NBA teams leery of Rocket 'Towers'

Associated Press

HOUSTON — Houston Rocket "Twin Towers" Ralph Sampson and Akeem Olajuwon are an awesome twosome when both are playing outstanding games.

The Rockets' NBA opponents are discovering, though, that containing just one of the Towers doesn't assure a victory.

The Rockets will take a 4-2 record into Thursday night's game against the unbeaten Los Angeles Clippers and they've been aided in their fast start by the individual surges of Sampson and Olajuwon.

Olajuwon destroyed the Portland Trailblazers Tuesday night with 41 points and 18 rebounds. He had 27 first half points when other Rocket scorers were struggling.

Last week, Sampson was in the spotlight, scoring 24 points and grabbing 13 rebounds to lead the Rockets past Seattle, while Olajuwon was slowed by fouls.

"Tonight was one of his outstanding games," said Portland center Sam Bowie, who picked up five fouls trying to stop Olajuwon. "It's a game for him to cherish in the NBA. Everyone knows his capabilities on the basketball court. There aren't many games like he had around. He was perfection."

Rockets players and coaches enjoyed the show too.

"It was a thing of beauty," Houston veteran guard John Lucas said. "To be out there on the floor and watch a great player doing great things just gets you excited."

The Blazers held Sampson to 12 points and slowed him with five personal fouls. But he took up the slack against Seattle when Olajuwon drew four fouls and scored 13 points in a 111-99 victory.

"It's obvious to me that Ralph and Akeem seem more comfortable with that year's experience," SuperSonics center Jack Sikma said. "I think Akeem seems a little stronger powering to the boards. If he gets that one step on you, there's no way to hold him off."

Rockets Coach Bill Fitch likes the odds when both Twin Towers are playing well.

"They've played some of their best games when both of them were going good," Fitch said. "But that's the beauty of having two players like that. If one of them is having an off night, you can lean on the other one."

Olajuwon scored a career high 42 points last season against Golden State and wanted to go for the record Tuesday night.

He missed a free throw in the final seconds that would have tied his mark.

"When you have a game like that, you don't get tired," Olajuwon said.

Portland Coach Jack Ramsay said it was the best game he's seen from Olajuwon.

"Olajuwon played a super game and we didn't have an answer for him," Ramsay said. "He made routine shots and difficult shots and he blocked shots. He did it all."

Sampson criticized Fitch during the preseason, complaining that he was forced to play with an injury. Sampson said Fitch was unhappy that Sampson spent the latter part of the summer in Europe instead of working out in Houston.

There has been surface congeniality since the season started between the two, and Fitch is very pleased with Olajuwon's progress.

Fitch said Olajuwon's performance Tuesday night looked like practice.

The play of Houston forward Ralph Sampson (above) and teammate Akeem Olajuwon has helped the Rockets to a 4-2 start this season.

"That's the way he practices," Fitch said. "He's a blue-collar worker, a delight to be around."

Ramsay came within a coin toss of being the coach to make such a statement.

Portland made the wrong call on a coin toss prior to the 1984-85 season that allowed the Rockets to draft Olajuwon.

The Trailblazers took Bowie as the consolation prize that led to Tuesday's Bowie-Olajuwon confrontation.

"When you shut down one of them, you have a chance to win," Bowie said. "But tonight the other one (Olajuwon) took it on his shoulders and he was an aircraft carrier."

"Everyone had high expectations that if anyone could dethrone the (Los Angeles) Lakers, it would be Portland or Houston. Now you'd have to say it's Houston."
