Texas A&M fullback Anthony Toney, and the rest of the Aggies' offense, will get their first big Southwest Conference test, when A&M travels to Waco to play Baylor at 7 p.m. Saturday. The Bears rank third in the SWC in total defense, behind Arkansas and A&M.

Something will give in A&M-BU clash

By BRANDON BERRY
Sports Writer

Texas A&M has played one Top 20 team this season and lost, 23-10, to Alabama. The Baylor Bears haven't played against A&M, with both teams sporting undefeated Southwest Conference records, since 1974. Baylor lost to the Aggies that year, 20-0.

Something has to give, and on Saturday at 7 p.m. in Waco's Baylor Stadium, it will probably be the Cotton Bowl hopes of the loser.

"Texas A&M (4-1, 2-0 in the SWC) is hot right now and so are we," Baylor defensive tackle Steve Grumbine said. "Every year it seems like this is one of the better games of the season."

"It looks like it is going to be a great race for the conference title this year, and this game will probably have a lot to say about who's going to the Cotton Bowl."

The Aggies and Bears (5-1, 3-0 in the SWC) set up the dramatic "Battle of the Brazos" with victories last week over Houston and SMU, respectively.

The Aggies turned 150 return yards by Jimmie Hawkins, including a 32-yard interception return for a touchdown, into "instant offense", as they routed the Cougars, 43-16, in Kyle Field.

The Bears added another Top 20 scalp to their growing collection with a 21-14 victory over the "Probation Ponies" from SMU.

The Baylor defense held an SMU offense, which had been averaging 304 rushing yards and 515 total yards per game, to just 150 yards rushing and 236 total yards.

For the season, the Baylor defense ranks third in the conference (behind Arkansas and A&M) and yields an average of 13.8 points and 262 yards per game.

And the Bears have done it against more than formidable competition.

Baylor opened the season with a wipe-out of Wyoming, a narrow loss to Georgia, a toppling of third-ranked Southern Cal, a thrashing of Texas Tech, and close SWC victories over Houston and SMU.

The Aggies aren't ranked in the Top 20, but A&M Coach Jackie Sherrill doesn't expect Baylor to lack emotion.

"Baylor's defensive concepts are very solid," Sherrill said. "Grumbine is very physical and doesn't lose many battles and we'll have a little guard, Jerry Fontenot, who doesn't have much lead in his pants."

Or experience under his belt.

Fontenot is a redshirt freshman starting in place of right guard Randy Dausin, who will start at left tackle for the injured Louis Cheek.

"Cheek and (outside linebacker) Steve Bullitt are doubtful for Saturday, and (safety) Lance Jackson and (linebacker) Darrell Smith are definitely out," Sherrill said at his weekly press conference Tuesday.

"Naturally, when you take players away it's a concern," he said. "But if you've got a chance to win, you have to win with the players you have."

The Bears are a perfect example of winning with the players they have, rather than the "blue chip" recruits that rarely grace their roster.

Baylor wins with a defense that bends, but rarely breaks and an offense that, while not particularly flashy, has been effective in putting points on the scoreboard.

Sherrill said the Aggies must guard against mistakes and make the Bears earn their points the hard way.

"We can't let them do to us what they did to Houston, Tech and SMU, and that's split the zone (coverage in the defensive secondaries). They made Houston bust so many coverages, that they gave them (Baylor) 14 points."

Last week, the Aggies didn't need anything from the Cougars in rolling over UH to their fourth straight win.

"There's no rest for the weary," Baylor Coach Grant Teaff said. "They're one of the most gifted teams I've ever seen at Texas A&M and, in my 14 years, I've seen some gifted A&M teams. They have the most offensive balance I've ever seen them have."

"What scares me the most is that they manhandled, and I mean manhandled, a team we barely beat. They took the team that played in the Cotton Bowl last year and manhandled them."

Baylor has seen teams with impressive numbers fall into the loss column enough times already this season to be scared of another opponent with flashy credentials.

"They've (the Bears) beaten Southern Cal and they've beaten SMU," Sherrill said. "They deserve their Top 20 ranking. They're a better team than Alabama. They have a better offense than Alabama."

So, on Saturday night, will it be the irresistible force or the immovable object?

"It's going to be Baylor against Texas A&M," Teaff said, "and lately that's been quite a battle."
