Ags smash Stephen F. Austin

Thwack! Thwack! Thwack! Not exactly the blooming of flowers or the chirping of birds, but the sound of a tennis ball hitting taut strings is as much a harbinger of spring as budding trees. Especially if that tennis takes place at Texas A&M's Omar Smith Tennis Center.

A&M's men's and women's tennis teams racked up solid wins on Friday and Saturday, making both teams' records 2-0 for the spring season.

Last Friday's balmy weather provided the backdrop for an 8-1 win for the men over Houston Baptist University. The women won 9-0 by default over Texas Southern University when TSU only showed up with three eligible players.

Saturday's weather was cloudy and cooler and the competition was quite a bit tougher for both squads. And Stephen F. Austin brought a more than adequate supply of talent.

The Aggie men won all six singles matches and the No. 3 doubles match, lost No. 1 doubles and settled for a tie in No. 2 doubles when the match was called because of darkness. The women won all of their matches except for No. 6 singles.

Saturday's win marked the first for the women under the leadership of new coach Jan Baldwin. "I'm very excited for them (the women)," Baldwin said. "I think we played well against good competition — especially for a first match. It's one thing to practice out here and another thing to play your first match in front of a pretty full grandstand. I'm very proud of them."

Men's Coach David Kent was impressed with the way SFA played his 11th ranked Aggies.

"Their No. 1 through No. 4 players in the lineup are very, very tough," Kent said. "They played us tough all the way through. I look for them to maybe win the Division II Nationals. We played very well against them today."

Grant Connell, playing No. 1, had one of the day's toughest matches. He knocked off Tom Goles in three sets, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3. Goles is what Kent called "one of the best collegiate players around." Connell also thought Goles was pretty good.

"He was a quality player," Connell said. "Coach Kent just told me that this guy hadn't lost all year. This was his first loss. I was happy with it."

Kimmo Alkio and Greg Hill, playing No. 2 and No. 3 Saturday, got by their opponents with Hill having the more exciting match, winning 6-4, 7-6. Alkio won 6-2, 6-3.

Mark Smith, Dean Johnson and Marcel Vos were the other three Aggie singles winners. Vos had the easiest time disposing of his No. 6 opponent 6-0, 6-1.

In the interest of giving his players experience, Kent juggled the No. 1 and No. 2 doubles personnel, playing the team of Smith/Johnson in place of the usual Connell/Hill. That match was good only for experience as the Ags lost 7-5, 4-6, 3-6. The team of Dean Goldfine/Matt Ackman took over the No. 2 slot replacing Smith/Johnson and tied their match 6-3, 5-7. Russ Simmons and Kimmo Alkio coasted to a 6-4, 6-0 win in No. 3 doubles.

The women's No. 1 player, Vanne Akagi, had the toughest win for the ladies, taking Yugoslavian Bijana Mirkovic three sets, 7-6, 4-6, 6-1. "(Mirkovic) is misleading because you think she's really going to pound the ball," Baldwin said. "But instead she hits a nice medium pace ball with a lot of spin on it. (Vanne) was having to supply most of the pace."

Nandini Rangarajan, Kim Labuschagne, Laura Liang and Gretchen Torres all posted easy singles wins while #6 player, Renata Arnold had some trouble with her opponent and was eased out 6-4, 6-4.

defense, I could drive on them. When they switched to a zone, that kind of cut some of it out. I just penetrated and hoped to get fouled when I shot."

And as if the foul shooting wasn't enough of a headache for the Cougars, Lewis' boys were in foul trouble most of the game. Starting forward Rickie Winslow, averaging 15.5 points and 9.5 rebounds a game, sat down early in the first half with three personal fouls.

Needless to say, the Cougars' inside game suffered.

"We knew we had to keep our players out of foul trouble down here," Lewis said. "We weren't able to do that with Rickie."

"Winslow didn't play like he was scared of fouling out (in the second half, but we did have a hard time getting him the ball when he was sitting next to me most of the time (during the first half)," Lewis said.

Lewis said his team should be ready for SMU in Dallas Wednesday night, but the close loss to the Aggies won't be easy to forget.
