Broadcasters give air time to help stop drunk driving

Associated Press
 AUSTIN — Texas broadcasters and Mothers Against Drunk Driving joined Gov. Mark White Tuesday to begin a $13 million campaign aimed at reducing the number of alcohol-related traffic accidents and deaths. Don Chaney of Tyler, president of the Texas Association of Broadcasters, said 120 radio stations, 50 television stations and the Texas

State Network will air public service announcements beginning in mid-May and continuing through Labor Day. The broadcasters will give about $13 million worth of air time for the ads. "In mid-May these announcements will emphasize the importance of alcohol-free school celebrations," Chaney said.

During late May the broadcast will warn against drinking while driving and during June to mid-August broadcasts will stress drinking in moderation during family outings. State Director for MADD Marjorie Timmons said, "MADD's public awareness as the key to reducing the deaths and injuries on our highways."

Pickens' takeover bid stifled by adversary

Associated Press
 LOS ANGELES — Oilman T. Boone Pickens Jr. has encountered a tough adversary in Unocal Corp. Chairman Fred L. Hartley, a private man who went public with his disgust at takeover artists like Pickens. Pickens announced on Valentine's Day that he was accumulating Unocal stock, but financial analysts said there would be no love lost between the two men. Both sides are battling for shareholder support. Hartley has made no attempt to conceal his disdain for "corporate raiders" like Pickens, chairman of Mesa Petroleum Co. of Amarillo and head of an investor group called Mesa Partners II.

Mesa Partners is the vehicle Pickens has used to attack five large energy companies in the past few years — Cities Service Co., Superior Oil Co., Gulf Corp., Phillips Petroleum Co. and Unocal. Pickens, who portrays himself as a defender of shareholders, is someone who attacks only what he describes as entrenched management that has let stock become undervalued and done nothing to correct it. Hartley sees it differently. "When you have a short-term mind, and a small one at that, you can't see very far," he said of takeover artists and those who finance them. Unocal already had some anti-takeover measures (referred to in the financial community as "shark repellent") requiring a 75 percent shareholder vote to approve a takeover and setting up staggered board elections. It has since added more safeguards — limiting the ability of hostile shareholders to nominate directors and raise issues for a vote. Pickens, whose group owns 13.6 percent of Unocal, responded by offering to pay $54 per share, or a total of $3.46 billion, to increase that stake to 50.1 percent.

Anti-porn group protests Austin play opening

Associated Press
 AUSTIN — An anti-pornography group has turned its attention to "Let My People Come," a play with full nudity. Citizens Against Pornography picketed the Ritz Theater during Monday night's opening performance. "The advertisement says, 'Good, clean, dirty fun,'" said Mark Weaver, leader of the group. "What's good and clean about dirt? If we continue to tolerate sexual material and performances, and we don't draw the line, it's going to get worse."

At the time, Unocal stock was about $46 per share, up from the $35 per share it was attracting when Pickens began buying up the stock in October. Hartley responded to the Pickens group's Feb. 14 announcement with an offer by Unocal to repurchase 50 million of its shares in exchange for high-quality notes worth $72 per share. The play apparently worked. Although the Pickens group has not said how many shares have been tendered to its cash offer, it is believed to have fallen short.

Philip Roger Roy, the play's producer, said the play is not pornographic. "There is nothing dirty or erotic in the show," he said. The protesters are "people who are prejudging a show they know nothing about." Although cast members do not perform or simulate sex acts on stage, they do touch each other, Roy said. "They don't even kiss," he said.
