

TEXAS A&M UNIVERSITY SYMPHONIC BAND

IT'S REGISTRATION TIME AGAIN - PLAN AHEAD

- membership by audition each September
- instrumentation set for 75
- activities include concerts and a spring trip
- rehearsals twice a week
- open to all students

Begun in 1973, the Symphonic Band offers students at Texas A&M University the opportunity to play their instruments with others from across Texas and the nation. Rehearsing twice weekly, Tuesday and Thursday, from 12:30-1:45 p.m., the band allows students to play in a group while concentrating on their major field of study.

A&M's Gaye Lynn Gensler tries to hit a drop volley at the net during her singles match against Rice at the Omar Smith Tennis Center Monday. The Aggie women lost to the Owls 7-2, dropping their Southwest Conference record to 2-4, 26-20 overall.

Shaky Aggie netters drop match to Owls

By MARYBETH ROHSNER
Sports Writer

The Texas A&M women's tennis team was defeated by the Rice Owls yesterday in dual-match play, 7-2.

The Aggies' only victories were in the No. 2 and No. 5 singles spots and the No. 2 doubles spot.

Nandini Rangarajan was the only Aggie to win every match in both singles and doubles.

"I was feeling kinda shaky in the beginning," Rangarajan said of her first match against Rice's Eileen Cureri. Rangarajan managed to "shake off the shakies" to defeat Cureri 7-5, 6-1.

Junior Helen Christiaanse took the other Ag singles victory when she defeated Rice's Lori Cronk, 6-3, 6-1.

Though the team got off to a great start early in the season, recent injuries on the team have slowed down the Lady Ags.

"It's kinda been wearing everybody down," Rangarajan said. The team's tight schedule is also taking its toll on the players.

"A couple of days to improve our game would be nice," Rangarajan said. "But all the teams have tough schedules in the spring."

The women will host Texas Tech Friday and Houston Saturday at the Omar Smith Tennis Center. The Ags will be looking for a little revenge Friday after the 5-4 Red Raiders' victory last weekend at the New Mexico State Tournament.

"We're pretty psyched," Rangarajan said. "We definitely don't want to lose to them again."

Augusta National Golf Course uses 'Strange' way of evening the score

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. — The majestic beauty of Augusta National Golf Course can be deceiving.

The sprawling green carpet of grass seems to stretch as far as the eye can see. The sedate clubhouse comes straight out of antebellum America.

It is just lovely, unless you have to play 18 holes of golf over it. Then it can turn ugly, its shifting winds and lineoleum-slick greens playing horrible tricks with tee shots, approaches, chips and putts. And just when you think you've got it conquered, it humbles you.

Ask Curtis Strange. On the threshold of the greatest comeback in modern tournament golf history, Strange saw it slip away at the Masters Sunday, buried in an avalanche of back nine bogeys as Augusta National abruptly snubbed him like a jilted sweetheart.

And he has no rational explanation for it.

Strange had seen this capricious course's nasty side in the opening round when he shot an 80. It is hardly what you'd expect from the professional tour's leading money winner, playing in one of the game's most prestigious tournaments.

He was embarrassed, but to his credit, he did not surrender. Intellectually, he knew he was out of the hunt because you simply don't recover from that kind of round in tournament golf. Pure pride brought him back for Friday's second round and a near-record 65 kept him around for the weekend.

When he shot a 68 Saturday, he was one stroke off the lead, in position to write golf history. It had been 74 years since a player shot 80 in a major championship in this country and still won.

The momentum was going way and hardly anyone was surprised when he came charging in the green jacket, symbolic of championship, on Sunday.

He took the lead on the first hole with his second birdie of the round and after nine holes, he was in front by four strokes.

Then Augusta National got even. There are two par 5 holes on back nine of this course — Nos. 15 and 16 — and the pros often guard those holes. That's what Germany's Bernhard Langer did Sunday.

Curtis Strange attacked them, wound up wet for his trouble, ball twice landing in the water, guards those holes. The mystery it, Strange said, was that he had good shots.

That is the mystery of Augusta National.
