Arms race

Soviets: 'Star Wars' may cause build-up

Associated Press
MOSCOW — The Kremlin said Thursday that if the United States develops the Star Wars system the arms race would be intensified because the Soviet Union would be forced to build weapons powerful enough to defeat the system.

"Does the United States think the Soviet Union will sit idle, awaiting the results of the U.S. 'research'?" Kremlin spokesman Leonid Zamyatin said. "Faced with such dangerous plans, the Soviet Union will do all in its power to prevent U.S. superiority over itself."

"The Soviet Union would have to increase the power of its weapons in retaliation for the attempts of the United States to get an opportunity to deliver a nuclear strike with impunity," he said in an article distributed by the official news agency Tass.

Zamyatin is chief of the Communist Party Central Committee's international information department and is one of the Kremlin's chief spokesmen.

Tass also quoted Andrei Kokoshin, deputy director of a think tank called the U.S.A.-Canada Institute, as saying international scientists fear a new arms race will begin if the United States develops space weapons.

"The other (Soviet) side, scientists believe, will take steps to further develop its strategic systems which guarantee it the possibility of hitting a retaliatory strike," he said.

Premier Nikolai A. Tikhonov said in a speech Thursday that the Soviet Union seeks general disarmament but stressed that as long as a war danger exists the Soviet Union would never allow anyone to have a military advantage over it.

Thursday's comments were part of a growing propaganda campaign before the U.S.-Soviet arms talks, which are scheduled to begin March 12 in Geneva, Switzerland. Two assertions — that the United States is not serious about the talks — have been made repeatedly.

Mikhail S. Gorbachev, who after President Reagan's announcement Wednesday of plans to enter the negotiations with honest striving.

The United States has agreed to discuss President Reagan's Defense Initiative, the space missile defense system dubbed "Star Wars," but not to negotiate.
