Baseball's Bay future uncertain

Giants may move to Denver temporarily

Associated Press
SAN FRANCISCO — The San Francisco Giants will discuss their desire to leave Candlestick Park, perhaps temporarily for Denver, with a committee of National League executives on Thursday.

League President Chub Feeney said Wednesday he will join Peter O'Malley of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Ballard Smith of the San Diego Padres and Bill Giles of the Philadelphia Phillies in a meeting Thursday with Giants owner Bob Lurie.

"We're going to talk about the Giants' problems with the stadium," Feeney said. "We want to get an idea of where they are, what they're thinking about, and what they want to do."

All the National League clubs received a letter from the San Francisco city attorney in September threatening them with lawsuits if they approved a move by the Giants that breached the team's lease at Candlestick.

Feeney labeled as "speculation" a report that a decision on the future of the Giants could result from the meeting. Asked if it were reasonable speculation, he said, "I don't think so."

Lurie has said several times that under his ownership the Giants will not play again at cold and windy Candlestick Park, where they have a lease through 1994.

Lurie also said he has no plans to sell the club, which has lost money in all but two of the 10 seasons he has owned it.

"My commitment to finding a solution to our current problems which will keep the Giants in San Francisco remains unshakable," Lurie said in a statement Wednesday.

The Giants recently made a bid to share the nearby Oakland Coliseum with the American League's Oakland A's until a downtown stadium is built in San Francisco. But the Giants were rebuffed by the A's, the Coliseum board and Oakland city officials.

San Francisco Mayor Dianne Feinstein backed the plan to move temporarily to Oakland, but gave a cool response to an alternative plan by the Giants to move to Denver until a downtown San Francisco stadium is built.

Two new coaches enter SWC basketball chase

Associated Press
DALLAS — Arkansas' Nolan Richardson and Baylor's Gene Iba join the Southwest Conference basketball coaches' fraternity this year and Richardson has been put on the hot spot as the favorite.

Richardson replaced Eddie Sutton who went to Kentucky and Iba comes into a troubled Baylor program which was hit by a scandal last season, costing Jim Haller his job.

"I think Arkansas should be the favorite because the Razorbacks return 13 lettermen," Houston Coach Guy Lewis said.

Richardson, who built the University of Tulsa into a basketball power, doesn't mind the hot seat.

"We have the talent to have a good basketball team," Richardson said. "We're not going to play basketball, we're going to play 'Hawgball.' We want to be greedy with the basketball."

"When we don't have the ball, we want to do what it takes to get the ball. We will have a chance to score off our defense. We will press and play a lot of different defenses."

The SWC is expected to be more balanced this year because dominating centers have gone to the pros.

Seven-foot Jon Koncak of Southern Methodist and 6-11 Joe

Kleine of Arkansas are in the NBA, along with Akeem "The Dream" Olajuwon of Houston, who left the league two years ago.

"I think it will be really a wide open race," said Texas Christian Coach Jim Killingsworth. "It looks like Texas A&M returns the most starting talent, but you just can't count out teams like Houston and Arkansas. Everyone has a chance to figure in this thing before it's over."

Texas Tech is the defending SWC Champion, but the Red Raiders of Coach Gerald Myers lost all five starters.

"Replacing the five senior starters off last year's team will be a challenge for us as a team," Myers said. "Our team should have good confidence going into the season based on the way last year went for us. A lot of the players on last year's team learned about what it takes to win and that should help us a lot."

Myers said the SWC race could be a "crazy one. There really isn't any one team that should just dominate the whole conference. Arkansas, A&M and SMU will all be strong again and Houston will be tough as always."

"The rest of us have a chance to develop into good teams as the year goes on so it should make for an interesting race."

Iba said, "It's very difficult for me to tell how we will do during the upcoming season. Our players have to adjust to a new system and sometimes this is difficult."

Richardson said he expects the Razorbacks to be under the gun from the very start.

"I inherited a good job but an extremely tough schedule," he said. "The Southwest Conference is a strong conference and I'm glad to be a part of it. Houston always has good teams and I understand A&M has almost everyone back from a very good year."

The top returning players include Winston Crite of A&M, Carven Holcombe of TCU, Carlos Briggs of Baylor, Butch Moore of SMU, Alvin Franklin of Houston, and William Mills and Andrew Lang of Arkansas.

Gooden wins NL Cy Young

Associated Press
NEW YORK — Soft-spoken but hard-throwing Dwight Gooden of the New York Mets became the youngest player ever to win the Cy Young award, receiving unanimous acclaim Wednesday as the best pitcher in the National League last season.

Gooden, who turns 21 on Saturday, also became the first pitcher to win Rookie of the Year and Cy Young awards in successive seasons. The right-hander had a record of 24-4 and led the National League in earned run average, strikeouts, complete games and innings pitched.

Gooden received 120 points, including all 24 of the first-place votes cast by the Baseball Writers' Association of America, becoming the seventh pitcher to receive the award unanimously.

John Tudor of St. Louis, 21-8 during the season, was second with 65 points, followed by Orel Hershiser of Los Angeles with 17, Joaquin Andujar of St. Louis with 6, Fernando Valenzuela of Los Angeles with 4, Tom Browning of Cincinnati with 3 and Jeff Reardon of Montreal with 1.

The other unanimous winners were Sandy Koufax in 1963, '65 and '66; Denny McLain in 1968; Bob Gibson in 1968; Steve Carlton in 1972 and '77; Ron Guidry in 1978, and Rick Sutcliffe in 1984.

Votes are cast by two members of the BBWAA from each National League city with a first-place vote counting five points, three for second and one for third.

"I'm honored to have my name listed with the other Cy Young winners," Gooden said. "So much has happened to me in such a short period of time — Rookie of the Year last year and now this. Still, I would gladly trade both of these awards for one World Series ring. That's what I will be shooting for next year."

The award came to Gooden three days before his 21st birthday, making him 13 days younger than Valenzuela when the Dodgers' southpaw won his Cy Young Award in 1981. Valenzuela was 10 days past his 21st birthday when he won the award on Nov. 11 of that year.

Bowl game match-ups to be selected

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Football Writer

The official bowl invitation date still is one Saturday off. Coming up however, is the unofficial selection date, which usually turns out to be more official than the official one.

"Most of the deals will be made this weekend," says one high-placed bowl representative.

If you don't think that deals are made in advance, you have only to remember back to last year when the Cotton Bowl and Doug Flutie became a twosome. The Cotton Bowl's head honcho is Jim "Hoss" Brock, chairman of all the bowl committees and the fellow who got the "official" selection date pushed back a week this year to the fourth Saturday in November; the Boston College athletic director is Bill Flynn, a former president of the NCAA.

Here are several rumors:

- Penn State to the Orange Bowl.
- The Big Ten co-champion or runner-up to the Cotton Bowl.
- And is NBC-TV thinking about sweetening the Fiesta Bowl pot and pairing 9-0 Penn State and 10-0 Air Force, assuming both keep winning?

A lot will fall into place this weekend when Penn State entertains Notre Dame and Air Force visits Brigham Young.
