Connors, Lendl 'rain' true at French Open

Associated Press

PARIS — Jimmy Connors' lightning reflexes and Ivan Lendl's thunderous serve carried them to straight-set victories Wednesday, completing the men's singles semifinal pairings at the French Open tennis championships with the top four seeded players going for the title.

A thunderstorm that relieved nine consecutive days of blazing sunshine at Roland Garros Stadium interrupted Connors' 6-4, 6-3, 7-6 triumph over Sweden's Stefan Edberg, a victory highlighted by accurate winning passing shots against an opponent 13 years his junior.

Lendl, the defending champion from Czechoslovakia, relied on his heavy, accurate serve to carve out a 6-4, 6-2, 6-4 victory over the unseeded Martin Jaite of Argentina.

surface similar to the slow red clay of Roland Garros was last year in the WCT Tournament of Champions in New York when Lendl handed Connors the worst defeat of his career, 6-0, 6-0.

But not even the storm could dampen Connors' enthusiasm for a tournament he has never won, or even managed to reach the final.

Connors and Edberg were tied 5-5 in the third set when the storm halted play. Earlier, as lightning flashed around the stadium, the American missed four chances to break the Swede's serve at 4-4 and possibly end the match sooner.

But after the 55-minute interruption, the two players each held service to force the set into a tiebreaker, which Connors won 7-2, wrapping up the match.

"I really enjoy playing the young guys and still grinding it out," Connors said. "That's what really keeps me going more than anything."

Lendl never reached top form against Jaite, but he still had too many weapons in his armory for the 20-year-old South American.

Although Jaite's aggressive style delighted the crowd and produced some spectacular shots, he never really was in the match with Lendl after the two split the opening eight games of the match.

While top-seeded John McEnroe clashes with No. 4 Mats Wilander of Sweden, the second-seeded Lendl will meet No. 3 Connors on Friday.

Connors and Lendl have met 22 times since 1979, and the 32-year-old American has the edge 13-9. But the 25-year-old Czech has won their last four clashes, the last being in this year's WCT Finals when Connors had to retire because of a back injury.

Astros deck Cards, 8-3 using Bailey's heroics

Associated Press

ST. LOUIS — Mark Bailey hit a two-run homer, his second of the year, and Enos Cabell hit a two-run pinch double, powering the Houston Astros an 8-3 triumph Wednesday night over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Houston left-hander Bob Knepper, 6-1, blanked St. Louis through five innings on two hits. Knepper, while winning a fifth time in a row away from home, left in the sixth as the Cards were rallying for three runs.

Denny Walling's leadoff double followed by Jim Pankovits' two-out single sent the Astros to a 1-0 lead in the second inning against St. Louis right-hander Danny Cox, 6-2.

In the fifth, Pankovits led off with another single, and Bailey hit a 1-0 pitch from Cox over the right-field wall. Houston made it 4-0 in the sixth on Harry Spilman's RBI single before the Cards bounced back.
