Navratilova sends Italian into U.S. Open time warp

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Defending women's champion Martina Navratilova made a cameo appearance Sunday to join five-time winner Jimmy Connors and No. 2 men's seed Ivan Lendl in the fourth round of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

Navratilova dropped only 21 points as she breezed through Italy's Sandra Cecchini 6-0, 6-1. The match was over so fast that there was a question on how long she took.

The official clock on the court said the match was 37 minutes long, but umpire Jim McKnight listed it as 27 minutes on his scorecard. A replay of the television tape, however, showed the official clock was correct.

Connors, the only man to win America's premier tennis event on all three surfaces on which it has been played — grass, clay and hardcourt — defeated Thierry Tulasne of France 7-5, 6-2, 6-2. The victory was his 75th, tying him with Vic Seixias for the most men's singles matches won in a career.

"I'm happy to have tied it and to have won so many matches here," Connors said. "I didn't even know about it until I walked out there and played. I'm here to play and try to win the tournament."

Lendl, who has reached the final in each of the last three years only to lose, crushed Horacio De La Pena of Argentina 6-1, 6-1, 6-3.

Also posting third-round victories Sunday on the hardcourts of the National Tennis Center were seventh-seeded Yannick Noah and his French Davis Cup teammate, Henri Leconte; No. 11 Stefan Edberg of Sweden, Switzerland's Heinz Gunthardt and 18-year-old Jay Berger of Plantation, Fla.

Joining Navratilova in the fourth round of the women's singles were No. 8 Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria, No. 11 Steffi Graf of West Germany, No. 13 Catarina Lindqvist of Sweden and two Americans, Alycia Moulton and Kate Gompert.

Lendl, quietly slipping through the draw while the spotlight has been on defending champion John McEnroe, Connors and Wimbledon champion Boris Becker, said his lopsided victories are indicative of how well he has been playing.

"I would have to say that I haven't faced any players (who) ... have game to push me," he said. "I'm definitely playing my best this summer but I was playing awfully well at West Hills," when he won the Tournament of Champions in May, downing McEnroe in the final.

The crowd in Louis Armstrong Stadium applauded loudly when Cecchini held serve to begin the set. It was her lone moment to shine in the bright sunshine as Navratilova was devastating.

Navratilova served only six times the match — and was taken to court only once. But she broke Cecchini's service six times.

It was Navratilova's easiest match, she has rounded into top form for the final week of this Grand Slam tournament. She has yet to lose a set and dropped only six games in her three matches.

"It reinforces the fact I am hitting the ball well," Navratilova said of her brief Stadium Court appearance in 1983, when I won it (the women's singles title), only the final went on for more than one hour."

Noah said he is beginning to feel comfortable on the DecoTurf II and with his game.

"I'm pleased I have been improving with every match," said the winner of the 1983 French Open.

Paper Aggies

Bernstine has made the full transition from tailback to become the starter and Rich Siler and Sylvester Morgan are the kind of back-ups that could start anywhere else in the conference.

The Aggies' offensive line looks like it's finally reached its potential under new line coach Joe Avezzano.

Guard Randy Dausin and Tackle Doug Williams return to make the right side of A&M's line a noseguard's nightmare. Trace McGuire has won a starting spot at left guard, as has Louis Cheek at left tackle. Matt Wilson is only a sophomore, but should be a more than adequate replacement for All-SWC center Matt Darwin.

So, if you take A&M's offense and defense into account, the Aggies look good on paper.

And, since the Aggies have improved their record by a game in each of Sherrill's seasons as coach, going 5-6 in '82, 5-5-1 in '83 and 6-5 in '84, it seems easy to assume that they should at least go 7-4 in '85.

Well, I'm going to up that and put my egg on the line, or my money on one basket, or however those things go.

A&M will finish 8-3 overall, third in the SWC, behind Arkansas and Texas, and probably wind up in a bowl game somewhere in Houston or El Paso.

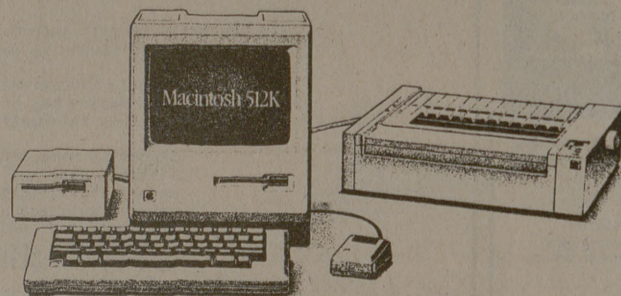

I just hope the sun or bluebonnets aren't made out of paper.
