MSC council to announce new officers at meeting

By CATHIE ANDERSON
Staff Writer

The Memorial Student Center Council will announce the names of the next MSC Council president and executive vice presidents during tonight's meeting at 7:30.

The council has to approve the nominating committee's selections in order to make the selections official. The nominating committee is a 21-member committee composed of people from all aspects of the MSC. The members include faculty representatives and senior student leaders, who are not seeking the offices.

MSC Council President Pat Wood says the applicants for the four positions are allowed to put a second preference in case they don't get what they wanted at first.

In an earlier interview, Wood said council members were probably looking forward to seeing another person banging the gavel now.

The new president and executive vice presidents will take over the rest of the selection process, but Wood will still be active until April 20.

"I'll be a lame duck, but I won't be too lame," Wood says.

The committee feels very optimistic and good about the selections, which they made, Wood says.

The MSC master plan, a guide to future planning for the MSC committees, will be presented by Cory Courtney, executive vice president for administration.

Several other topics will be discussed during this meeting including the 1985-86 budget and some changes in the council's constitution and by-laws.

Police use Valentine ruse in Austin narcotics raid

Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO — Masquerading as florists making a Valentine's Day delivery, undercover police officers took advantage of the lovers' holiday to gain entrance into a home where they arrested two people on drug-possession charges.

The narcotics agents, who did not want their names used, said the Valentine ruse was deployed because they did not expect the suspects to let them through the iron-barred front door otherwise.

A 22-year-old man and a 31-year-old woman were arrested.
