Rangers blast Brewers 10-1 behind 15 hits, 4 home runs

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Texas Rangers bombed Milwaukee pitchers for four home runs and 15 hits on their way to a 10-1 victory in the Brewers' rain-delayed home opener.

The start of the game at Milwaukee County Stadium was delayed two hours, nine minutes by rain. The attendance was listed at 52,478 but about half the ticket-holders didn't wait out the delay.

Brewers bats were silenced for eight innings by the right arm of Ed Correa, who at 19 years, 11 months and 16 days is the youngest player in the major leagues.

American League

"I feel confident," Correa said. "I had it in my mind that I was a big leaguer."

"It's kind of hard sitting around for a couple of hours, but it worked," Correa added. "I was rushing my tempo a little early in the game, so I had to slow myself down."

Texas Manager Bobby Valentine said that Correa during the delay "sat around, read the paper and went over the hitters. Then he went out and did an outstanding job."

Correa, 1-1, turned in three-hit, seven-walk, five-strikeout performance.

"He was an excellent pitcher," Milwaukee Manager George Bamberger said. "He changed speeds, really threw the ball good. It's the worst game we played all spring."

Paul Householder, who went 0-for-3, said Correa wasn't overpowering but good enough to give the Brewers their fourth consecutive loss.

"He threw strikes," Householder said. "We just didn't hit the ball. We're just not scoring runs. There's no reason to panic, but these losses add up. Now's the time to turn it around."

Milwaukee starter Tim Leary, 1-1, gave up four runs and two home runs in 4½ innings. Darrell Porter and Oddibe McDowell each hit home runs off Leary.

"I thought he was going to have a good day," Bamberger said. "All of a sudden, they started pecking away at him."

Texas had four home runs in a 15-hit assault on four pitchers.

Porter's homer with the bases empty in the second inning gave the Rangers a 1-0 lead, and they scored twice in the third before McDowell led off the fourth with a solo homer.

Texas also got a solo homer from Steve Buechele in the eighth and a three-run blow from Larry Parrish capped a five-run ninth.

Correa started the eighth with a shutout, but he was when Paul Molitor walked, went to third on a walk and pitched and scored on a double by Billy Jo Robinson.

Mitch Williams pitched the ninth for Texas.

The Rangers made it 3-0 in the third after Leary pitched the bases off Leary on a walk to McDowell and scored by Scott Fletcher and Pete O'Brien.

He drove in Tony Gwynn with a two-out pinch single. Gwynn had reached second when left fielder Ken Landreaux dropped his liner for a two-base error.
