Texas girl cared for in U.S.S.R.

MOSCOW (AP) — The official news agency Tass reported Wednesday that a Texas teen-ager who fell ill on a tour of the Soviet Union is being cared for at a Moscow hospital and said information about her condition was immediately relayed to U.S. Embassy officials here.
Lisa Riggs, 17, of Irving, collapsed Sunday night during her tour group's visit to the Moscow Circus and was taken to Botkin Hospital "within minutes," Tass said.
Tass said Dr. Galina Mishina, deputy chief doctor at the hospital, told the agency, "Two or three hours after the girl had been hospitalized embassy officials telephoned the clinic and received full information about the patient's condition."
The doctor, who noted that Riggs has suffered from asthma since she was three, was quoted as saying, "We believe that the aggravation of her condition was caused by the allergic reaction to the pollen of blossoming poplars and linden trees and flowers."
The girl's father, Gordon Riggs, is expected to arrive in Moscow Thursday night.
Tass said Western news media reported that Riggs had "vanished," and that there had been "no doctors at the hospital, so no one could inform the embassy of the patient's condition."
The Associated Press in Dallas quoted Riggs' mother Cheryl as saying that she learned from the U.S. Embassy in Moscow that her daughter was in a critical care unit but no doctors were available to give the embassy details of her condition.
Riggs' parents initially learned of her collapse from a teacher traveling with the group, Betty Salter, who telephoned the Riggs' home in the Dallas suburb of Irving.
Mishina said Riggs should be able to rejoin her tour group in seven to 10 days.
Tass quoted the daughter as saying, "My parents are coming to see me tomorrow. I'm all right now."

Reagan seeks Pentagon health care reform
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration has decided to pursue reform of the Pentagon's health care system by changing the manner in which more than 6 million dependents and retirees receive medical care.
The initiative calls for the Defense Department to solicit bids this fall from health maintenance organizations, insurance companies and other interested medical groups on contracts under which they would assume responsibility for dispensing care to military dependents and retirees for a set annual fee.
The Pentagon plans to require bidders to eliminate most of the fees now paid by dependents and retirees while offering more benefits.
The idea is that the coverage would be so attractive that dependents and retirees will enroll voluntarily, even though to do so will require them to use the contractor's physicians.
Child's condition critical; new heart needed
LOMA LINDA, Calif. (AP) — A Texas toddler who received a heart transplant fought for life Wednesday after the newly implanted organ failed to work properly, spurring doctors to seek a second heart donor.
"Nicky's condition is extremely critical," Loma Linda University Medical Center spokeswoman Anita Rockwell said in a prepared statement. "The outcome is uncertain . . . a search for another heart is in progress."
She said the boy's need for a donated heart was extremely urgent.
"Persons who have knowledge of an available heart or of the possibility of such a heart should contact their local organ procurement agency immediately," she said.
The 3-year-old, Nicky Carrizales of San Antonio, had suffered cardiomyopathy, a fatal degeneration of the heart muscle. He was one of two children awaiting transplants at Loma Linda.
1st quarter GNP shows 2.9 percent growth
WASHINGTON (AP) — The economy grew at a modest annual rate of 2.9 percent in the first three months of the year as further weakness in foreign trade forced the government Wednesday to scale back a more upbeat assessment of the economy's performance.
The Commerce Department said the gross national product, the broadest measure of economic health, was growing at a rate only slightly better than the weak 2.2 percent growth turned in during all of 1985.
The reduction in GNP growth from earlier estimates came from an upward revision in the country's foreign trade deficit.
Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker, commenting on the downward revision in the GNP figure, said it provided further evidence of the "seriousness of our trade deficit."
Stock market rebounds for mixed closing
NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rebounded from some early selling to finish mixed Wednesday, thanks to some late buying of blue chips.
The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down about 13 points at midday, closed with a 3.16 gain at 1,868.94.
Volume on the New York Stock Exchange slowed to 117.04 million shares from 123.09 million Tuesday.
The Dow Jones industrials dropped 8.41 points in the week's first two sessions.
