USFL will suspend play until '87

NEW YORK (AP) — The USFL, struggling for money to survive, suspended play for a year Monday while it seeks a network television contract and an increase in the $3 it was awarded in its antitrust suit against the NFL.
 "The emotional decision was to play this year but sometimes you have to make a business decision," owner Lee Scarfone of the Tampa Bay Bandits said. "This was a business decision."
 He estimated the season would have cost the eight owners $40 million to $50 million, in addition to the $150 million they have already lost.

The 4-year-old league operated for three years with a spring-summer schedule. It was to have opened its first fall schedule Sept. 13 and the first training camps were set to open Aug. 14. The last time any USFL players suited up was July 1985 for the league championship game.
 Commissioner Harry Usher said the decision to suspend operations would leave the USFL free to consolidate operations this year, then seek a television contract for next year. And some owners were hoping that if the NFL goes on strike next year, the USFL could come in to fill the void.
 Meanwhile, he said, the USFL would seek a court injunction asking that the NFL be required to drop one of its three network TV contracts. He said the league also would seek a new hearing on damages because of what it considered to be the confusion some jurors had in deciding on the amount when they reached their verdict last Tuesday.

 Eatman, although Bob Woolf for Flutie, said his client sees no reason to be bound to the Generals by a personal services contract.
 But lesser players were aware it might mean the end of their ball careers, particularly in two-year layoff that might hurt their reactions to slow.

"I've got to start looking for other job. That's what it boils down to," said Jonathan Sutton, Tampa Bay Bandits' defensive back with the Baltimore Stallions. "I don't feel like I've got two years. Not at my age. I feel I have to get on with my career."
 The owners, meanwhile, were ready to let their players go.

 But as for this year, he said: "Because of the unbelievable impossibility of effectively playing pro football without a television agreement with a network, we are postponing play until the injunctive relief is granted or until the eradication of the confusion created by this $1 damage award."
 The immediate effect seemed to be confusion among players and even USFL employees.
 There was no immediate reaction from the stars who would be welcomed into the NFL immediately, like Walker, Bryant, Kelly and Irv

The immediate effect of the decision was to leave in limbo the contracts of the dozen or so remaining star-quality players, including Jim Kelly and Kelvin Bryant, all of whom could step into the NFL immediately. The USFL appointed a committee to discuss the situation with the league's players association but no immediate resolution was expected.
 Herschel Walker and Doug Flutie, two Heisman Trophy winners with the New Jersey Generals, have personal service contracts with Donald Trump, the club's owner.
 The agreement not to play this year came less than a week after a

Hosting Olympics possible for Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — The U.S. Olympic Festival completed its most successful performance and moved on Monday, leaving behind the groundwork for helping the city host more top amateur events, perhaps even the Olympics.
 City officials already had announced preliminary plans to seek the Olympic Games in the year 2000, and they now hope to host other major amateur events.
 The Olympic Festival, held in one of the nation's largest cities and adding "Olympic" to its title for the first time, drew a record crowd of more than 340,000 for the 10-day extravaganza. Officials figures won't be available for about a week, organizers said.

Men's volleyball was just part of the action in the U.S. Olympic Festival — '86 in Houston. Organizers say the Festival set attendance records with over 340,000 attending the various events.

The previous record was 250,000 at Indianapolis in 1982, and at Colorado Springs, Colo., in 1983.
 The recent major league All-Star Game in the Astrodome and the Olympic Festival added an estimated $25 million to the city's struggling economy.
 "We thought we could generate $20 million for the city if the All-Star Game could generate $4 million to $5 million," said Jack Kelly, executive director of the local organizing committee. "There has been a lot of talk among ourselves about the Olympics."
 Local organizers said 21 groups or companies committed $10,000 or more toward sponsorship of the event. Sponsorships surpassed $2 million.
 Attendance records were established in individual sports, including a sellout crowd of 15,630 for Sunday's final gymnastics performance in The Summit. The four-day gymnastics competition drew a record 47,274 fans.
 Ernest Deal, chairman of the local organizing committee, said his group hopes to use the momentum from the Olympic Festival to draw other top amateur events to the city, including the Olympic Games.
 "We plan in the next couple of weeks to sit down with Mayor (Kathy) Whitmire and make recommendations," Deal said. "One of those recommendations will be to form an ongoing effort to take advantage of the momentum from the Festival."
 The Olympics in the year 2000 apparently would be the first chance Houston has to bid for the event.
 The 1988 Olympic Games are scheduled for Seoul, South Korea and the host for the 1992 Games will be announced in October by the International Olympic Committee.

A&M's Heard to begin sprint trip in Europe

Texas A&M sophomore Floyd Heard leaves for Europe meets today after finishing second in the 200-meter dash in the U.S. Olympic Festival in Houston.
 Heard was .05 seconds off Olympic silver medalist Kirk Baptiste's winning time of 20.41.
 A&M assistant track coach Ted Nelson said Heard was disappointed to have his personal streak of four 200 dash wins broken, but added, "We knew it would be a tough race. Baptiste's from Houston, so it was a hometown boy running on a home track. We knew he'd be tough."
 "But (Baptiste) is no one to be ashamed of losing to."
 Heard, the NCAA 200-meter champion, also had problems in the 400-meter relay Saturday, as he stepped on the lane line and caused the South team to be disqualified from the race.
 Nelson said in international meets a runner can't step on the line during the race, while in NCAA competition a runner can step on the line once, but not for two consecutive steps.
 Heard will be running with the Team Adidas group in Europe. Joining Heard are Lee MacRae, who was part of the winning East 400 squad, John Marshall of Villanova, and Arkansas' Roddie Haley, the Southwest Conference 400-meter dash champion.
 The group's tentative itinerary looks like this: Aug. 8, London; Aug. 11, Budapest, Hungary; Aug. 13, Zurich, Switzerland; Aug. 15, West Berlin; and Aug. 17, Cologne, West Germany.

Aggies win in tennis action

Members of the Texas A&M tennis teams figured prominently in the final results of the Texas A&M Open Tennis Tournament which concluded Sunday.
 Former player Kimmo Alkio, who was the Southwest Conference men's singles champion this year, defeated Den Bishop of Wichita Falls, 6-2, 6-3 to grab the men's championship singles title.
 Bishop plays for the SMU tennis squad.
 In the women's championship singles match, A&M junior Kay Labuschagne beat teammate Gaye Lynne Gensler, 6-4, 6-2. The pair teamed up to win the women's championship doubles final, defeating sophomore Karen Marshall and soon-to-be freshman Cindy Crawford, 6-2.
 Texas A&M student Bobby Perez of the A&M Judo Club placed first in his division at the Austin Aquafest Judo Classic Tournament Saturday.
 Perez finished first among 12 competitors in the 132-pound senior division. The winner of the division then fought in the round-robin Grand Master competition.
 He finished fifth in Grand Master play.
