Dual-career relationships subject of 10-part seminar

By SUZANNE METSCHER
 Reporter

Communication skills are important in managing the pressures arising from dual-career relationships, Dr. Anne C.P. Schroer says.

Schroer, a psychologist at the Texas A&M Student Counseling Service, says women with a career are generally happier with their marriage. However, the men tend not to be quite as satisfied if their wife has a career, Schroer says.

A ten-part seminar that begins today will focus on the problems in dual-career relationships. Schroer and two doctoral interns, Martha Schramm and Terry Marshall will lead the seminar.

Schroer says statistics show that by 1990, 80 percent to 90 percent of women college graduates will be in the work force.

The seminars are not restricted to married couples and will deal with the problems of power, finances, child care, residential chores and finding time for each other.

"Trade-offs are what make these type of relationships work," Schroer says. "The man has to help with the parenting and household tasks."

Schroer says she sees a nice change in the current generation of men.

Tonight's seminar will be a basic overview of the dual-career couple including career work vs. housework and the problems of identity — traditional roles vs. modern roles.

Schroer urges both members of the couple to attend because many activities will be done in pairs. At least one of the couple should be a Texas A&M student.

Effective communication and listening skills will be the topic for the second seminar on Feb. 12. Also to be discussed are the means of dealing with conflict and delegation.

The remaining seminars are as follows:

- Feb. 19 - Current Role Expectations and Sex Role Stereotypes

- Feb. 26 - Division of Labor
- Mar. 5 - Age of Relationship

Sharing Household Tasks

- Mar. 19 - Art of Decision Making

Stage of Career

- Mar. 26 - Career Development

vs. Family Development

- Apr. 2 - Financial Power Competition

ing

- Apr. 9 - Social Needs and Assurance Time

The last seminar will be April 16.

The topic for discussion will be determined by the participants.

All seminars will begin at 8 p.m. and will end by 8 p.m. The location will vary from week to week. Schroer suggests students call to find the location and to reserve a space prior to that night's meeting. Enrollment is limited.

Students may attend the seminar in any combination and admission is free. For more information call 845-1651.

Interest on IRA for the first month. Then a fixed rate for the balance of the 18-month term.

Wishful thinking? Not at BrazosBanc.

Come to BrazosBanc to open a fixed rate tax sheltered savings account. We'll pay you 25% interest for the first month, then set the rate for the balance of the 18 month term.

The IRA account is available to any wage earner. Deposit up to $2,000 and take that amount off your adjusted gross income on your 1984 federal tax return.

If you already have an IRA and just need advice to "rollover" or change any of its provisions, call or come by. We're knowledgeable about the rules on rollovers and can offer you flexible, safe alternatives for investments in fixed and variable savings certificates (in some cases, a minimum balance may be required).

More people have IRAs at savings institutions than mutual funds and security companies put together. We think it's because of our insured safety and our convenient, hometown service.
