Bears blast Patriots 46-10 in Superbowl

Walter deserves all the credit. This win is for him."

Dent was credited with 1½ sacks, forcing two fumbles and even knocking down a pass to lead the defense.

"I had a dream," Dent said. "I really felt I could be the MVP. I felt it all week. It just proves if you have a dream you can get there. But you've got to have a dream."

He also has got to have a contract. For a while, the $90,000-a-year All-Pro defensive end threatened to sit out the Super Bowl unless his contract was renegotiated.

New England, which had forced 16 turnovers in its three playoff victories, forced its 17th on the second play of the game when Payton fumbled and Larry McGrew recovered on the Chicago 19.

But in a hint of things to come, Tony Eason was harried into three incomplete passes and New England had to settle for Tony Franklin's 36-yard field goal. The score, 1:19 into the game, was the earliest in Super Bowl history and the first points scored in the playoffs against the Bears, who ended up outscoring their three post-season opponents 101-10.

With the help of a 43-yard pass from McMahon to Willie Gault, Chicago came right back to tie at 3-3 on Kevin Butler's 28-yard field goal, the first of three for the rookie kicker.

Then came the defense — Dent in particular — setting up 10 points in 1:03 to give the Bears a 13-3 lead at the end of the first quarter.

First Dent sacked Eason to force a fumble that was recovered by Dan Hampton at the New England 13. Five plays later — one of them a pitchout to Perry, who raised his arm to pass, then was sacked for a one-yard loss — Butler made it 6-3 with a 24-yard field goal.

Then Dent crashed into Craig James, jarring the ball loose for Mike Singletary to pounce upon, again at the 13. One play later, Matt Suhey burst 11 yards off tackle for the first touchdown of the game.

It got no better for the Patriots. Chicago's offense went 59 yards in 10 plays to set up a score that made it 20-3 midway through the second period. McMahon got the TD, slanting in from two yards.

Then the Bears, who needed no extra help, got some from Red Cashion's officiating crew to get the 24-yard field goal by Butler that gave them a 23-3 halftime lead.

With no time outs left and the clock running down, McMahon scrambled to the New England two. As both teams milled around, center Jay Hilgenberg snapped the ball to McMahon, who threw it out of bounds, stopping the clock with three seconds left. Chicago was penalized for illegal procedure and Butler was allowed to come on to the field to kick.

But Art McNally, the NFL's supervisor of officials, later said the kick should have been disallowed. Because the clock was stopped with no time outs left, 10 seconds should have been run off ending the half before the ball was snapped again.

The second half was strictly anticlimax.

McMahon snuck in from the one to make it 30-3 at the end of a 96-yard drive that featured his 60-yard connection with Gault. Then Reggie Phillips made it 37-3 1:06 later when he picked off a pass by Steve Grogan that bounced off Derrick Ramsey and returned it 28 yards for a touchdown.

Grogan had entered the game in the second quarter after Eason, who had been hit by a virus Friday, went zero-for-six and was sacked three times.

Perry scored his touchdown three minutes later after Wilber Marshall recovered Cedric Jones' fumble. Six defensive tackle Henry Wachter wrapped up the scoring when he sacked Grogan in the end zone with 5:36 left in the game.

That capped an astounding season for Chicago.

Excluding the Bears' only loss, 38-24 decision in Miami, Chicago was overwhelming against the league's best teams.

"I think we'll be seen as one of the best teams of all time," said Singletary.
