Big East teams still dominate Top 20

Associated Press

St. John's, which puts its 13-game winning streak on the line Saturday in a Big East Conference road game against Villanova, remained No. 1 for the second straight week in the Associated Press college basketball poll announced Tuesday.

The 18-1 Redmen, who had to come from 14 points down to beat Seton Hall 87-76 Monday night, attracted 60 of 62 first-place votes and 1,238 points from the nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Last week St. John's beat Providence 77-60 and Connecticut 97-64 and is one of four Big East teams in the Top 20. Three of those, St. John's, Georgetown and Syracuse, are in the top six.

Georgetown stayed No. 2, Memphis State No. 3 and Southern Methodist No. 4.

The Hoyas, 19-2, who held the top spot in the preseason poll and the first nine regular-season polls before losing two straight, landed one first-place vote and 1,153 points. Memphis State, 17-1, received the remaining No. 1 vote and 1,126 points, 93 ahead of Southern Methodist, 18-2.

Duke, fourth last week, moved up a notch with 909 points. Syracuse, the only team besides St. John's to beat Georgetown, advanced from No. 9 to sixth with 899 points, while Oklahoma remained No. 7 with 855.

Michigan (769 points) was eighth followed by Illinois (748) and Georgia Tech (704) to complete the Top Ten.

Nevada-Las Vegas, boasting a 16-game winning streak, the longest winning streak in Division I, leaped from No. 16 to head the Second Ten.

Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana Tech, North Carolina, Oregon State, Tulsa, DePaul, Villanova and Maryland round out the Top Twenty.

Iowa, 18-4, is the only newcomer to the poll this week after registering road victories over Big Ten Conference rivals Indiana and Ohio State.

Alabama-Birmingham, 19-5, which rejoined the Top Twenty last week after a six-week absence, dropped out after losing to Old Do-

Houston trying to avoid fifth consecutive loss

Associated Press

HOUSTON — The sputtering Houston Cougars, who have been starting slow and finishing fast, are stuck with a four-game losing streak going into Wednesday night's Southwest Conference clash against Texas.

The Cougar's early first-half performances in each of the losses have put Coach Guy Lewis in jeopardy of directing a five-game losing streak for only the second time in his coaching career.

In three straight conference losses to Texas A&M, Southern Methodist and Texas Christian, the Cougars hit a combined six of 30 shots in the first five minutes.

The same early-game malaise was evident during Sunday's 77-76 non-conference loss to Illinois.

Houston hit only three of 15 shots over the first 10 minutes against Illinois. The Cougars never led, but they fought back in the closing minutes and had a chance to take the lead when Eric Dickens scooped up a loose ball and went in for an unguarded basket.

Dickens fell and missed the shot. "I think they run out of gas trying to come from behind all the time," Lewis said. "It's like Eric missing that basket. When you are 10 up it's no problem but when you are three down it's a catastrophe."

The Cougars' half-court trapping defense got them back in the game against Illinois, but they couldn't overcome another recent trend — hot shooting individual performances by opponents.

"I'd judge that we didn't start out that good against Illinois but when two guys go 15 for 15 in the first half you have to wonder," Lewis said.

Illinois' Anthony Welch hit eight of eight shots in the first half and Doug Altenberger hit six in a row.

Welch finished hitting 13 of 16 shots and Altenberger was eight of nine.

In an 85-80 loss to TCU, Dennis Nutt pumped in 28 points against the Cougars. Afterwards, Nutt said he wished he could play all his games in Hofheinz Pavilion.

"The rim looks 10 feet around for me in here," Nutt said.

Altenberger also enjoyed his court time in Hofheinz, where the Cougars have lost only 25 times in 211 games over 14 years.

"The rim is so soft, the ball just bounces off and into the net," Altenberger said. "I guess they need it to be soft because the jam so much."

But even the Cougars' dunk show has been short-circuited this season with sophomore Rickie Winslow leading the team with 38 of the team's 63 slams. A year ago, Akeem Olajuwon had 85 of the team's 194 dunks over the full season.

Even team meetings haven't helped.

Cougar co-captains Dickens and Reid Gettys called for a team meeting without coaches present following Friday night's 85-80 loss to Texas Christian.

"They played about the same but I still like team meetings and have always encouraged them," Lewis said. "It's good for the players to be communicating."

Lewis could at least feel encouraged that his teams have been able to get back into the games after their slow starts. But he doesn't.

"Moral victories get you fired," Lewis said.

Bluechip Dykes likes Illini

Associated Press

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Hart Lee Dykes of Bay City, Texas, one of the nation's top high school receivers, says he is leaning toward a college football career at Illinois.

"I'll probably go to Illinois," said Dykes, a 6-foot-5, 212-pound athlete who completed his visit to the UI campus Monday.

Dykes said he will not make a decision before next Monday — two days before NCAA letters-of-intent may be signed. "We're hopeful, but we don't want to get everyone excited," said Illinois Coach Mike White. "A lot can happen between now and next Wednesday." Dykes also has been considering Oklahoma, but said Coach Barry Switzer does not call the pass as often as White.

"If I want the ball, Illinois is the place," Dykes said.
