

Seniors, juniors support

Senior yell leaders

Chris Cordts
junior
computer science

Howdy! My name is Chris Cordts, and I am a computer science major from Hurst, Tx. After spending three years at this University, I have come to understand what traditions mean and how yell leaders contribute to the preservation of those traditions. By harnessing the enormous power of the Fighting Twelfth Man, yell leaders help make Texas A&M known for its spirit, pride, motivation and integrity.

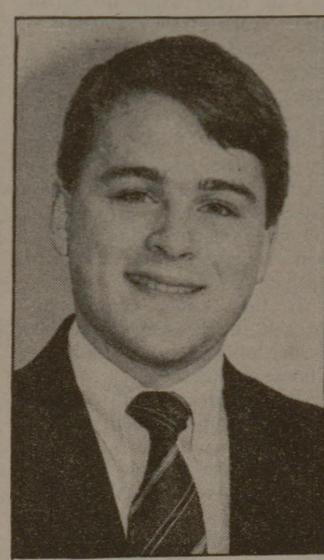

These are qualities that a yell leader must possess in order to demonstrate to those outside the university why A&M is a world class University and why its people are so special.

That is why I would like to be a contributor to this spirit and pride. By being elected senior yell leader, I can help uphold the traditions and keep the motivation, things that have made A&M a truly great university.

leader because I believe in Texas A&M and what it stands for. The Corps at Aggieland has done an excellent job throughout A&M's history in preserving Aggie traditions and spirit. Since the Corps today represents only five percent of the total student body, I feel the non-regs also need to be represented.

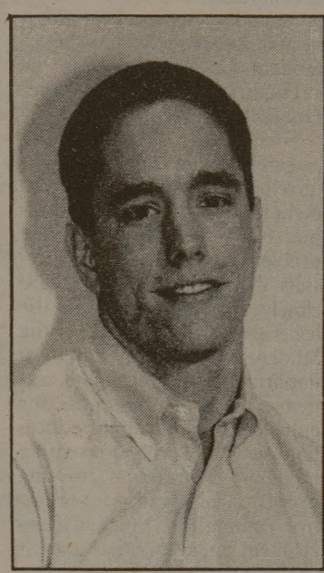

I have participated in the Walton Hall dorm council, and I am currently serving as Walton Hall social chairman. I feel that some of my best qualities are my leadership abilities, and my ability to motivate others.

A&M is a very unified campus, and one of the goals I have is to bring the student body closer together. I want to provide leadership to the students and set an example to those not associated with A&M. Aggie traditions are very important to me. Upholding these traditions as a senior yell leader would not only be an honor but a privilege. I will carry the spirit of Aggieland in all my endeavours if elected.

Todd Watson
junior
landscape architecture

Ever since I can remember I have wanted to be an Aggie, and ever since then, I have wanted to be a yell leader. Being a yell leader is the greatest honor that can be bestowed upon any Aggie. I have been in the Singing Cadets for a year and a half, and I enjoy representing Texas A&M. I have a great respect for the traditions at A&M. If elected, I will represent this University with Aggie spirit and strive to uphold traditions that yell leaders have established through the years.

David Lawhorne
junior
business analysis

To make yell leader would be a dream come true. It has been my goal to give back to Texas A&M twice what I have received. I strongly believe in A&M, its traditions and the Fightin' Texas Aggie Twelfth Man.

It is up to the yell leaders to promote and represent the Twelfth Man. My involvement in various student activities has enabled me to work with many of these students all over campus. I am a member of MSC Town Hall, a Muster committee member and a sub-chairman for Fish Camp '85. I have a strong commitment to our school and feel it is my duty, if elected, to be motivated and share the excitement and opportunities I have had at A&M. It is my goal to encourage all Aggies to be a positive and enthusiastic part of the Aggie spirit.

sity, but the students are what makes it great. I would feel very honored if I could lead you, The Twelfth Man, again when we beat the Hell Outta t.u. Gig 'Em Aggies!

Steve Lord
junior
philosophy

I am running for the office of yell leader because I feel that I have the necessary motivation and knowledge that a person in this position must have. It is essential that a yell leader be of the caliber person that he will represent Texas A&M in a "fired-up" yet gentlemanly manner. I feel that I have the capability to distinguish the two and act accordingly. I will offer the student body a well-rounded constituency, that of being responsible to the Corps and the civilian populations.

If elected, I will work for a more unified student body, more student participation in spring sports and a better informed student body on traditions and events.

Barry Sowerwine
senior
business analysis

Howdy Aggies, my name is Barry Sowerwine, and I am running for senior yell leader. I love Texas A&M, and I am excited at the chance to lead the Twelfth Man.

In the past three years I've seen what makes A&M the greatest University. The traditions and friendly atmosphere make the difference.

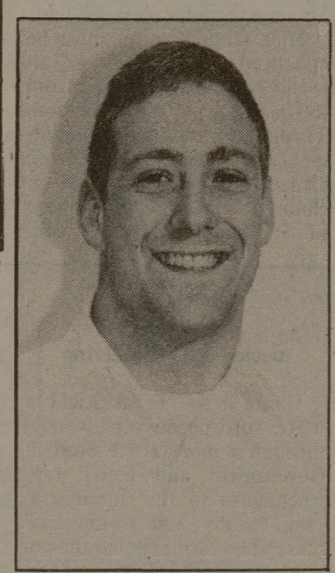

Nowhere in the world could a person get the warm feeling that you get at A&M.

I believe that this part of A&M is the most important, and if I am given the chance to be yell leader, I will do everything possible to keep A&M the great school it is.

Tim Koch
junior
industrial distribution

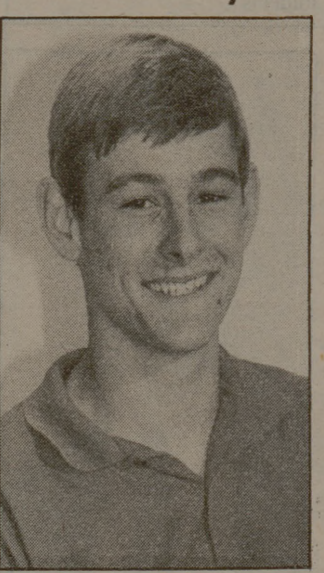

I am running for senior yell

Thomas Buford
senior
agricultural economics

Howdy, my name is Thomas Buford, and I am seeking re-election for senior yell leader. I am from Mt. Pleasant, Tx.

I think the most important thing for a yell leader is to represent the student body of Texas A&M both on and off the playing field. I will use my experience as a junior yell leader to represent you even better as a senior. A&M is a great Univer-

Mark Trabing
sophomore forestry

I have always wanted to be a yell leader because I believe they are the one thing that really typify Texas A&M's uniqueness. I want to uphold one of the oldest traditions of this University, the yell leader. I would also like to represent A&M and the Twelfth Man.

I am imaginative and well-versed in the traditions of A&M. I have an enthusiastic spirit, and the ability to excite and involve others. If elected, I will share my enthusiasm to better represent the whole student body everywhere I go. I realize the Corps is the backbone of A&M, but this backbone represents a small percentage of the student body.

One cannot function without the other, the whole body must be present to function properly.