Anti-abortionists, politicians protest

Associated Press

DALLAS — Throngs of anti-abortionists, accompanied by candidates plugging their political campaigns, took advantage of a spring-like Sunday to chant slogans and march on a hospital that performs abortions.

About 2,000 people gathered on a baseball diamond in a central Dallas park to commemorate Sanctity of Life Day proclaimed by President Reagan and to observe the anniversary of the 1973 Supreme Court decision that legalized abortions.

The demonstration ended with a march to Presbyterian Hospital in Dallas, during which protesters carried 1,300 plywood crosses. Bill Price, president for the Texas Coalition for Life, said the crosses symbolized abortions performed at the hospital since 1973.

Protesters chanted "Abortion is Murder" and sang "Jesus Loves The

"Do you want a governor who says the killing of an unborn child is a matter of choice? Then Mark White must go." — Bill Price, president for the Texas Coalition for Life.

Little Children" while gathered outside yellow cords that roped off the hospital's grounds. Dallas police had to turn away some protesters as they began marching up one of the hospital's driveways.

During the rally, Price told the protesters that they are "winning ground" in the abortion controversy. "We're winning the war of public opinion and we're going to turn this thing around," he said.

Price quoted the vice president of Planned Parenthood in New York as saying anti-abortionists "skills have increased," "have become more sophisticated" and "are rapidly recruiting additional followers, particularly the young."

The rally was one of several held across the nation marking the Jan. 22, 1973, Roe vs. Wade decision that legalized abortions, including a rally in Fort Worth Sunday that drew about 300 people. Other rallies were held in Austin and Beaumont Saturday.

Price told protesters that if they are "tired of the legislative door being slammed" on them, top-ranking Democratic officials would have to be voted out of office.

"Do you want a governor who says the killing of an unborn child is a matter of choice?" Price asked testers. "Then Mark White must go."

Price criticized state Attorney General Jim Mattox, saying he rasses centers that counsel women who may be facing an unwanted pregnancy.

Officials at Presbyterian Hospital would not comment on Sunday demonstration.

Attorney General candidate Walsh and 199th District Judge John Roach of Collin County both pledged to try to change abortion laws.

Other politicians present included Sen. John Leedom, R-Dallas, Bill Cerverha, R-Richardson, representative candidate Gary Repp and Fifth congressional district senatorial candidate John Ter.

Gubernatorial candidates Loeffler and Kent Hance were shown, although Loeffler did not letter pledging his support.

Hansen, faculty to discuss core curriculum

By SONDRA PICKARD Staff Writer

The Texas A&M Faculty Senate will hear a guest presentation from Dr. Arthur G. Hansen, chancellor of the Texas A&M University System, and will discuss proposed changes and recommendations on the core curriculum today at 3:15 p.m. in 601 Rudder.

Hansen will discuss possible ways for faculty to provide input to the search committee for the new chancellor and also will speak on the core curriculum proposal.

The Senate will hear and discuss proposed changes in the core curriculum and may possibly vote on specific modifications. However, Dr.

Jaen Laane, Senate speaker, says no final vote will be taken at the meeting. He says he hopes the Senate will achieve a final vote on the curriculum by April.

Under the proposal, which has been researched for nearly two years, each student also would be required to take, in addition to state and University requirements, six hours in speech and writing, mathematics/logic, cultural heritage and social science. The proposal also recommends the student take eight hours of science.

Also, a student entering the University will be required to complete one computer course, unless the student has completed at least one course before entering the University or can demonstrate proficiency on an examination.

It also proposes a student be required to take two semesters of a foreign language unless the student has had two years of foreign language in high school or can demonstrate proficiency of a second language.

In other business, the University Curriculum Committee will recommend approval of a course description change for Physical Education 199 and the Graduate Council will recommend approval of three new graduate courses in aerospace engineering, civil engineering and computer science. The Senate also will hear a request from the Committee on Graduate Minority Merit Fellowships to consider revisions in its guidelines.

The Faculty Club Subcommittee will present preliminary bylaws to the Senate for the Texas A&M Faculty Club, which would be open to many faculty members and guests, and would be located on the eleventh floor of Rudder Tower. Through the faculty club, the committee hopes to provide a central location for faculty interaction, promote organization of discussion groups, and provide a facility small University and community celebrations and parties.

The Senate also will hear a proposed resolution on professor emeritus status, including new procedures in awarding emeritus status to A&M faculty.
