A&M policeman reminisces after 37 years of duty

By TRENT LEOPOLD
Staff Writer

Maj. Morris A. Maddox

"They are going to let me keep my badge," Maj. Morris A. Maddox, assistant director for administration at the University Police Department said Friday.

Tomorrow at 5 p.m., after 37 years and five months with the university police, Maddox will retire.

Maddox has held many positions at the department, including chief, since he began his career here Sept. 1, 1947.

"When I first started as a patrolman, if someone would have told me I would stay here 37 years, I would have told them they were crazy," Maddox said.

Since then Maddox has had several opportunities to take other jobs elsewhere.

"I am glad I never did make a change," Maddox said. "I have made some good close friends since coming here."

"Also, I feel like I had a lot to do with getting Mr. Wiatt to join our department as Director of Security and Traffic by promising him I would stay a couple of years to help him get started and adjusted to the department."

"He (Bob Wiatt) has done things for the department that no one else has been able to do."

Maddox said he has seen some changes here during the past 37 years as the University grew from an enrollment of less than five thousand to its current student population of 36,827.

"I first started working here as a patrolman," Maddox said. "There were eight other patrolmen, one secretary and the chief."

"We all worked out of two rooms in Goodwin Hall, which was then located in the middle of the campus. The department was known as Campus Security and owned one car with no radio."

"We used the car to check off-campus property such as Eastwood Airport and the dairy farm."

Today the department has 76 full-time positions, 15 part-time positions and 15 cars equipped with radios, Maddox said.

"When the women started coming here in when a lot more cars began showing up around campus," he said.

"Today there really isn't a lack of parking spaces on campus, just a lack of close-in spaces where people want to park. People don't want to park all the way across the railroad tracks and walk to the main campus."

Couple held on charges after 3 children die in fire

Associated Press

HOUSTON — A Houston woman and her common-law husband were jailed on charges of involuntary manslaughter and injury to a child after the woman's three children were killed in a fire while the couple watched the Super Bowl at a neighbor's house.

Cheryl Davis, 20, and Jeffrey Willis, 20, were held Monday on $2,000 bond each.

Paul Davis, 4, Patricia Davis, 3, and Joshua Davis, 1, died in a fire investigators believe started in a space heater which had no front grill.

The three were alone in the house the night of Jan. 20 while Davis and Willis were at the neighbor's house, senior Houston arson investigator Buddy Cox said.

"We think the children were playing with the space heater and started the fire," arson investigator James Sena said.

Authorities said Davis and Willis first explained their absence by saying they had been outside fixing their car in freezing weather when the fire broke out. The woman later changed her story, saying she was outside picking up the children's toys.

Investigator Lee Johnson said the pair later acknowledged that they went to the neighbor's house, began watching the football game, then heard fire trucks and saw that their house was on fire.

Johnson said the couple expressed little remorse.
