HL&P hearing asking for hike opens at PUC

AUSTIN (AP) — Houston Lighting & Power Co.'s rate hike hearing began Monday at the Public Utility Commission, but the case apparently is over for most of HL&P's customers.

The Houston City Council last week approved a $159 million increase that the company said it would not appeal. Without an appeal, the PUC has no authority over HL&P rates in Houston.

HL&P, which also serves many other Houston-area cities, initially asked for a $347 million increase.

The PUC hearing, expected to last several weeks, is for rates to be charged in unincorporated areas and in cities that set rates that HL&P wants to challenge.

Hugh Rice Kelly, HL&P general counsel, told PUC examiners Monday that the company wants the commission to enact the Houston-approved rates for all HL&P customers.

Fifty-one percent of HL&P's customers live in Houston.

The rates approved by the city of Houston and approximately 30 other cities include an overall 1.2 percent decrease in residential rates.

However, some residential customers will see an increase. The price for 1,000 kilowatt hours would go down from the current $80.37 to $79.95. Decreases will be seen in all residential bills of 1,000 kwh or less.

Customers who use more electricity will see increases. For example, the price of 1,500 kwh would go up from the current $122.76 to $123.37.

Adult magazines

Religious groups claim victory over sales in franchise stores

DALLAS (AP) — In Tyler, Texas, the sight of a bare-breasted woman in an ad for "Obsession" perfume was enough to zap Texas Monthly magazine temporarily from the shelves of local 7-Eleven stores.

At the University of Wisconsin at Madison, feminists raised a ruckus over girlie magazines on sale in the two student unions.

Across the country, chain stores like Revco, 7-Eleven and Thrifty have dropped from their merchandise Playboy, Penthouse and other adult magazines that have been mainstays for years.

"The phenomenon we are currently observing... is a trend in the last several years of the country moving to the right," said David Leibowitz, an analyst and senior vice president of American Securities in New York.

"It's a sign of the times and is not something I expect to last an extended period," he said.

But religious groups like the Mississippi-based National Federation for Decency believe the dropping of adult magazines from store racks marks a return to moral stability. Now they've set their sights on the Circle K Corp., a convenience store chain second in size only to Dallas-based Southland Corp.'s 7-Eleven convenience stores.

Since April, when Southland announced it was removing issues of Penthouse, Playboy and Forum from the 4,500 7-Elevens it owns and encouraging its 3,600 franchisees to do the same, bundles of letters have been arriving each week at the Phoenix, Ariz., office of Circle K senior Vice President Ray Cox.

But Cox said Circle K, which operates 3,435 outlets in 25 states, has no plans to follow Southland's lead and halt sales of the seven adult magazines it stocks. They are Penthouse, Playboy, Playgirl, Oui, Genesis, Gallery and Forum.

Another chain, the Lawson Co., which operates almost 700 convenience stores in Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and Pennsylvania, said a recent poll of its customers indicated 55 percent favored continued sales of adult magazines, with 35 percent opposed and 10 percent who didn't care. The company pulled the magazines for the three-week balloting and said it would resume sales after "re-evaluating our merchandizing strategies."

But Circle K and Lawson seem to be in the minority.

Revco D.S. Inc. — the nation's largest drug store chain — Rite Aid Discount Pharmacies, People's Drug Stores, Dart Drug Corp., Thrifty Drug & Discount Stores and Gray Drug Fair all followed 7-Eleven's lead.

But Wildmon says he isn't naive enough to expect to banish adult magazines from retail outlets — he just wants to make them as hard to get as they used to be.

"The difference between now and then is it was not socially acceptable. It was under the counter, it was in the sleazy shops, you got it from a sleazy person," he said in a telephone interview from his Tupelo, Miss., headquarters.
