

(pictured above) A customer buys fireworks from one of the many stands around this time of year. Though fireworks are legal outside city limits, it is illegal to sell them or set them off inside city limits. (to right) Fun with friends in the pool is one of many Fourth of July activities.

from Fourth p. 1

type of fish) die. Shads are usually the first fish affected by a problem, but they are the only ones that have died so far, he explains.

Camping facilities are also available on a first-come first-serve basis with fees ranging from $4 to $8 per night, depending upon the facilities.

CONTEMPORARY CHRISTIAN music fans can drive out to the Quiet Valley Ranch in Kerrville for the third annual Morning-Star Fest. Some of the artists for this year's festival include: Robin Crow, Tim Miner, the Joe English Band, Don Francisco, Geoff Moore, Carman, White Heart and Stephanie Boosahda.

Gates open at noon on Saturday, July 6. The festival will be from 4 p.m. until about midnight.

Advance admission is $15 for adults and $7.50 for children ages six to 12. Tickets are $2 more at the gate. For ticket information call (501)751-3947.

AND LET'S NOT FORGET THE annual "this is the last year" Willie Nelson Fourth of July Picnic. It's out at South Park Meadow, 9604 South IH-35. Call (512)443-2722 for details. □

Punk Woodstock?

By BRIAN PEARSON
Senior Staff Writer

ANYONE WHO WANTS TO participate in a truly psychedelic and soul-uplifting experience this weekend can attend this year's Woodshock at Dripping Springs near Austin.

Woodshock is the modern psychedelic and punk answer to the infamous Woodstock concert.

About 30 bands, mostly from Austin, will be playing at Woodshock starting at noon on Saturday. Some of the bands playing will probably include: Zeitgeist, Poison 13, Scratch Acid, Pez, the Hickoids, Glass Eye, the Dharma Bums and Doctor's Mob.

Maps and pre-sale tickets ($3.50) will probably be available at most Austin record stores, including Waterloo and Inner Sanctum. If not, just ask any punk walking around and he'll know how to get there and might even need a ride. Give him one.

The road from Dripping Springs to the ranch where the festival is held is an interesting one to travel at night, after the concert is over. It's mostly a bone-cracking dirt road which seems to fork about every 10 yards up to the entrance to the ranch.

Since it is in the middle of Nowhere, people can get decadent or whatever they please and not be bothered with the rules and regulations of our strict society.

LIKE LAST YEAR'S WOODSHOCK, most people will be in a different state of mind when leaving the festival. It's a comical experience seeing everyone wandering around the countryside in their cars looking for the main road back to Austin.

There's probably a few still out there going, "Hmm, I wonder where the hell we are?"

They will be sure to hear this year's festivities and find their way back to Woodshock. Out there, food, beer, and other refreshments will be available. There is a beautiful, gigantic, crater-like swimming hole for those with the guts to jump 40 feet off a cliff. Wimps can walk about a quarter of a mile down the trail to get to the bottom. Well, good luck if you go and be sure to have fun. □ movies-movies-movies

Movies are listed alphabetically. The Grove movies will be shown on listed date only. The rating and theater code name are in parenthesis. The theater codes are:

GR — The Grove	845-1515
ME — Manor East	823-8300
P3 — Plitt Cinema III	846-6714
PO — Plitt Post Oak	764-0616
S6 — Schulman Six	775-2463

American Graffiti (Mon., PG, GR)

Ron Howard, Cindy Williams and Richard Dreyfuss star. See if you can spot Harrison Ford in his cameo appearance.

Back to the Future (PG, P3)

This new Spielberg film about a kid who gets transported back to the 50s and sees his parents as high school sweethearts will replace "A View to a Kill" on Wednesday.

Beverly Hills Cop (R, S6)

An Eddie Murphy comedy.

Brewster's Millions (PG, ME)

Richard Pryor and John Candy show us how to spend money.

Cocoon (PG-13, P3)

Ron Howard directs this science-fantasy adventure.

Fletch (PG, S6)

Chevy Chase stars as a reporter with many disguises.

The Goonies (PG, PO)

Seven kids follow an old map to a secret treasure.

St. Elmo's Fire (R, PO)

Is this the next "Big Chill?" See review on next page.

Lifeforce (R, S6)

Sci-fi flick about alien vampires that invade earth and feed off the lifeforce of humans.

Lone Wolf McQuade (Fri., R, GR)

Not quite sure what this one's about.

Pale Rider (R, S6)

Clint Eastwood is back in the saddle after a nine-year absence.

Paris, Texas (R, ME)

Sad, sensitive look at the reuniting of a broken family. Nice photography.

Perfect (R, S6)

John Travolta plays a journalist and Jamie Lee Curtis is into aerobics.

Prizzi's Honor (R, ME)

Black comedy starring Jack Nicholson and Kathleen Turner as Mafia killers who fall in love.

Rambo (R, P3)

Sylvester Stallone stars in First Blood Part II.

Return to Oz (G, PO)

A non-musical sequel to Wizard of Oz. O.K., but it's not as good as the original.

Secret Admirer (R, S6)

This farce follows a love letter as it goes to all the wrong people.

View to a Kill (PG, PO)

The latest and most limp Bond movie.

Who's Killing the Great Chefs of Europe (Wed., PG, GR)

Definitely not a very tasty movie.