'The Last Duet' named winner of variety show

By WASH A. JONES
Reporter

A piano/vocalist team won first place Saturday in the 1985 Variety Show, sponsored by the Memorial Student Center.

The Variety Show, held before an audience of about 2,000 in Rudder Auditorium, featured 12 acts and two guest performers.

Michael Patino and Rhonda Grider won first place for their act "The Last Duet." The songs in the act were "The Last Duet" and "How Do You Keep the Music Playing."

Nick Never and the 4 Evers, a 1950s-type vocalist group, won second place for singing "Mary Had a Little Lamb" to the tune of "You Ain't Nothing but a Hound Dog." The group featured Nicky Manos, Mike Mulcahy, Mike Hachtman, Ted Eagle and Jeff Hurley.

Too Far Gone, a bluegrass music duet featuring Rick DeLeonard and Tim Williams, won third place. The team performed "Dueling Banjos," Ricky Skaggs' "Low and Lowly," "Head Over Heels in Love With You," and a gospel medley.

The three winners each received a trophy and $75, $50 and $30. The participants were judged on technical ability, showmanship, stage presence and audience appeal.

Judges for the show were Danny Austin, an announcer on radio station KTAW; Mel Chase, a veteran TV writer; Wanda Daisa, a founding member of a local theater group; Jan Sparks, vice president of Bill Fegan Attractions, an agency for the performing arts; and Sparky Sparks, owner of a Dallas talent agency.

Other acts in the show include Notropis, a jazz band featuring Chris Amemiya, Joe Warner, Brian Lippman, Jeff Burris and Don Pope; The Caribbean Dream, a one man musical act by Leo O'Brian singing and playing the guitar and drums; Jonnie Garcia-Godoy, a pianist performing a medley of love songs; and John Speed, a pianist performing a tone poem which is a song describing a particular person, place or event. Speed's song, "Peace," advocated world peace.

Also included were Manipuri, an Indian classical dance performed by Swati Bose; the Aggie Wranglers, a nine-piece country and western dance group; Robert Interiano, a classical guitar performer; G. Surles, a country and western guitar; and the Kappa Kappa Gamma Pickers, a singing group performing with bongos, the washboard, spoons, guitars, a saw and a "bass tin tub." Former Miss Texas A&M Kay Walters opened the show by singing the theme song, "If They Could See Me Now."

The comedy team of Jim Buchholz and Dave Frame were masters of ceremonies. Buchholz was the first place winner in the 1983 Variety Show. The comedy team performed between each act and did a special pantomime about life at Bryan-College Station.

David White, 1984 Variety Show winner, was the featured performer giving three guitar/vocal selections.
