doug Betters said. "With Dan Marino throwing the ball, and Mark Duper and Mark Clayton catching it, the only weakness was the defense."

"We weren't used to that. We're usually No. 1 or two in points allowed and two years ago we got to the Super Bowl on defense."

Linebacker Earnie Rhone was the first to get up and speak at halftime of the Colts' game. He was followed by Betters, Bob Baumhower, Don McNeal and Glenn and Lyle Blackwood, each challenging his teammates to play to their capabilities.

The Dolphins roared to a 35-17 victory over Indianapolis, then won three more games to capture the AFC Championship and advance to Sunday's Super Bowl against the San Francisco 49ers with a 16-2 record.

"Usually, I'm a quiet guy," said Rhone, the defensive captain who lost his starting inside linebacker job after suffering a neck injury in the 12th game.

"But I'm the kind of guy with a lot of pride. They (Colts) came out and pushed us all over the field. I thought it was time for somebody to speak up."

"I couldn't contribute on the field, so I challenged all the guys to have a gut check."

The guys responded. Miami Coach Don Shula thinks the fiery halftime meeting had something to do with the resurgence but also points to the return of key players from injury.

"I don't know whether it was something I said or every individual player getting up," Shula said. "Earnie Rhone, who is a very quiet guy, said some things that got people's attention. Everybody was upset and were getting pushed around."

"But we were also just starting to get it together, personnel-wise. We started out playing pretty good defense, then (end Kim) Bokamp broke his leg, (tackle Mike) Clark got hurt and Bokamp had to play one week after his leg got out of the cast."

"Don McNeal, our best cornerback, got hurt, (linebacker) Brophy broke both thumbs when he was playing well. These things stopped us from getting better. Then we got people healthy again and started playing better."

The Dolphins' major weakness during their defensive slump was not being able to stop the run. They changed in a 28-21 season-ending win over Dallas. Miami also shut down Seattle in a 31-10 playoff win and contained Pittsburgh in a 45-0 AFC title game victory.

The "Killer Bees" were back, with new additions in rookie Brophy and second-year man Mark Brown manning the inside linebacker spots.

But it took a return trip to the Super Bowl to return the players' confidence in themselves.

"We felt good for the Seattle game," nose tackle Bob Baumhower said. "We felt we played good against Dallas and in the second half of the Indianapolis game."

"We always had the people but you don't have intensity, people don't mean anything. We were getting pushed around when things weren't going well. It all came down to every guy knowing he had to get off his tail."

49ers' Clark set to take on Killer Bees

United Press International

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. — The enormity of the Super Bowl has made the coolest cats purr without purpose.

"Sure, I'll be nervous," San Francisco's Dwight Clark said of next Sunday's game against the Miami Dolphins. "I remember in Detroit (for Super Bowl XVI), Freddie (Solomon) and I ran to the wrong side of the field before the game."

"We had to make it look like we were there to warm up."

The 49ers were, of course, there to win the NFL title and, after they did, Clark celebrated at the San Francisco victory parade in a full-length fur coat.

Clark, who has made a strong recovery from major knee surgery to again be one of Joe Montana's favorite targets, doesn't expect the 49ers' Super Bowl experience to calm their nerves next week.

"I'm sure I'll start the game feeling like I'm running 3-4 feet above the turf," he said, smiling.

Clark may then look like a Dolphin receiver. Mark Clayton, Mark Duper and friends always seem to be airborne as they help Dan Marino become a legend.

"Those guys are a fantastic combination," Clark said. "They've broken records and done some things that may never be done again." While the 6-year veteran from Clemson marvels at the Marino-Miami mastery, he said the 49ers' offense is better suited for him.

"I'm a hook-and-out guy, not a deep threat," said the 27-year-old Clark, who missed last year's playoffs after hurting his knee in the regular-season finale against Dallas. "Our offense is totally well-rounded. They throw 72 percent of the time."

While he calls the 1980 title season one of "destiny," Clark maintains this year's team utilizes all 49 players and is "a lot deeper."

The 6-foot-2, 210-pounder caught 52 passes — a career-high — for a team-leading 880 yards during the regular season.

He expects the Dolphins to try to rough him up on the Stanford Stadium field.

"They give you 10 yards, they hammer you out and pound on you," he said.

Clark said there's another kind of pounding he's feeling a week before the game.

"I like going to the Super Bowl, but our time is so limited," he said. "It's nice talking to you guys (the press), but there's so much stuff to concentrate on."

Faragalli reunited with Campbell and Moon

United Press International

HOUSTON — The Houston Oilers reunited a winning combination Monday by hiring Cincinnati Bengals quarterback and tight end coach Joe Faragalli as offensive coordinator.

Faragalli was offensive coordinator for Oilers Coach Hugh Campbell when Campbell led the Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian Football League to three Grey Cup championships in 1978, '79 and '80. Oilers quarterback Warren Moon played for the Eskimos at the same time.

Faragalli replaces Kay Dalton, who was fired by Campbell Jan. 6. The head coach said the firing was in the best interest of both the Oilers and Dalton, who had been offensive coordinator for two seasons.

"It was Coach Campbell's decision to hire Faragalli," said Oilers spokesman Gregg Stengel. "He had talked to him at the Senior Bowl last week in Alabama. He (Campbell) made the decision."

"He'll be down here (Houston) in about two weeks. He will go on some scouting assignments for the Oilers first."

Faragalli was the second Bengals' assistant coach to depart in less than a week. Late last week, defensive backfield coach Trent Walters left to become an assistant at the University of Pittsburgh.

Faragalli was a member of the Bengals staff for one year. Previously that, he was head coach of the Saskatchewan Rough Riders of the CFL from 1980-82.
