A&M men's tennis ready to make 'racket' in SWC

By KEN SURY
 Assistant Sports Editor

If optimism and enthusiasm were the basis for a Southwest Conference title, Texas A&M Men's Tennis Coach David Kent already would be holding the '86 trophy.

But winning matches are the surest way to gaining championships, and the Aggies will set out to do that in their first home matches of the spring against Pan American Friday at 1:30 p.m. at the Omar Smith Tennis Center.

Kent said he expects good things from his '86 squad, although it will be difficult to match last year's No. 11 national ranking. Gone from the team are Grant Connell, last year's No. 6 singles player in the nation and now on the Canadian amateur circuit, and Greg Hill, the No. 2 singles player for the Ags last year.

But Kent isn't worried about his team, which is ranked No. 15 in the preseason H.I.T.S. (Head Intercollegiate Tennis Standings) List.

"We've worked too hard and have too much talent not to play well (this year)," Kent said.

A large portion of A&M's talent is embodied in the Ags' No. 1 player, Kimmo Alkio, a three-time SWC singles champion and ranked 37th nationally among singles players.

"Everyone who came out to see Grant Connell play, will be just as excited watching Kimmo," Kent said. "In a lot of aspects he's as good as Grant."

"He's fun to watch and a great competitor. In his 3½ years at A&M, you can count his number of bad matches on one hand."

While Alkio fills the No. 1 singles spot for the Aggies, Kent said the key to being successful in the conference will depend on how well the No. 2 and 3 netters play.

The No. 2 spot will be manned by team captain Russ Simmons, a senior from Spring.

Simmons and junior Mark Smith currently are A&M's No. 1 doubles team and have qualified for the ITCA Nationals tournament in Houston next week.

Marcel Vos, a junior from Holland, is the Aggies' No. 3 singles player. Last year Vos and Hill teamed to win the No. 2 SWC doubles championship. This year he and Alkio will be A&M's No. 2 tandem.

Smith is A&M's No. 5 singles player, but although Kent is counting on solid singles play from the entire team, he said Smith's forte is his doubles with third-year partner Simmons.

"When he's (Smith) at his best (in doubles), he is far superior to anyone I've ever had," Kent said.

A&M's Marcel Vos goes on the run to hit a backhand during workouts in preparation for Friday's match against Pan American.

The No. 4 and 6 positions will be filled by sophomore Dean Johnson, from South Africa, and junior Dean Goldfine, a Floridian. Johnson and Goldfine also are A&M's No. 3 tandem.

Although A&M's experience is based in those six individuals, Kent said there is some new blood on the team that adds to its depth.

One new recruit Kent said he's excited about is Brent Haygarth, another South African.

"He's a fine player, an outstanding doubles player and he'll help us considerably," Kent said.

Haygarth is no stranger to the game of tennis. His mother, Rence Haygarth, was a semifinalist at Wimbledon in 1959 and Brent was a strong showing in the 1985 Wimbledon.

Freshman James Frank of Wichita Falls and sophomore Chris Starnes of Houston rounded out the remainder of the team.

The road to a SWC Championship will not be a cakewalk, but more of a mountain climb since SMU is nationally-ranked No. 2, Texas No. 8 and Arkansas No. 10.

But Kent said he has three reasons for his faith in the team.

"They're used to it (playing pressure games), they're good players and they work hard."

Eagles find a head coach

Ryan predicts quick success in Philadelphia

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Buddy Ryan, architect of the Chicago Bears' awesome defense, was named head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles Wednesday and promised to lead the NFL team into the playoffs within two years.

Ryan, after toiling in relative obscurity for most of his 18 years as a defensive specialist, was given a five-year contract for his first try as a head coach.

Eagles owner Norman Braman introduced Ryan, 52, as the best coach in the NFL who would give the Eagles "the winning consistency they lacked over the last few years."

Ryan promptly issued a prediction as bold as the Bears' attacking defensive strategy.

"It will not take the (full) five years (of my contract) to go to the playoffs," Ryan said. "I'm not going to wait that long. We'll be contenders in a year or so."

Bears Coach Mike Ditka wasn't upset by Ryan's departure.

"The Bears played challenging, aggressive defense in the 60s," Ditka said. "It didn't start when Buddy came here, and it won't end because Buddy left here."

Ryan was the third choice in Bra-man's six-week hunt for a successor to Marion Campbell, whom he fired less than a week before the end of the season.

Braman first sought David Shula, 26-year-old son of Miami Dolphins Coach Don Shula, and an assistant to his dad with the Dolphins. Negotiations collapsed when young Shula refused to accept a five-year option on a five-year contract.

Then came Jim Mora, highly successful coach of the United States Football League Baltimore Stars. Just when it seemed Mora would be the new coach, there was an unexplained hitch. Mora on Tuesday was named head coach of the New Orleans Saints.

Braman said Ryan first caught his attention Dec. 1 in an article in the New York Times. The subsequent feat of the Bears shutting out playoff opponents vaulted him into contention for the Eagles' job.

Ryan's selection was surprising since Braman had been seeking an offensive-minded coach who could help the puncheon Eagles put pressure on the board. He had said he did not want a defensive specialist.

Braman said he wasn't concerned that Ryan's status as a defensive coach would hurt his offensive game plan.

"He offers something to this game that is really unique," Braman said. "He's an innovator. He's an individual who approaches this game by attacking it. He's changed the whole concept of defense and what you see in Philadelphia is a new concept of offense as well."

"I expect (Ryan) will be the next Vince Lombardi of the National Football League."

Ryan became known for his defense, a 5-1-5 set named after the jersey number of a former player.

Ryan said the Eagles, who played a 3-4 under Campbell in posting a 9 record last season, would switch to the "46," and predicted it would take "35 minutes" to do it.
