Doctor says kidney failure killed Autumn Hills patient

Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO - A former assistant medical examiner in Galveston County testified Monday in a nursing home murder trial he could not support the state's claim that an elderly patient died of widespread infection.

Dr. William McCormick said he reviewed records of Autumn Hills nursing home, looked at autopsy results on the body of patient Edna Mae Witt and did lab tests himself. "I think she died of renal (kidney) failure," McCormick said. "I found nothing anatomically to suggest she had septicemia (infection).

McCormick gave the testimony in the state's murder-by-neglect case against Autumn Hills Convalescent Centers Inc. and four of its current and former employees.

They are charged with murder in the Nov. 20, 1978, death of Elnora Breed. The 87-year-old woman died 47 days after entering an Autumn Hills nursing home in Texas City.

The defendants also are charged in Witt's October 1078, death at the in Witt's October 1978 death at Autumn Hills. However, they are not being tried in her death. Prosecution witnesses have testified Witt died of septicemia. Defense experts claim she died of kidney failure.

McCormick said state nursing home inspector Betty Korndorffer and prosecutor David Marks visited him sometime in 1979 to discuss the Witt case.

Korndorffer testified earlier the nursing home was a "mess" in 1978 and that the state withheld funds from the facility because of substandard conditions.

McCormick said Korndorffer and Marks presented him with portions of Witt's nursing home chart "and asked what my thoughts were and what I would suggest."

"The patient had significant renal problems and very likely was in renal rolling." he said.

failure," he said. McCormick said he took "strong exception" to Bexar County medical examiner Dr. Vincent DiMaio's testimony that bedsores are the result of poor nursing care. DiMaio, a pros-ecution witness, testified that Breed died of infection and starvation.

"What Dr. DiMaio said was totally unjustified," McCormick said. "I felt very strongly that Dr. DiMaio was
