'New breed' of golfers set for Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Tradition in the Masters, at least as overpowering as the beauty of the setting, is facing a challenge from a band of fiercely competitive young men, some of whom had never even seen the Augusta National Golf Club before.
 "We're a new breed," said Dan Forsman, a winner on the PGA tour earlier this season who will make his first Masters start Thursday on a course that once belonged to the likes of Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, and before them, Sam Snead and Ben Hogan.
 "We have been cognizant of our ability. We're aware of the past and the history of the game, but we're not intimidated by it."
 "We are not afraid to tee it up with the established players and go head to head," said Forsman, one of a group of young stars who have, over the last few years, begun to supplant some of the game's more familiar names.

He is among those to be considered a contender in the 50th Masters, the first of the year's four major tournaments.
 "They've showed they can win," Andy Bean said of the upstarts. "With the level of competition we have on the tour now, with the experience they get from the college programs, they're ready to win when they join the tour."
 The select international field includes Scott Verplank and nine other amateurs, along with 78 professionals, including such new breed players as Bob Tway, Donnie Hammond and Kenny Knox, all winners this year and all making their first appearance in golf's annual spring rites.
 Seve Ballesteros of Spain, twice a winner here, is underplayed. Banned from the American PGA tour for a year, he has had only nine rounds of competitive golf this year.
 Bernhard Langer of West Germany, the defending champion, is overplayed. Attempting to cram as many American appearances as possible into a limited time period, he has played 11 tournaments in 13 weeks.
 Calvin Peete, the only two-time winner on the American tour this year, said the hilly course "isn't suited to my game, or my game isn't suited to Augusta National."
 Nicklaus, the 46-year-old Golden Bear who has won a record five Masters, and Tom Watson, twice a Masters winner, are still struggling.

Whalers, Rangers, Leafs gain NHL playoff upsets

(AP) — The New York Rangers and Hartford Whalers, teams that struggled down to the last weekend to make the Stanley Cup playoffs, and the record-poor Toronto Maple Leafs pulled off opening-night upsets as three division champions went down in the NHL playoffs Wednesday night.
 The Rangers, who didn't clinch a playoff berth until the next-to-last day of the season, defeated the Patrick Division champion Philadelphia Flyers 6-2.
 The Whalers, whose status was also in question until the end of the season, knocked off Adams Division champion Quebec 3-2 in overtime to win their first Stanley Cup playoff game ever. The only other time they had made an appearance in the playoffs was in 1979.
 The Maple Leafs, whose 25-48-7 record was the worst among the 16 Stanley Cup playoff teams, downed the Norris Division champion Chicago Blackhawks 5-3.
 In other early first-round action, the Washington Capitals trimmed the New York Islanders 3-1 in the Patrick; the Montreal Canadiens beat the Boston Bruins 3-1 in the Adams Division and the St. Louis Blues stopped the Minnesota North Stars 2-1 in the Norris.
 In late playoff games, Edmonton blasted Vancouver 7-3 and Calgary crushed Winnipeg 5-1 in the Smythe Division.

The Flyers had the NHL's second-best record during the regular season.
Capitals 3, Islanders 1
 Bob Carpenter, considered a doubtful starter because of a knee injury, scored the winning goal at 11:46 of the second period as Washington defeated the Islanders.
 Carpenter suffered a hyperextended right knee in Sunday's final regular season game. He skated for the first time Tuesday, and then kept alive his streak of never having missed a game in his five NHL seasons. Washington's Mike Gartner, who had an arthroscopic knee operation on March 28, also returned to action.
 Carpenter's backhanded rebound of a Scott Stevens shot gave Washington a 2-1 lead and Dave Christian added an insurance tally at 12:16 of the third period.
Canadiens 3, Bruins 1
 Bobby Smith scored two of three second-period goals for Montreal, while rookie goaltender Patrick Roy provided several key saves to lead the Canadiens over the Bruins.
 Smith scored his first goal on a wrist shot from the faceoff circle that beat Bruins goaltender Pat Riggin past the glove hand at 6:53. His second goal came on a backhand at 11:28.
 Mike McPhee gave Montreal a three-goal cushion five minutes later.

Roy was working on a shutout until Gord Kluzak batted a rebound through the goalie's legs with 1:23 remaining in the third period as power play.
Whalers 3, Nordiques 2
 Sylvain Turgeon scored at 2:38 in overtime to boost the Whalers over the Nordiques. Turgeon's winning goal beat Quebec goaltender Malarchuk.
 Brent Ashton had sent the Whalers into overtime when he tied the game for Quebec at 12:47 of the third period. Ashton took a drop pass from Peter Stastny at the edge of the faceoff circle and drilled a slapshot past Mike Liut.
 The Whalers had taken a 2-1 lead when former Nordique John Anderson notched a power-play goal midway through the third period.
Leafs 5, Blackhawks 3
 Steve Thomas scored two goals and Gary Leeman and Walt Dubny scored key third-period goals to lead the Maple Leafs over the Blackhawks.
 Leeman, who assisted on four other goals, broke a 2-2 tie at 6:08 of the third period and Poddighe scored at 9:28. Thomas, who scored the game's first goal, added a power play goal at 17:47 before Tom Lysiak added a consolation Chicago goal at 18:29.
Blues 2, North Stars 1
 Doug Gilmour's short-hat breakthrough goal with 12:54 left in the game lifted the Blues over the Stars.
 Goaltender Rick Wamsley made 27 saves as the Blues turned back the same Norris Division rivals who swept them out of last year's NHL playoffs.
 The Blues executed their grinding offense to perfection most of the game.

Spurs earn playoff spot with victory over Suns

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Mike Mitchell scored 22 points and Artis Gilmore had eight of his 20 in the fourth quarter as the San Antonio Spurs claimed the eighth and final playoff berth in the NBA's Western Conference with a 114-102 victory over the Phoenix Suns Wednesday night.
 The loss eliminated Phoenix from playoff contention for the first time in nine seasons.
 San Antonio, playoff-bound despite a 34-47 record that is the worst in the history of the franchise, took the lead for good in the second quarter.
 Steve Johnson, who had seven of his 19 points in the period, triggered a late 10-2 run for a 60-53 Spurs' halftime lead.
 Mitchell's eight points in the third period helped put San Antonio ahead 86-76.
 Phoenix, down 98-82 with 9:35 remaining in the game, closed to 100-92 on Alvan Adams' jumper with 5:59 to go.
 Gilmore then hit a layup and two free throws, Mitchell had a three-point play and Gilmore added back-to-back hook shots for a 111-97 lead with 2:45 left.
 Wes Matthews finished with 14 points while Alvin Robertson had 11 for the Spurs, who won for just the fourth time in 25 games.
