Woman dies on Wagon Train trail

Associated Press

MONTGOMERY — A 32-year-old Fort Worth area woman who "went into hock" so she could join the Texas Sesquicentennial Wagon Train died when her jeep went out of control, authorities said.

Pamela Burchelle, 32, of Newark, and her two children joined the Wagon Train when it started Jan. 2 in Sulphur Springs, officials said.

She was several miles behind the wagon train and was using a jeep to pull a horse trailer when the accident took place at about 1:40 p.m. Saturday.

Department of Public Safety spokesman David Wells said Burchelle lost control of the jeep when the trailer started "fishtailing" as the train was rounding a curve.

Another car was passing at the time, and the jeep struck it, ran off the road and lost the trailer, Wells said. Burchelle was thrown out and died instantly of a broken neck, he said.

The accident occurred on Farm to Market Road 149 about three miles outside Montgomery in Montgomery County, authorities said.

Burchelle's children were in a traveling schoolroom at the time of the accident, said a Wagon Train spokesman who declined to be identified.

"She went into hock to buy her horse and wagon for this train," the spokesman said. "She had sacrificed a lot to go on it."

The death is the Wagon Train's first since it began its six-month, 3,000-mile trek to about 120 Texas cities and towns.

Fire's damage estimated at $2.5 million

Associated Press

ARLINGTON — A fire damaged or destroyed 48 units of an apartment complex Sunday and left behind scores of homeless residents and at least $2.5 million in destruction, authorities said.

Arlington fire engineer Bill Clark said several people were rescued from the Summit Plaza, located just west of the University of Texas at Arlington, before firefighters arrived.

Two residents and one firefighter suffered minor injuries and were treated at the scene, Clark said.

Damage was estimated at $2 million to the building and at $500,000 to residents' belongings, Clark said.

Fire operations aide David McMullan said investigators believe the fire was sparked by gasoline fumes from a motorcycle fuel tank that a resident had brought inside to paint.

The fire, which was reported about 2:26 a.m., spread rapidly, apparently through a common attic area of the complex, Clark said. Although the fire was brought under control by dawn, firefighters remained at the scene throughout much of the day, he said.

By Sunday afternoon, authorities had accounted for 73 of the 78 residents listed in the burned apartments, but McMullan said officials believe the others were not at home when the fire started.

Twelve firefighting units and 56 firefighters were involved in fighting the blaze, Clark said.
