Required GPR set by Student Senate for SG appointees

By FRANK SMITH
Staff Writer

Executive appointees in Student Government will have to meet a grade requirement in the future as a result of a bill passed Wednesday night by the Student Senate.

The senate also heard the first reading of a bill recommending that future student elections be modeled after national elections with presidential and vice presidential candidates running together on the same ticket.

The grade legislation provides that each executive appointee have at least a 2.25 overall grade-point ratio at the time of appointment and that he maintain at least a 2.0 GPR each semester.

Student senators and judicial board members already are required to keep an overall 2.25 GPR.

In the past, however, no provisions regarding the grades of executive appointees existed.

The bill met with some opposition when brought to the senate floor.

Miles Bradshaw, senate speaker pro tempore, said, "Personally, I'm against any kind of grade requirements."

He said he thinks such requirements are intended to "weed out" appointees.

But Sen. David Ortega told the senate that he favors equality with regard to grade requirements among the branches of Student Government.

The bill was passed by voice vote after 30 minutes of debate.

About five "nays" were heard.

In other business, the senate heard the introduction of the bill recommending a presidential ticket.

Under the current system, the executive vice president is appointed by the student body president.

The bill, if passed, will be placed on the ballot at the student elections in the form of a constitutional amendment.

If approved by the students, it would go into effect for next spring's elections.

Sen. Jim Atkins, one of three co-sponsors of the bill, said: "By having the (executive) vice president of Student Government be elected with the president it would lead to more credibility for the office and the vice president will now have the support of the student body, because they got to vote for him."
