Son, 27, charged in holiday slayings of mother, sister

HAWKINS (AP) — A 27-year-old man was charged with murder Monday in the slayings of his mother and sister, who were shot and stabbed when a Father's Day quarrel turned into a bloodbath, authorities said.

Sunday's violence also resulted in injuries to three other relatives.

Paul Owen Beasley Jr. was being held in the Wood County Jail on two counts of murder, said Teri Fox, a Wood County sheriff's dispatcher. Bond was set at $1 million.

The slayings apparently stemmed from an ongoing family dispute, said Jimmy Roberts, chief sheriff's deputy.

Beasley's mother, Ruth Johnson Beasley, 62, and his sister, Linda Beasley Birkinbine, 37, of Euless, died of gunshot wounds to the face and throat, Roberts said. Both also had been stabbed, according to the investigator.

"There are indications of both knife and gun wounds, but we cannot tell which (wounds) are guns and which are knives," Roberts said.

Paul Owen Beasley Sr., 70, was in critical condition Monday at Tyler Medical Center after suffering a gunshot to the head and a cut on his neck, Roberts said.

Beasley's 2-year-old nephew, Matthew Birkinbine was in stable condition with a lacerated throat. Chad Beasley, 9, of Arlington, was treated and released after breaking his leg as he escaped. Chad had been severely beaten, but escaped when he and Matthew were thrown out of a two-story window, Roberts said.

Beasley had gone to his parents' home to celebrate Father's Day when a family quarrel ensued and turned violent, Roberts said.

"It was a bloodbath," Roberts said. "Inside the house we found two shotguns, two knives and a pistol."

The weapons were sent to Dallas for forensic analysis, Roberts said.

Hawkins, a small East Texas town located north of Tyler, has been plagued by violence twice in just over a month.

Mothers sentenced to jail for fatal house fire

WHARTON (AP) — Two women who were at a bar when seven of their children died in a house fire received one-year jail terms Monday as terms of a plea bargain.

State District Judge Daniel Sklar sentenced Jacqueline Williams, 24, of El Campo, and Marsha Taylor Owens, 30, of Glen Flora, to one year in the Wharton County Jail for injury to a child.

Williams pleaded guilty to five counts of injury to a child while Owens pleaded guilty to two counts. The women were sentenced on each count, but the sentences will run concurrently, said Roland Carlson, Wharton County district clerk.

The women, who could have received up to 10 years in prison on each count, could be free on probation after six to eight months, Carlson said. They originally had pleaded innocent but changed their minds May 1 after a jury deadlocked 11-1 in favor of conviction.

RR commission OKs caboose rule

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission adopted a rule Monday requiring cabooses on longer trains carrying hazardous materials.

The rule becomes effective in six months, but railroad corporations may apply for a variance.

The commission said two "important changes" were made to the rule originally proposed by the commission in December 1985. There is no caboose requirement for trains of less than 2,000 feet in length, and the caboose requirement applies only to trains carrying hazardous materials that have the "greatest potential of serious harm to the public or the environment should a train wreck cause exposure to the materials."

The commission said statistics for 1985 show that Texas railroads experience twice the national average of hazardous materials incidents.
