Michigan climbs to No. 2 spot

Associated Press

Iowa remained No. 1 in the Associated Press college football poll Monday, but Michigan edged ahead of Oklahoma to set up a 1-2 showdown this Saturday, while surprising Army cracked the rankings for the first time in 23 years.

Iowa is No. 1 for the third week in a row after defeating Wisconsin 23-13.

Michigan, which blanked Michigan State 31-0, exchanged places with Oklahoma. The Sooners slipped from second to third despite a 14-7 victory over Texas that knocked the Longhorns out of the Top Twenty.

Southern Methodist, a 21-14 loser to Baylor, was the only other team to fall out of the rankings.

Florida State fell to 13th and Oklahoma State dropped to 12th. Meanwhile, Arkansas climbed from sixth to fourth and Florida rose from seventh to fifth by defeating Tennessee 17-10.

Aggie netters to finish rain-delayed tourney

By KEN SURY
Sports Writer

The Texas A&M women's tennis team will meet some familiar net opponents as it finishes a tournament today at A&M — itself.

Rain showers Sunday evening cut short the doubles semifinal matches of the Houston Fall Festival (HFF) Tournament and left three Aggie tandems to come home to the Omar Smith Tennis Center and play each other for the HFF championship.

A&M's Kim Labuschagne and Karen Marshall, who entered the tournament as the No. 4 seeded doubles team, have already made it to championship match, even though they only played five games of their semifinal match and were losing.

Labuschagne and Marshall were behind 3-2 in the first set of their match against Rice University's Lori Kronk and Wendy Wood. But then the rain began to fall, and Rice, deciding they could not reschedule the match, opted to default instead.

"I wish we could have finished," Labuschagne said Monday. "It would have been a good match. We've (Labuschagne and Marshall) had a lot of slow starts, but then usually play well and take the later sets."

The other two Aggie doubles teams were also in action when the skies opened up.

Vanne Akagi and Gave Lynne Gensler, seeded No. 1 and last year's tourney's champion, had just won their first set against fellow Ags Kellie Dorman and Helen Christiaanse, 6-1, and had served the first point of the second set when their match had to be stopped.

So that leaves the three doubles teams, familiar to playing each other in practice, to fight it out for the HFF championship here, starting about 2 p.m. — weather permitting.

Marshall said it will not be an easy final match against either Akagi-Gensler or Dorman-Christiaanse, especially since they're teammates.

Dorman said, "We'll have to exclude the fact that we are playing our teammates and treat it as any other match."

Labuschagne added, "We'll go on the court with the same attitude we always have. It wouldn't change our attitude even if it was Chris (Evert-Lloyd) and Martina (Navratilova) we had to play."

The tandems of Akagi-Gensler and Dorman-Christiaanse will pick up their semifinal match where they left off Sunday.

"That's going to be one interesting match," Christiaanse said. "Although they're our teammates, this is a tournament and you have to try to be serious about it."

Gensler said that although she and Akagi won the first set, "We can't hold back. They're talented and they could beat anybody."

Akagi also said she doesn't like playing her teammates.

"We practice against each other, so it's hard to go all out, but it is a tournament."

In the tourney's singles action, which were concluded, Akagi lost the championship match 6-2, 6-1, to No. 1 seed Wood of Rice, but Akagi said the match was closer than the score indicated.

"I think I played pretty well," the third-seeded Akagi said. "We (Akagi and Wood) must have had at least eight deuce games. It was the crucial points that I didn't make."
