USFL talent should make impact in NFL

The big-name USFL players like Herschel Walker and Kelvin Bryant may have some significant impact on the NFL this year in the opinion of club officials.

However, they see no major changes in the NFL power structure because of the influx of players from the idle USFL.

"I think Herschel Walker will have an impact, he's one of the best players in professional football," Chicago Bears Director of Player Personnel Bill Tobin said. "Same with Kelvin Bryant. But this wild scramble to sign USFL players is a farce."

In four days, more than 30 former USFL players have signed with NFL clubs. Besides Walker, Bryant, Irv Eatman and possibly Jim Kelly, Tobin said 20-22 players at most will be with NFL teams when the season begins.

"Many of the best players in that league came out last year," Tobin said. "We got ours out last year."

The NFL owners overwhelming rejected a proposal to expand their rosters from 45 to 49 players on Wednesday, but are allowing a two-game exemption for new signees from the USFL to win NFL berths. Teams must reduce their rosters to 60 by next Tuesday.

Along with former Arizona Outlaws guard Tom Thayer and former Chicago Blitz tight end Tim Wrightman, 77 other former USFLers jumped last year, including standout quarterbacks Bobby Hebert (New Orleans) and Steve Young (Tampa Bay), running backs Maurice Carthon (New York Giants), Craig James (New England), and Mike Rozier (Houston) and punter Sean Landetta (Giants).

"They don't carry their Heisman Trophies on their helmets," said Giants General Manager George Young about this year's USFL newcomers. "They have to prove themselves just like everybody else."

The Cowboys were happy with their contract with Walker, an estimated $1 million a year for five years, but some say he won't make that big of a splash.

"I don't think so," said CBS sportscaster and former Oakland Raiders Coach John Madden about Walker's influence. "I don't think he'll have as big an impact as people say."

Cowboy president says he won't trade Dorsett

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Dallas Cowboys President Tex Schramm said Thursday he will not trade Tony Dorsett even though the 10-year veteran running back fumed over Herschel Walker's five-year, $5 million contract.

"I told him I didn't even intend to talk about trading him," Schramm said after meeting with Dorsett. "We'd never trade Tony. He is too much a part of our organization."

Dorsett said he wanted to be traded or given a raise in view of the deal made with Walker, a refugee from the hibernating USFL who came to terms Wednesday. Dorsett warned that if his demands were not met, he could be a "disruptive force" on the Cowboys.

Schramm told The Associated Press on Thursday: "Tony would like to pull back what he said. He feels sorry he let it flow out. He didn't mean it. He was just mad and being egged on by the media."

Dorsett, who receives an annual salary of about $450,000 plus fringe benefits, agreed he got out of control.

However, Dorsett did not apologize. "My feelings haven't changed a great deal," Dorsett said. "I had a nice conversation with Tex so they would know where my head is at and I know where they are at. I think the contract surprised everybody and I showed some immaturity. It was a fit of rage."

Asked if he would take back what he said yesterday, Dorsett said, "I would take back yesterday. Instead of saying things publicly I should have gone behind closed doors and I might have handled it a lot better. Today is a new day."

Dorsett added, "I would like to be traded but it was uncharacteristic of me. Then Dorsett laughed."

Dorsett did not repeat he wanted to be traded but did not take it back. Asked about the reaction of fans, he said, "I'm not worried about the boo birds. They don't put me and butter on the table. They have a tendency to forgive and forget."

Schramm said things would fine once Walker gets back to the field. "Things will calm down, life goes on," Schramm said. "We've got a football game coming up."

Walker, who is expected to practice in a Cowboys' uniform for the first time today, agreed to a

Kosar hopes second return to Florida to be Miami's vice KIRTLAND, Ohio (AP) — Bernie Kosar should be able to enjoy his second trip back to his old college town much more than the first one.

Kosar was a rookie quarterback playing in his first National Football League playoff game last January when he nearly guided the Cleveland Browns to an upset of the Miami Dolphins. The Browns return to Miami tonight for an exhibition game.

"The circumstances are a little different, not being a playoff game," the 22-year-old Kosar said Wednesday at the Browns' Lakeland Community College training camp. "It's fun to go back where I played college ball, and I'm looking forward to it."

Kosar was quarterback of the University of Miami's national championship team in 1983. He had two years of college eligibility remaining when he graduated early and joined the Browns in the NFL's supplemental draft last summer.

The publicity surrounding his sudden arrival in the NFL brought the soft-spoken Kosar more attention than he would have liked. He says that has dwindled this summer.

"It's a little less hectic this season," he said. "A lot of the peripheral things that were bothering me last year have somewhat gone away. It's left me better able to concentrate on the football aspect of things, which is the important thing about training camp."

His statistics were respectable in 1985, but far from overwhelming, as he completed 124 of 248 passes, exactly 50 percent, for 1,578 yards, eight touchdowns and seven interceptions.

Coach Marty Schottenheimer tried to keep the pressure off his young quarterback by relying heavily on running backs Kevin Mack and Earnest Byner, who became a third duo in NFL history to rush for 1,000 yards each.

This year, however, Schottenheimer will no longer coddle Kosar. New offensive coordinator Lindy Buntz, who helped the Cincinnati Bengals to the Super Bowl in 1985, is installing a complicated pass-oriented offense that gives each receiver a number of options on every pass play.

The running game and a strong defense helped the Browns post an 8-8 record in 1985, good enough to win the weak American Conference Central Division. In the playoff game at the Orange Bowl against heavily favored Miami, Kosar threw a 19-yard touchdown pass to Orelus Williams to help the Browns to a 21-3 lead before the Dolphins rallied for a 24-21 victory.

Yankee pitcher puts queries to rest about playing at 43

NEW YORK (AP) — The question was put to Tommy John not once, but twice.

If he continued to pitch the way he was, how could he walk away from baseball next year, even at the age of 43?

"You guys don't believe me, do you?" he asked, laughing. "I've had great fun, really. The ovations are great. . . . Walk away? Sandy (Koufax) did it, and I gave my word."

Wednesday night, John worked his second straight scoreless outing of seven innings-plus since coming off the disabled list, raising his record to 5-1.

While on the disabled list for two months with a strained Achilles tendon, however, John accepted a job at the University of North Carolina as pitching coach. He starts next season.

There arises the anomaly of Tommy John's career. At 43, he still believed he could pitch, or he says he wouldn't have tried out for the Yankees in spring training. Yet, feeling he still could win ballgames, he decided to pitch.

"Richard Petty (the race driver) had a very good theory about quitting," John said. "If you're coming off a down year, you always think you can do better. If you're coming off a good year, you say to yourself that you can still do it. With that in mind, you'd never quit."

"My wife, Sally, and I talked it over. Our kids are at the age (11, 9, 7 and 4) where I'm needed at home more. We just sat down and decided," John said.

In the two starts since coming off the disabled list, John has pitched 15 consecutive scoreless innings against Kansas City and Cleveland.

"I always believed I could pitch like this," John said. "If I didn't, I wouldn't have tried out last spring. I would have just sat home and collected my money from California."
