Advisory board presents students' views to chancellor and regents

By FRANK SMITH
Staff Writer

The leader of the Chancellor's Student Advisory Board said last week the Texas A&M Board of Regents often is incorrectly characterized by the media as being unconcerned about students.

"A lot of times the media portray the regents as businessmen who don't really have much concern for student life or things like that," said Madelon Yanta, chairman of the CSAB and a senior finance major at Texas A&M. "Anyone who's a member of the CSAB can tell you that it's quite the contrary."

"Serving the campuses for the students is their primary concern — and making your diplomas worth a little more."

Yanta was elected to head the 13-person CSAB in April. The organization is composed of delegates from each school in the Texas A&M University System. The CSAB has five delegates from Texas A&M, three from Prairie View A&M University, three from Tarleton State University and two from Texas A&M University at Galveston.

The A&M delegates are: Yanta, Mark Self, Doug Robinett, Legislative Study Group Director Michael O'Quinn and Student Body President Sean Royall. David Klosterboer serves as an alternate delegate.

Yanta said the group was formed three years ago after attempts by the Legislative Study Group to have a student representative on the Board of Regents failed.

She said the CSAB was created in part to offer a student viewpoint to the chancellor.

It also serves to increase communication among the system schools, Yanta said.

"Basically it's an exchange of information between the campuses," she said. "We kind of help each other out and unite on different things. For example, we united as a group — as a system — and opposed the tuition increase, whereas A&M alone opposing it means a little bit less."

"When the Board (of regents) is in town, we observe their meeting — usually the Planning and Building Committee meetings. Since the regents meet every other month, we meet at a different campus of the system on the other months."

Yanta said CSAB committees conduct studies and present reports along with any recommendations they might have to the chancellor, each university president and each regent. A committee usually consists of four people — one delegate from each system school.

Two committees have been formed so far this year, Yanta said.

One is the Committee on Inter-campus Relations, which is headed by Self.

"That committee is going to generate a comprehensive report — especially on the effects of the tuition hike," Yanta said. "We're looking at enrollment effects, the effect that it has had on financial aid and the effect that it's had on student life."

"And there are going to be different effects on each of the campuses because each of the campuses is a different type of academic institution. Each one of the schools within the system has certain goals and a certain type of student that they are trying to appeal to."

"And so, as a result, some little things are going to be very much the same. Some of them, though, are going to be a little different. So we want to be able to say, 'Across the board we found these things — and then at each institution we found these things.'"

The other committee currently at work, the Program Exchange Committee, is headed by Darryl Shriver of Tarleton State.

Yanta said the committee will try to initiate both cultural and academic exchanges among the system schools.

An example of a cultural exchange would be for the theatrical group from Prairie View to perform at A&M. Plans are being made to try to bring the group here, Yanta said.

She said an example of an academic exchange would be for a professor from one of the system schools to speak at another system campus or perhaps work on a project in conjunction with people at another system school.

The next CSAB meeting will be Oct. 20 at Tarleton State.

Bus Stop Snack Bar plans grand opening

By BRIAN PEARSON
Staff Writer

The Bus Stop Snack Bar, located at the corner of Ross and Ireland streets, opened Tuesday, but the grand opening and accompanying festivities will be Monday.

"I think we're going to have fun this Monday," said Lloyd Smith, assistant director of the Food Services Department.

Smith said that during the grand opening activities between 2 p.m. and 3 p.m., a bicycle, gifts, balloons and t-shirts will be given away. He added that there will be a number of surprises.

Free soft drinks will be available all day as well as a 95 cent food special which includes a hot dog, chips and a flying disc.

"We'll also have some free Yoplait Yogurt as long as supplies last," Smith said.

The snack bar, which is open Monday through Friday from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., successfully served between 1,000 and 1,500 customers on Tuesday, Smith said.

Smith said he expects from 3,000 to 4,000 customers per day to be served in the future.

The snack bar menu includes nachos, hamburgers, hot dogs, chips, sandwiches and other items similar to other snack bars on campus. Eggs and sausage are served from 7:30 a.m. to about 9:30 a.m.

The prices on these items are identical to the same items around campus.

The spot where the Bus Stop Snack Bar now stands was a shelter for students waiting for off-campus shuttle buses.

Smith said the human traffic flow in the area made it a prime spot for the snack bar.

"It didn't take a lot of research for traffic flow," he said. "All you had to do was go out there in between classes. My guess is that's one of the busiest pedestrian corners in the state of Texas."

mel brooks' archy & mehitabel

A DELIGHTFUL MUSICAL COMEDY

Book by Joe Darion and Mel Brooks Music by George Kleinsinger Lyrics by Joe Darion

(Based on the stories of Don Marquis)
Produced on Broadway as SHINBONE ALLEY

This delightful musical comedy is based on the little poems, paragraphs and sketches with which Don Marquis embroidered his daily column in the old New York Sun. His vignettes about Archy, the free-verse cockroach poet with a soul, and Mehitabel, the amoral alley cat, were full of wisdom, gaiety and sadness. He showed us life from the underside where the seams are, and "... you sure can learn a lot from that angle, Charley!"
