Man charged in effort to burn wife to death

HOUSTON (AP) — A man accused of dousing his wife with gasoline and setting her ablaze was charged with attempted murder Tuesday, authorities said.

Shirley Smiley, 29, remained in Hermann Hospital's burn unit in critical condition Tuesday with second- and third-degree burns over 90 percent of her body, hospital spokeswoman Marijo Gordy said.

Smiley was attacked Monday afternoon in her Houston apartment, authorities said. Two children she was babysitting were not harmed and were picked up later by their parents, according to investigators.

Jackie Robinson Williams, 39, was arrested Tuesday morning in Sugar Land and then transferred to the Harris County Jail, said Robert Mackey, chief arson investigator for the Houston Fire Department.

Williams, who told authorities he was married to Smiley, remained in jail Tuesday in lieu of $100,000 bond, Mackey said.

Earl Nelson, a maintenance man in the apartment complex where the woman was attacked, was the first person to reach her Monday.

"At first I heard some screaming and I thought it was some kind of domestic fight," Nelson said. "I turned the corner and I heard someone screaming 'She's on fire, She's on fire,' and I turned around and saw this woman with flames all over her."

"I grabbed a rug (from the front door of an apartment) and the first thing I had to do was get her on the ground. Then I put the rug over her and smothered the flames."

Police said an area resident told them they saw a man buy a soft drink bottle full of gasoline at a nearby service station a few minutes before the woman was burned.

Controversial Galveston park billboards to get new slogan

GALVESTON (AP) — Two billboards criticized by some residents as projecting a wild image for a beach park will be altered to include a tamer slogan, but will keep photographs of a bathing beauty, officials say.

The billboards, erected two weeks ago on Interstate 45 between Dickinson and La Marque, promote Galveston's R.A. Apfel Park as a place "Not for the Tame."

The ads also include a photograph of a woman in a one-piece swimsuit lounging against a car.

Members of the Galveston Beach Park Board said they did not know about the billboards until they started receiving complaints from island citizens, some of whom claimed the signs were inappropriate, in poor taste and sexist.

Board chairman Meyer Reisberg said, "We had tons of people write to us and tell us they were disgusted, that the signs were sexist, very male-oriented."

Board members said some people believed the signs invited trouble at the park on Galveston Island's east end. Each weekend during the tourist season, the park caters mainly to thousands of young people.

Trustee Mary Ellen Reinartz said, "It's not a lawless beach where there's nothing but debauchery going on. We do have the public trust and I don't think the citizens of Galveston want the kind of image originally portrayed on the billboards of their town."

"I thought the combination of the slogan and the model together was what was such a problem," she said.

Reisberg said the signs will be changed by next week to include the new slogan, "Super Beach." The woman will remain.

Parking Systems Inc. of Houston, the company that holds the parking franchise at board-operated beaches on the island, hired an ad agency to erect the signs, which direct beachgoers to the appropriate parking areas.

Company representatives said they wanted to get the signs up before the July 4 weekend and did not know they had to get permission from the board, Reisberg said.

White turns down invitation to become member of GOP

AUSTIN (AP) — Thanks but no thanks, Texas Gov. Mark White said Tuesday after being invited to become a Republican.

Aides to the Democratic governor distributed copies of a fund-raising mailing from the Republican National Committee that was sent to the governor's mansion in Austin.

It included a "personal invitation" from President Reagan to become a sustaining member of the GOP and to contribute money. The invitation asked for donations of from $15 to $500 or more and urged recipients to help "the Republican Party in laying the foundation for a Republican victory in 1986."

White, who's seeking re-election against Republican Bill Clements, said he would stick with his own party.

In a letter to GOP National Chairman Frank Farenkopf Jr., White said Reagan hasn't been much help to Texas.

"The Republican administration in Washington has failed to respond to the crisis in this country brought about by falling oil prices caused by Saudi Arabia," the governor wrote.

Since the oil price plunge started last winter, White has urged President Reagan to impose a tariff on imported oil. He says failure to impose the tariff is making the nation once again dangerously dependent on foreign oil supplies.

"The administration's failure to respond to this crisis is crippling the oil industry in Texas and has put thousands of Texans out of work," White told Farenkopf.

The invitation White received said sustaining membership in the Republican Party meant White would be invited to participate in an annual membership survey, consulted on major issues, eligible for special reports on 1986 campaigns and candidates and "asked to take part in grass roots efforts to help the president pass his programs through Congress."

"Thank you again for your consideration," White replied, "but I will be working with the Democratic Party in laying the foundations for Democratic victories."

Man wins police molestation suit

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A jury has awarded a 20-year-old man more than $27,000 in damages after ruling in his favor in a civil rights suit against a police officer who the plaintiff claimed sexually molested him.

Reyes Ruiz alleged that Milton Barrera Jr. molested him between 1981 and 1983. Among his allegations, Ruiz said Barrera kissed him while they discussed the Bible.

An internal investigation by the San Antonio Police Department resulted in a 30-day suspension for Barrera. Criminal charges of sexual abuse against Barrera were dropped in February by the district attorney's office.

After the jury's decision was issued Monday, the police department said Barrera would remain an officer pending an examination of the verdict.

Barrera's attorney, Wayne Hampton, said the civil verdict should have no effect on the officer's job because the departmental investigation of Barrera's conduct is "all over and done with."

The attorney also said he will discuss the possibility of an appeal with Barrera later this week.

Hampton said Barrera is "judgment free" because he has no resources with which to pay the damages ordered by the jury. Barrera refused comment.

Ruiz said he does not care if he collects the money. He just wanted people to know the truth, he said

The jury awarded Ruiz $27,495 after deliberating five hours Thursday afternoon and Monday morning after the nine-day trial. Ruiz had testified he lived with Barrera as the officer's ward from 1981 to 1983.

Ruiz said he was sexually assaulted by Barrera after the officer won his trust with talk of God.

Prosecutor in UT sniper case 'could have won'

KERRVILLE (AP) — The prosecutor who led a grand jury probe into a fatal sniping at the University of Texas in 1966 says he would have fought an insanity defense and could have won a conviction if the killer had lived.

State District Judge Tom Blackwell, who was Travis County district attorney at the time, said Charles Whitman knew what he was doing when he opened fire on the UT campus tower in Austin on Aug. 1, 1966.

Whitman, 25, killed 16 people and injured 31 others before police gunned him down.

The grand jury agreed with the assessment that a pecan-sized tumor at the base of Whitman's brain, coupled with his taking of aspirin and amphetamines, led to the rampage.

"I would have had no problem prosecuting Mr. Whitman, if he had lived long enough to be arrested and indicted," Blackwell said Monday.

"I would have looked for a vigorous insanity defense," said Blackwell, a retired judge who is presiding in the organized crime trial of a Hill Country family.

"He wasn't a blithering idiot. He planned it. He was aware of the circumstances that he was probably going to lose his life when he got on that tower. I could have won," he said.
