Tech rubs out UT's title hopes, 63-62

Associated Press

AUSTIN — Texas Tech, buried in the middle of the Southwest Conference pack, put the pressure on front-runner Texas Sunday and came out on top.

With outright possession of the SWC crown on the line, Texas missed a key rebound that turned into DeWayne Chism's tip-in with two seconds left for a 63-62 Red Raider victory.

The Longhorns, 12-4 and 17-10 overall, fell into a three-way tie for the conference title, their first since sharing it with Arkansas in 1979. Texas Christian and Texas A&M also finished the regular season at 12-4.

Tech ended its regular season at 9-7, 14-13 overall.

"You have to remember Texas had a lot of pressure on them," Tech Coach Gerald Myers said. "There was a lot of emotion because of the championship situation."

Texas Coach Bob Weltlich reminded his players to be proud of their tri-championship, but berated them for lacking aggression on the boards.

"What (the whole game) comes down to is our not rebounding their last shot," Weltlich said. "That ball doesn't have a chance of going in and we just froze out there. But then, we didn't rebound well all day (grabbing 22 rebounds to 24 for Tech). We just seemed flat-footed."

As a result of the loss, Texas ended up with the No. 3 seed for the SWC postseason tournament and will play sixth-place Houston in the first round Friday night.

Other first-round games (seeds in parentheses) will match Texas Tech (5) vs. Southern Methodist (4), TCU (1) vs. Rice (8) and Texas A&M (2) vs. Arkansas (7).

Patrick Fairs gave Texas a 62-61 lead with a 15-foot jump shot with 10 seconds left in the game. But Tech brought the ball downcourt without calling a timeout and got the ball to hot-handed Tony Benford.

Benford missed a seven-foot jumper with five seconds left, but Chism muscled inside for the game-winning tip-in.

The Longhorns called time out with one second remaining, but couldn't get a shot off in time.

John Brownlee, who picked up his fourth foul with 8:48 left in the game, led Texas with 20 points. Fairs added 14.

Benford was Tech's high scorer with 18 points, and Chism came off the bench to score 17.

Benford, who got 12 first-half points, scored Tech's last four baskets of the half to give the Red Raiders a 30-25 lead at halftime.

Tech center Ray Irvin, playing aggressively underneath against Brownlee, got into foul trouble early.

Ags win Bayou Classic to begin '86 season

By CHAREAN WILLIAMS

HOUMA, La. — Thirty-degree temperatures combined with a 20 mph wind don't mix with softball.

But Texas A&M defeated both the weather and six opponents during its season-opening weekend to win the Bayou Classic.

"It was too cold to be playing softball," A&M Coach Bob Brock said. "We showed some mental toughness."

The Aggies went 6-0 in the tournament, outscoring their opponents 27-1.

"I'm happy with the way things turned out, but we found some things we need to work on," Brock said.

"We didn't hit the ball as well as we need to. I think we only hit .205 as a team. The weather had at least a little to do our lack of hitting."

A&M defeated Mississippi State 6-0 in the first game as third baseman Cindy Cooper had a three-run homer, and freshman pitcher Julie Carpenter allowed only one hit while striking out 10.

Carpenter didn't allow a run in the tourney, going 3-0.

"I think there were a lot of people that doubted Julie could play on the collegiate level," Brock said. "I think she showed this weekend that not only can she pitch, but she can strikeout some people."

"Shawn (Andaya) pitched great this weekend too. We are fixing to have a great one-two punch with Julie and Shawn."

Saturday morning against Southwestern Louisiana, the game was tied 1-1 in the bottom of the seventh. Andaya hit a home run on the first pitch to give the Ags a 2-1 win and herself a 2-0 pitching mark.

In the championship game against Louisiana Tech, Andaya pitched a no-hitter as the Ags won 6-0.

A&M, which lost to the Bulldogs in regional play last season to end its bid for a seventh straight trip to the NCAA World Series, got two hits from freshman catcher Carrie Heightley.

"I don't know if it was revenge or not," Brock said. "It was nice to win. It felt good, but it felt just like another win."

Depth-thin Ag women finish 8th in SWC meet

By KEN SURY
Assistant Sports Editor

AUSTIN — The black cloud which has hung over the Texas A&M women's swimming team this year traveled with the team to Austin this weekend to the Southwest Conference Women's Swimming Championships.

The Aggies finished last in the eight-team SWC meet. Baylor does not have a swimming program.

The week before the championships, A&M distance swimmer Suzanne Fiori tripped and broke her arm while walking across campus. That injury, one of several injuries and illnesses that have hampered A&M's squad this year, dropped the squad to just four swimmers and diver Terri Hurley.

"It's a disappointment," A&M Swimming Coach Mel Nash said of the team's hopes to follow its 11th-place national ranking of last year. "But there's nothing you can do about it. It's not a case of where you can point a finger at anybody."

Despite a nagging cough throughout the week, senior Jody Tanner turned in A&M's best results with a third-place finish in the 50-yard freestyle and a fourth place in the 100-yard backstroke.

Third-ranked Texas easily won the meet, scoring 1,151 points to second-place SMU's 607.5. Houston placed third with 588.5 points and TCU fourth with 326.
