Health center gets $5,000 endowment

The Texas A&M Student Aggie Club presented a $5,000 "Endowment for Health Center Excellence" to the A.P. Beutel Health Center Tuesday morning at a ceremony in Athletic Director Jackie Sherrill's office.

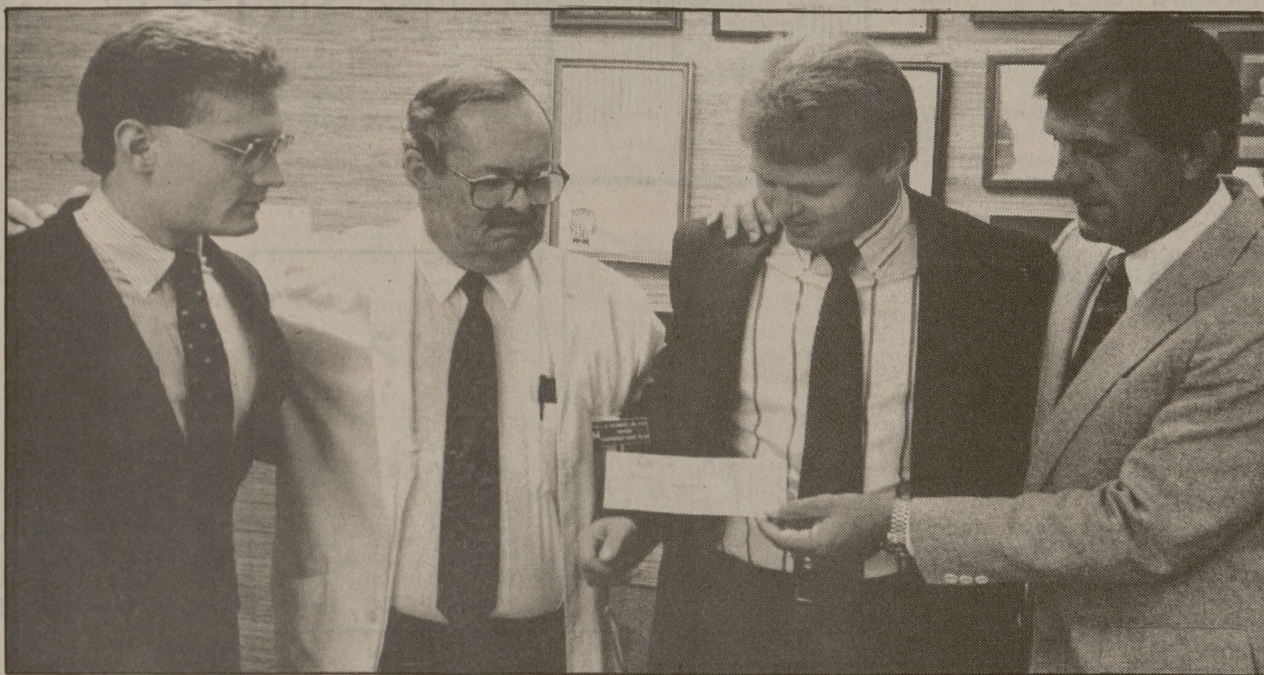

The money for the endowment was raised from the sale of 12th Man sweatshirts, said Rusty Riley, president of the Student Aggie Club.

"We wanted to get into other areas of student services besides athletics," Riley said.

Dr. Claude Goswick, director of the health center, said the health center's current budget of $2.4 million is funded through student health center and student service fees. However, these funds need to be supplemented, he said.

Goswick said he asked Student Government to help raise an endowment for the health center. He said the money will be used to upgrade staff and services, for incentive bonuses for health center staff members and to acquire equipment.

Mills Roberts, vice president of the finance committee, said Student Government's goal is to raise an endowment of $500,000 over the next five years. Next year Student Gov-

Gary J. Martin, officer for the Texas A&M Development Foundation, said the endowment is special because it is student-initiated.

"This endowment is particularly meaningful to us," he said. "Most endowments come from older graduates, but we also need the support of students and recent graduates."
